PITIFUL PICTURE OF VAIN STRUGGLE

Corpse of Commander Discovered Near Hammer Which Tapped Out Vain Appeals.

Boston, March 19.—(AP)—The torpedo room of the submarine S-4 in which six men lived for 72 hours after the vessel was sent to the bottom in collision off Provincetown, December 17, gave up its story today.

Naval officers entered the compartment after the submersible, raised from the ocean bed on Saturday, had been drydocked at the Boston navy yard, and, from the dismal evidence found therein, pieced together a tragedy on which the interest of a nation was centered for three days last winter.

The six bodies were found and one of them, that of Lieutenant Graham Newell Fitch, of Washington, D. C., was identified. In other parts of the ship two other bodies were recovered, completing the roster of death. The entire company of 40 men perished when the coastguard destroyer Paulding rammed and sank the S-4. During the salvage operations 32 bodies were taken from the hull.

Evidence of a desperate fight for life was seen in devices by which the imprisoned men had striven to shut out the water leaking into their chamber from the battery room adjoining. The water-tight door between the compartments had been closed and dogged tight. A lead maul had been used to batter down the dogs, and a large pinchbar was wedged against the door.

A glass headlight in the door apparently had let water in and to shut this leakage out the men had placed a piece of rubber above the glass and secured it with a wooden block.

The preliminary search of the torpedo room today revealed no written records or diaries. Further search will be made by a naval board of investigation when the interior of the vessel is in better condition.

The bodies of Lieutenant Fitch and his five men were all found on deck, which was covered with gray mud and four inches of water. Investigating officers said it was apparent that all of the men but one had awaited death quietly in their berths, conserving their energy that they might consume as little as possible of the previous air. The exception was one man found at the foot of the torpedo hatch ladder, gripping the ladder with his right hand. The body of another man lay against this one, with the head resting on its chest.

Lieutenant Fitch's body was lying on its back on the deck under the work bench, which is on starboard side forward, just abaft the torpedo tubes. The head was pointing aft and the feet forward. The officer was identified by his naval academy class ring and sweater and his cap. He had been wearing khaki trousers and a submarine coat. One of his arctic shoes was still on a foot; the other lay near the body.

Three other bodies lay under the bunks in the after part of the torpedo room.

Most of the men had been without shoes and were party undressed. The blankets of all the bunks but one were disarranged as if the bunks had been occupied. The investigators said

Negro Church Pastor Facing Ouster Action

Officers Describe Him as Fit Only To Dance Black Bottom.

Describing their pastor as fit only to dance the black bottom and sing bass in the choir, six colored officers of the Mount Vernon Baptist church Monday afternoon petitioned Fulton superior court to enjoin Rev. W. M. Jones from further practice of his ministerial duties.

The plaintiffs also asked for dismissal of a court order secured by the past or to hold the mahogany tinted church organ, the large Bible, collection box, 25 chairs and five song books pending settlement of his back pay claim.

Rev. Jones "was not chosen according to ritualistic ordinances, and is actuated by motives conceived in rebellion to constituted authority," the petition says.

"This controversy originated through the activities of one who travels under guise of pastor, to wit, one W. M. Jones, who had demonstrated his total unfitness to enshroud himself with the cloth of the clergy," the petition continues.

"It is well night necessary to hold the said Jones when the collection is being taken up, and Pretender Jones maintains his office by virtue of five alleged deacons, his devoted lieutenants, rather than constituted church officers," declares the anti-pastor faction.

The suit names as defendants Rev. Jones, his alleged deacons and J. M. George, marshal of the municipal court, who issued the attachment a week ago.

Plaintiffs style the pastor "a troublemaker who studies only the instigation of dissension," and whose sole virtues are the above-named characteristics.

As asked under the plea Judge Virlyn B. Moore issued a temporary order restraining the municipal court from "entertaining further litigation in the matter," prohibiting Rev. Jones and his supporters from disturbing worship, enjoining the marshal from changing the status of the church property and setting March 24 as the hearing date.

MARINE AVIATORS ENGAGE SANDINO IN HOT SKIRMISH

Managua, Nicaragua, March 19.—(AP)—Marine aviators engaged a large group of Sandinistas northeast of Neuva Segovia today. The rebels fired on the planes and Captain Francis E. Pierce, an observer, was wounded in one foot. Michael Wodarzcyk, a gunnery sergeant, found a bullet hole in his parachute pack, but he was uninjured.

Captain Pierce's wound is not serious. He was brought here by plane.

The engagement took place in the vicinity where yesterday two marine planes were fired on. On that occasion a rifle bullet struck a bomb in one of the planes, but the bomb did not explode.

Apparently Sandino's followers are losing their fear of the planes and becoming bolder. Previously they made no attempt to shoot the American aviators but scuttled to cover in the jungle when they heard an airplane motor.

INDIANA COUPLE WEDDED 71 YEARS CELEBRATE EVENT

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Goshen, Ind., March 19.—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Clark, of Nappanee, celebrated their 71st wedding anniversary. Mr. Clark is 94 years old and his wife is 88. They have nine children, 25 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren and one great-great grandchild. Mr. Clark is a civil war veteran.

STYLE!

As variable as a woman's heart, it is of prime importance to the feminine mind to be in step with the moment's mood of color, cut and fabric. Styles for this spring long since have been accepted. The newest, freshest garments approved by Paris and American style centers now await your selection in Atlanta stores.

Today is "Style" day of the first annual Easter Festival—a seven-day season in which merchants offer their choicest creations in all lines in such attractive manner as to promote early buying. Read the advertisements in this issue of The Constitution. From gowns to lawn mowers, they represent the latest in manufacturer's style.

EASTER FESTIVAL OPENING BRINGS SHOPPING THRONG

Today Is "Style Day" in First Annual Easter and Spring Buying Event; Business Is Heavy.

The Easter Festival opened Monday with a bang.

Promoted by The Constitution in cooperation with merchants of Atlanta, this event—designed to stimulate early buying of Easter and spring merchandise in all lines—was featured by an opening day on which merchants reported the heaviest Monday rush of buyers in many months past.

Formal opening of the Easter Festival week, which was launched in Sunday's Constitution through the medium of heavy offerings of quality merchandise at highly attractive prices, was also marked by a return of fair, sunshiny weather which aided in bringing purchasers out early.

Stores were crowded throughout the day with men and women who responded heavily to the display advertisements in Sunday's Constitution, and trade was reported far above the recent normal in briskness.

Today "Style Day."

Today ushers in "Style Day" in the Easter Festival event, which is being marked by many special offerings of high quality new spring goods at highly advantageous offerings.

The merchants are doing their full share in promoting success of the Festival week, which is the first annual affair of its kind ever held here, and the buying public is urged to do its part and thus eliminate one of the year's two greatest business rushes—that which immediately precedes Easter.

Each day of the Easter Festival will be marked by feature developments that are sure to be of general interest, and the public is advised to watch the advertisements appearing in this week's issues of The Constitution with redoubled care.

Feature Offerings.

In addition to lessening the strain to which stores and their personnel are subjected annually just preceding Easter, the Festival week is designed to care for the interests of buyers themselves. In return for the more orderly transaction of business which the event will produce, merchants are making feature offerings that will pay the buyer to make her purchases early and avoid the last-minute rush.

"Style Day" today brings to light a number of these offerings, as prospective shoppers will find by consulting the ads in this issue.

TOT BADLY BURNED BY FALL INTO TUB OF BOILING WATER

Falling into a tub of boiling water while his mother was looking on from an adjoining room, Felton Philyaw, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Philyaw, of 16 Linden place, was rushed to Grady hospital early Monday night in a serious condition.

Although hospital attaches stated the child was not fatally burned, belief was expressed that the lower part of his body probably would be badly disfigured.

ALLEGED SLAYER TAKEN BY POLICE IN PISTOL FIGHT

Paterson, N. J., March 19.—(AP)—Martin L. Miller, alleged slayer of Mrs. Helen Kimball, a Brooklyn school teacher, in her apartment in Brooklyn this morning, was captured here tonight after a desperate encounter with Paterson and Brooklyn detectives.

Miller was blackjacked when he sought to turn a .45-caliber revolver with steel jacketed bullets on the detectives, and now is under the care of General Hospital physicians. He was unconscious and unable to talk.

TAX PAYMENTS SHOW GEORGIA IS PROSPEROUS

State Average Is Considerably Above Average of Country, Says Collector Josiah T. Rose.

NEW INDUSTRIES INCREASE WEALTH

Collector Rose Says Each Year Finds More and More Farmers Making Income Tax Returns.

Influx of new industries into Georgia has placed this state on the real prosperity list, with resulting better conditions for its farmers and other citizens, Josiah T. Rose, collector of internal revenue, said Monday in a statement in which he reviewed the collection of income taxes for 1927.

Although unable to cite figures showing the actual collection of taxes for 1927, because such information will have to be given out in Washington, Mr. Rose found himself in a position to give out an encouraging interview on the state's condition as reflected in the tax collections.

Georgia Prosperous.

"Georgia enjoyed an era of prosperity last year though some of our people try to convince themselves otherwise," Mr. Rose said. "Georgia's average of prosperity was considerably above the average of the country as a whole. Georgia is not as much of an almost exclusive agricultural state as it used to be—in fact it has entirely changed in that respect, the yearly value of its manufactured goods being greatly in excess of the value of its agricultural products. However, tobacco and other diversified crops together with the 'cow, hog and hen' developments have added greatly to the sum total both in value of farm products and to profit therefrom.

"More and more farmers each year are filing income tax returns. They have received a total of over $5,000 each from sale of farm products, live stock, timber and other products of the farm during the year. Improved and power machinery is making it possible for farmers to cultivate more acres than formerly.

Farm Products Gain.

"The average number of acres cultivated by each farmer in the United States is about 25, whereas in European countries the average is from six to nine acres. The value of farm products in this country increased last year $600,000,000 over the year before, and I think Georgia farmers produced and received their full share of this general increase.

"Farmers, just like other producers, need customers who make their money in other lines of endeavor to buy the products of the farms. The more such people engaged in industry and commerce, but who do not produce farm products, the more the demand for farm products. Then, if these potential consumers, but non-producers of farm products, can have reasonable steady employment at good

SCHOOLS TO CLOSE EARLY FOR OPERA

Superintendent Sutton To Permit Students To Leave School at 1 O'Clock for 2 Matinees.

School children of Atlanta and teachers in the city schools who desire to attend matinee performances during the grand opera week season will be permitted to leave the schools at 1 o'clock in the afternoon on the day of the performance, it was announced Monday by Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of city schools.

Marked interest is being shown in the opera season by the school children and by the teachers. Under the direction of Miss Kate Haralson, director of music in the city schools, the children are now studying the operas to be sung here this year.

Two matinee performances will be given on school days. Wednesday afternoon, April 25, a double bill of "Hansel and Gretel" and "Pagliacci" will be presented and children and teachers will be permitted to leave the schools at 1 o'clock. Friday afternoon, April 27, a performance of "Die Walkure," Wagner's opera, will be given. A matinee also will be given Saturday afternoon, "Carmen," being the offering.

Preparations have been completed by the Atlanta Music Festival association for placing on sale season tickets beginning at 9 o'clock in the morning Thursday, March 22, and lasting through Saturday, March 31. The box office will be open from 9 in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Orders for season tickets are being received from people who live in other cities. These orders are filed and will be filled in the order of their receipt. Good tickets have been set aside for visitors from other cities and they will be placed on a parity with local buyers.

COUNCIL BACKS CITY HOSPITAL BODY OF 1928

Resolution Passed by City Fathers Practically Nullifies Work of 1927 Grady Committee.

DOCTORS POSTPONE APPEAL TO COURT

Step Is Deferred Pending Some Overt Act on Part of Staff Named by 1928 Councilmen.

Court action in the Grady hospital white unit fight which has rocked the institution for nearly two weeks is only a matter of days, according to predictions Monday night, following passage Monday afternoon of a resolution by city council intended to nullify work of the 1927 hospitals and charities committee and ratifying action of the 1928 hospitals and charities body.

The white unit has operated for the past week under the nominal direction and administration of two executive committees—one named by the hospitals and charities committee of 1927 for a period of five and one-half years, and the other selected March 9 by the 1928 committee to serve "during good service."

Mayson's Rulings.

Members of the group selected by the 1927 committee, have contended that they were legally elected for the specified period, and have been upheld by City Attorney James L. Mayson, who has ruled consistently that the 1928 committee selections are without legal standing until the expiration of the terms which the 1927 committee gave those elected by it.

Under advice of Attorneys James Branch and William Schley Howard, members of the executive body named by the 1927 committee Monday night decided not to start court action until the executive committee named by the 1928 committee "attempts to assume control of the institution." This will be the signal for filing a petition in Fulton county superior courts in an effort to retain power, it was pointed out. The decision was reached following a meeting of the executive committee Monday night.

Attorneys pointed out that under rulings of the city attorney on the council floor Monday afternoon, they are legally in control of the institution until their terms expire.

Council Takes Action.

City council passed the resolution offered by Councilman Harry York, of the sixth ward, after a two-hour parliamentary battle.

The battle regad with members of the 1927 hospitals and charities body seeking to preserve their selections and members of the 1928 committee fighting to sustain their most recent election.

Advice of Mr. Mayson was sought by both wings in the contention, but he reiterated his rulings that the action of the 1927 committee must stand "if they were legally nominated until the expiration of terms of the

LINDBERGH GIVEN PRIZE OF $25,000

Woodrow Wilson Medal Is Awarded Flier for His Services to Peace in Flight Across Atlantic.

New York, March 19.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh tonight received the Woodrow Wilson award, consisting of a medal and $25,000 for "his services for the cause of international friendship" during his good-will flight to Central and South America.

The presentation was made at a dinner of the Woodrow Wilson Memorial foundation.

Colonel Lindbergh was the third recipient of the award, which was given in 1924 to Viscount Cecil, of Chelwood for his services to the League of Nations and in 1926 to Elihu Root for his part in the inception of the permanent court of international justice, or "world court."

John W. Davis, former ambassador to Great Britain, in an address explained that Lindbergh was selected as a recipient of the award, not as a victorious soldier, nor as a successful diplomat or statesman, nor as a noted poet or orator but as "a mere individual," who had "the great fortune to serve peace in most effective ways."

DAWES APPOINTS GROUP TO ATTEND UNVEILING OF LEE

Washington, March 19.—(United News.)—Five senators were named by Vice President Dawes today as a committee to attend the unveiling of Stone Mountain in Georgia. They were Smoot, Utah; Keyes, Vermont; both republicans; and Tydings, Maryland; Harris and George, Georgia, democrats.

WIFE SHOT DEAD BY CORDELE MAN WHO KILLS SELF

W. W. Wilson, Prominent Churchman, Slays Younger Mate as She Prepares Noon Meal.

Cordele, Ga., March 19.—(AP)—W. W. Wilson, 67, a real estate man here, killed his wife, 42 and then ended his own life here today. The bodies of the couple were found in the home by Preston Wilson, 17, Wilson's son by a former marriage, when he came home from high school.

A coroner's jury blamed Wilson for both deaths.

Mrs. Wilson's body was found in the kitchen, a charge from a shotgun having taken effect in the back of her head. Wilson's body was found in the living room of the home, a pistol bullet having been fired into the mouth. Officers believed the double killing came near the noon hour. Food cooking on the stove led them to believe Mrs. Wilson was preparing the noonday meal when her husband shot her.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were married two years ago. They were prominent in church work here. Wilson was the father of several grown children by a former marriage.

NORA BAYES, STAR OF THEATER DIES

Famous Comedienne, Ailing for Only a Week, Dies at 48 After Five Marriages.

New York, March 19.—(AP)—Nora Bayes, comedienne, who delighted audiences in Broadway and London theaters for more than a score of years and cheered many persons privately by her generous acts, died today at a Brooklyn hospital.

She had gone almost directly from singing at two benefits a week ago yesterday to the hospital for an abdominal operation. She was apparently well on the way to recovery when a relapse came.

Miss Bayes onec wrote that she was born in Joliet, Ill., and other sources fixed the date as 1880. Her real name was Leonora Goldberg. She is survived by her husband, Benjamin L. Friedland, whom she married three years ago on the steamship Leviathan, and by three young children she had adopted.

Four earlier marriages had been dissolved by divorce. Miss Bayes was married first to Otto Gressing, a Chicago business man. Later she successively married and divorced three men of the stage, Jack Norworth, Harry Clarke, and Arthur Gordoni. With Norworth she reached the peak of her success. They were known for years as the "happiest couple on the stage."

Miss Bayes was in her teens when her first vaudeville opportunities came. Her clear voice, her beauty and her happy faculty of appearing to get huge enjoyment from her work led her rapidly on to a London debut at the Palace theater in 1905.

Broadway then claimed her as its own, but her talents were displayed from time to time in London and she had planned another European sortie for the late spring this year.

It was a proud day for her in 1919 when she moved her company into the Nora Bayes theater here. Little more than a year before she had performed a patriotic service with voice. The country needed a song to express the war-time spirit. Nora Bayes sang "Over There," and the country had its song.

Miss Bayes had appeared in several early editions of the "Follies" and a wide range of musical comedies.

Private funeral services, at a time not announced, will be conducted for Miss Bayes by Christian Scientists. Not more than 10 persons will be invited, it was said.

68-YEAR-OLD MAN STARTS SEA TRIP IN 20-FOOT BOAT

Gravesend, England, March 19.—(AP) Henry Hudson in all his adventurous career never trod the deck of his little caravel half moon more proudly than 68-year-old Jacob Schuttervaer paced back and forth on the lifeboat—invented by and named after him—on which he started for New York today.

The lifeboat, 20 feet long, is declared to be unsinkable, and it is to prove this definitely that Scuttevaer and his three comrades—Captain Smit, helmsman Gelissen and First Officer Egbert Kruithof—started from Rotterdam the last of February bound for the shores of America.

College Boy Bums Air Ride To New York

Carolina Stude Shows Roadside Gang a Record; Hops Levine's Plane.

Norfolk, Va., March 19.—(AP)—Bringing as a passenger Keith Smith, a student at the Medical College of South Carolina, Charleston, who probably holds the distinction of being the first man to "bum" a ride on a trans-Atlantic airplane, the Bellanca monoplane Columbia, with Pilot Wilmer Stultz at the controls, arrived here this afternoon from Charleston en route to New York.

Smith, whose home is in Spartanburg, S. C., had never taken an airplane ride before this morning. "I didn't have much idea this morning that I'd be in Norfolk tonight," Smith, a typical college youth in baggy trousers, gay-colored sweater and bareheaded, said this afternoon. "I was down at the flying field watching them warm up the Columbia and got to talking to Mr. Stultz. I said something about wishing to take a trip in that plane and Mr. Stultz asked how I would like to fly to New York with him. You can just bet I jumped at the chance. The folks at home don't know anything about it yet. Guess I'd better send them a telegram."

The Columbia, which landed at the Hampton Roads naval air station where Stultz was formerly stationed, will leave for New York tomorrow morning.

JEWS TO ERECT NEW SYNAGOGUE

Congregation Shearith Israel Plan $45,000 Building at Washington and Clarke Streets.

Plans for erection of a synagogue on the southeast corner of Washington and Clarke streets by the Jewish orthodox congregation Shearith Israel, of which Rabbi Tobias Geffen is spiritual leader and Isadore Borochoff president, were disclosed Monday with announcement of purchase of the site.

The corner purchased by the congregation, which now has its place of worship on Hunter street, is just opposite the Atlanta Jewish Woman's club, and is the site of the old Oscar Elsas home. It was bought from W. A. Gresham.

Approximately $45,000 will be spent to erect the new synagogue and Jewish religious center, and it is probable that advantage will be taken of the large residence now on the property to include it in the architectual plans for the undertaking. There is ample room on the property for several structures, the lot measuring 71 feet along Washington street and 190 on Clarke street.

Big Auditorium Planned.

While the architect has not yet been selected, preliminary plans for the main edifice feature an auditorium to seat 750 persons. An item of architectural importance, it was pointed out, will be the strict observance in designing the synagogue to conform with the Jewish orthodox requirements for this type of structure.

The plans for a new religious center are to be carried into effect immediately, it was stated. A special meeting of the building committee, of which Mr. Borochoff is chairman, is to be held tonight, at which time it is believed appointment will be made of the architect. As soon as final plans and specifications have been prepared contractor bids will be asked. Actual construction work is expected to be started within 30 days and it is believed the Jewish center will be completed by September or October.

The congregation has outgrown its present quarters at 302 Hunter street, it was asserted in explaining the purpose for undertaking the new buildings. The old synagogue is to be disposed of by sale. In addition to Rabbi Geffen and Mr. Borochoff, officers of the congregation include J. Zimmerman, vice president, and K. J. Abelsky, treasurer.

FERRIS' CONDITION CALLED FAVORABLE IN SEVERE ILLNESS

Washington, March 19.—(AP)—Condition of Senator Ferris, of Michigan, who is seriously ill with bronchial pneumonia, was termed "favorable" tonight by his physician, Dr. George W. Calver. The senator was resting easily, he said.

Lieutenant Commander Walter A. Bloedorn, naval diagnostic specialist, and Carey T. Grayson, also attended the 75-year-old senator last night and again today.

Mrs. Ferris has been with her husband continually since he was stricken with bronchitis over a week ago. Two sons, Carleton and Phelps Ferris, also are at the senator's bedside.

NAMES OF COOLIDGE, HARDING AND SMITH ENTER OIL SCANDAL

SENATORS ATTACK AND DEFEND MEN IN BOTH PARTIES

Nye Announces Probe Into Harding Estate and Sale of Marion Star in Search for Sinclair Bonds

REPUBLICANS OPEN SCANDAL ON SMITH

Allege He Appointed Oil Baron To Racing Body; Hoover and Coolidge Rapped for Silence.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER,
United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, March 19.—The suggestion that Governor Smith, of New York, be called before the senate Teapot Dome committee to testify regarding reports of political relations with Harry F. Sinclair, was made by Senator Robinson, Indiana republican, during explosive debate in the senate late today.

Chairman Nye, of the Teapot Dome committee, announced that the committee has found it necessary to make a private investigation of the sale of the Marion, Ohio, Star by the late President Harding in 1923 to ascertain whether any Continental Trading company bonds were involved in the sale.

Borah Hurls Charge.

Senator Borah followed this up with the assertion that a dozen men entered a conspiracy at the Chicago republican convention in 1920 when Warren Harding was nominated, to collect a fund for Sinclair to consummate a crime. The crime, he intimated, was the leasing of the naval oil reserve to Sinclair.

Then Senator Blaine, of Wisconsin, criticised President Coolidge as a "beneficiary" of Sinclair's contribution, demanding that every official who was involved be driven from public life.

Robinson said he had heard that Sinclair contributed to Smith's campaign for governor in 1920 and that later Smith appointed Sinclair a member of the New York state racing commission.

Admits Hearing Charge.

Chairman Nye, of the senate Teapot Dome committee, said he had received some such reports but that did not warrant the committee in calling Governor Smith.

Because of the political complications that would be possible in view of Smith's position as the leading democratic presidential candidate, the suggestion that he had political association with Sinclair created a sensation about the capital.

There was a disposition, however, to wait until it is more definitely determined whether there is any basis for Robinson's intimations before attempting to analyze the possible effects upon Governor Smith's candidacy.

ELBERT TEEMS HELD IN RABUN SHOOTING

Clayton, Ga., March 19.—(Special.) Elbert Teems is being held in jail here charged with the fatal shooting late Sunday afternoon of James Ivester in the southern part of Rabun county.

The shooting, according to Teems, was the outgrowth of an altercation resulting from Ivester accusing Teems of reporting him in a liquor deal. Teems declared that he denied to Ivester that he had accused him of handling liquor but that he had charged that Ivester had given whisky to "an old man."

Ivester, Teems alleges, started at him with an ax, and Teems opened fire five times with a pistol, all five bullets taking effect.

BURRUSS' ADDRESS OPENS CONVENTION OF INSURANCE MEN

A two-day sales conference held by the Life Underwriters' association of Atlanta, composed of all the local dealers in life insurance, opened Monday night at the Ansley hotel with an address by William B. Burruss, internationally-known sales engineer, who will have charge of the conference.

Mr. Burruss, one of the foremost authorities on salesmanship in the entire country, will address the closing session of the conference at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the chamber of commerce. Interest of local life insurance men is centered in the addresses of Mr. Burruss, who is widely-known here, having delivered an address, "Shakespeare as a Salesman," on a previous occasion.

Officials of the association said they would endeavor to have Mr. Burruss repeat the address before the present conference closed.

Local Boy, Dam Break Victim,

Planned Early Return Home

Just a few days before the scene of a bustling activity in the valley of the Santa Clara river was changed into a harrowing spectacle of desolation and death by the St. Francis dam catastrophe, that took a toll of several hundred lives, Van Wallace Duke wrote his Atlanta relatives that he was planning to return home early this summer. His coming to Atlanta, which was to have been an occasion of general rejoicing, will witness the mourning of kinsmen when his body arrives here Wednesday.

Young Duke, who was 19 years old last month, had been visiting his brother in California since last June. As fate would have it the visit was prolonged just a little too much, and the Atlanta youth was carried to a gruesome death by the torrents that poured over the broken dam into the river valley below.

The letter containing the future plans he was never to fulfill was directed to his sister, Mrs. M. S. Nix of 1316 Hill street, S. E., and had enclosed recent photographs showing the youth and the working scenes to which he was preparing to bid farewell. Duke's brother, J. R. Duke, was a manager of the Southern California Edison company, which had large camps in the Santa Clara valley engaged in various construction projects. He had joined the company to be with his brother during his sojourn in California.

Of 200 workers who lay sleeping in the company's camps on the night of March 13, when the waters backed by 38,000 feet of pressure broke over them, only 70 were saved. Among the missing dead was Wallace, his brother having escaped with severe injuries that have since confined him to a hospital. When search for the flood victims was under way, young Duke was identified as the man found entangled in a tree, the limbs of which had to be cut off before the body could be removed.

The casket carrying the body was started on its last sad journey across the continent at 7:30 o'clock last Saturday night, and was destined to reach Atlanta Wednesday.

The youth has a wide acquaintance in this city, where he spent practically all his life. He was the son of the late John R. Duke, well-known Atlanta railroad man. His mother died when he was an infant of 18 months, and he was reared by his older sister, Mrs. Nix. At the age of 6, young Duke's father died. He attended the Milton Avenue grammar school and Central night school, and was a member of the Pryor Street Presbyterian church.

In addition to his brother and sister, he is survived by another brother, M. C. Duke, of Detroit, and another sister, Mrs. H. G. Moss, of Atlanta. Funeral services will be held Wednesday or Thursday and interment will be in the Hollywood cemetery. Harry G. Poole is in charge.

VAN WALLACE DUKE.

WEBSTER COUNTY CONVICTS ESCAPE

Preston, Ga., March 19.—(Special.)—Three white convicts, sent up from Fulton county and transferred to the Webster county chaingang February 28, escaped from the gang Sunday afternoon by climbing a high fence of the Webster county stockade while the other prisoners were at dinner.

The three fugitives are B. B. Thomas, age 17, of Atlanta; Jeff Bell, age 16, of Atlanta, and Arthur Hart, 18, of Richmond, Va. All three were serving a year's sentence for misdemeanor offenses.

County authorities are conducting a widespread search for the trio. Hart is described as being five feet, eight inches tall, black hair and brown eyes, weighing about 123 pounds; Thomas five feet, eight inches, weight 153 pounds, blond hair, brown eyes, scar on the right side of right eye, and Bell is the same height, weighing 145 pounds, having black hair and blue eyes.

L. W. JAMES TO RESIGN AS JUSTICE OF PEACE

L. W. James, College Park justice of peace, a bailiff of whose court was convicted of extortion recently, has tendered his resignation, effective April 1, according to information Monday at the solicitor's office.

The November term of the grand jury recommended that Judge James be dismissed from office, although he was never indicted in the case.

Thomas W. Bulfin, bailiff, was found guilty of blackmail in Fulton superior court several months ago and sentenced to five years' imprisonment. He is at liberty under bond pending outcome of an appeal for new trial.

Bod Clay, another bailiff under indictment with Bulfin, is a fugitive from justice. Both were accused of extorting money from men whom they arrested on alleged trumped-up charges.

A successor to Judge James must be recommended by the grand jury before the governor can appoint another incumbent, the solicitor's office says.

MRS. WILLIAM BAILEY REPORTED NEAR DEATH

GEORGE'S CHOICE MEETS APPROVAL

Washington, March 19.—All members of the Georgia congressional delegation today were apparently well satisfied with the "harmony" meeting of the state executive committee at Macon Saturday and of Senator George's selection of the Houston delegates.

All are enthusiastically behind Senator George as a probable southern nominee in the event the south is able to block, with its one-third vote, the nomination of Al Smith. Smith has a friend or two in the delegation, but they never talk about his chances in Georgia they whisper it.

The junior senator will leave Wednesday evening for New York, where he is to address the National Association of Waste Material Dealers at their 15th anniversary banquet to be held in the Astor hotel. He will go from New York direct to Norfolk, where, on Thursday evening, he delivers an address before the North Carolina Pine association at the Monticello hotel. Thursday afternoon he expects to make an inspection of government operations at the Hampton Roads naval base.

Rate Hearing To Open.

Tampa, Fla., March 19.—(AP)—Shippers from all parts of the state were here tonight preparing evidence to be submitted at a hearing before the Florida railroad commission tomorrow on a proposal for readjustment of intrastate freight class rates.

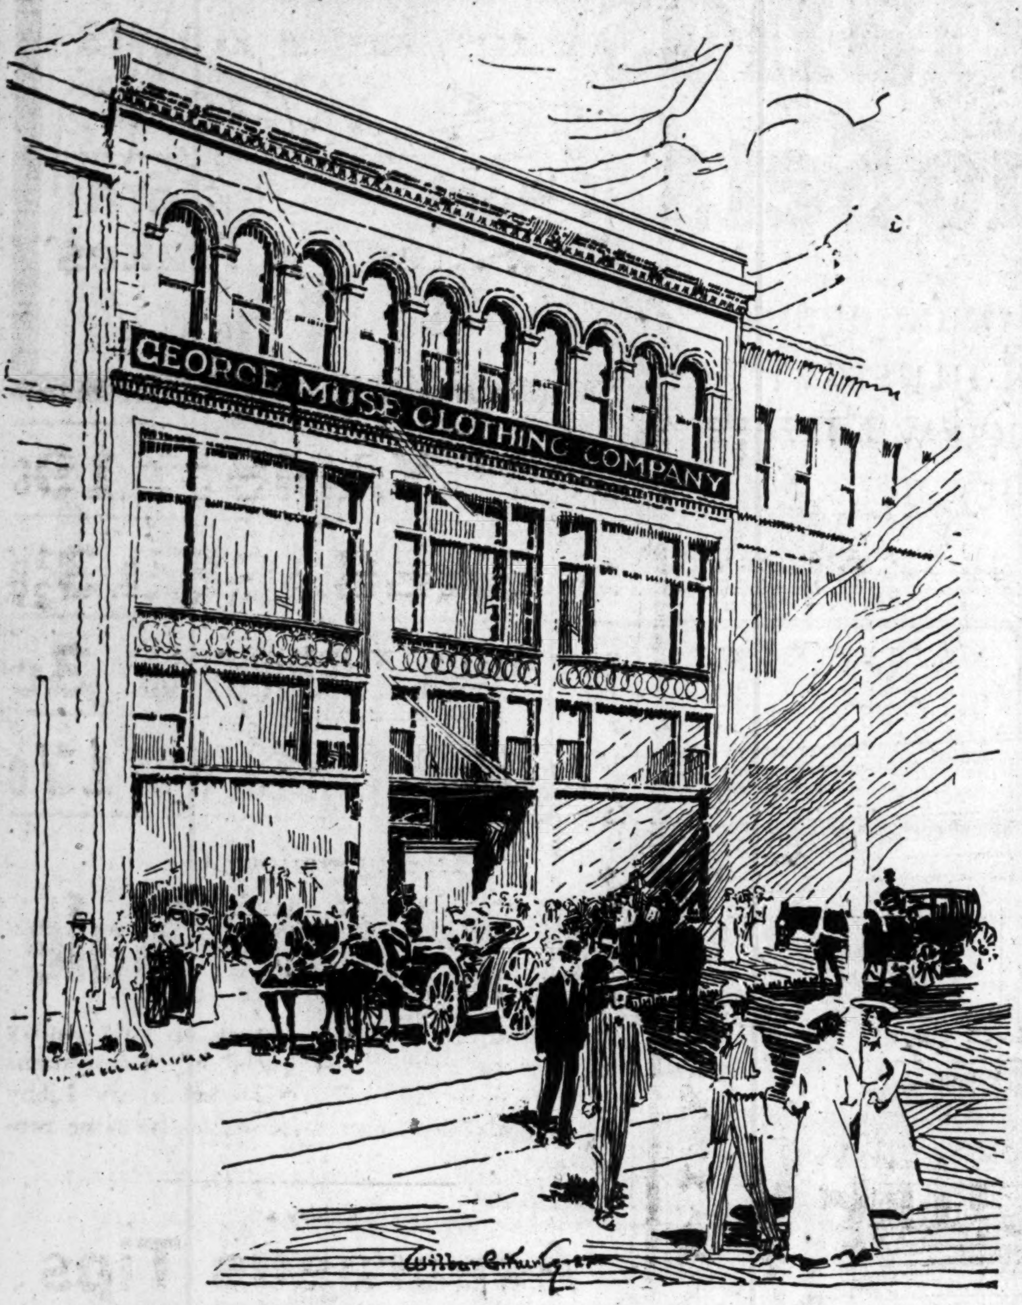
2,000 GOVERNMENT WORKERS TAKE PAY DEMANDS TO HOUSE

Washington, March 19.—(AP)—More than 2,000 government employes marched on the capitol today to present their demands for salary increases to the house civil service committee during its hearing on the Welch bill to raise the pay of civil service workers.

The crowd assembled at Peace monument at the head of Pennsylvania avenue and marched across the capitol grounds to the house office building, where they filled the huge caucus room before the hearing started.

So large was the crowd that Chairman Lehlbach, of the committee, and several other members were unable to enter the room by the main entrance and were forced to use a side door

After 23 years at 38 Whitehall, Muse's moved to here—3-5-7 Whitehall. It was in this store that we began selling Hickey-Freeman Clothes.



IN 1899 there was a tailor in New York named J. L. Freeman, and a cracker-jack clothing salesman named Jeremiah G. Hickey—and they got together!

They called in men of every size, large men, small men, tall men, stout men—and designed a suit for each build—tailoring it by hand—spacing the buttons, modeling the lapels, etc., as they should be on THAT SIZE MAN!

Then they knew that if they could get enough tailors capable of duplicating these models any man anywhere could get his Hickey-Freeman model on a minute's notice—and it would fit him as though specially tailored to his order.

That's how the Hickey-Freeman Co. began.

Mr. Hickey started calling on "the trade." Their plan was a "peach." It solved the "ready-made" clothing problem. The woolens were the finest merchants had seen. The tailoring was magnificent.

The orders piled in. And then Mr. Hickey had to scout the country for thoroughly trained tailors so they could turn out those orders.

It was a merry race.

After the first year they had assembled one hundred workers. These men were trained to tailor one part of a suit well, and in this way became highly skilled at that specialty.

Multiply that program by so many years and you have the growth of Hickey-Freeman in a nut-shell.

Today 200 tailors work on each H-F suit you wear. Two thousand two hundred workers are busy as bees in the spacious daylight Hickey-Freeman plant at Rochester.

The clothes that Hickey-Freeman have made for Muse's for this Spring should be seen by every man—they show how good a suit of clothes can be! If you think you can't be correctly fitted in a ready-to-wear suit—just put on a Hickey-Freeman! And give a thought to the thought that has gone into it.

Last Command of Father

Brings Fatal Disobedience

Alpharetta, Ga., March 19.—(Special.)—A 12-year-old boy, who had always obeyed his father, is in jail here charged with murder because he answered the last command of that parent with a trigger finger that dealt death.

Marvin Barrett is the boy—a quiet-spoken, fair-faced lad, and the favorite of the father he killed.

Robert L. Barrett was the father whose last instructions were mutely obeyed by the son until the boy looked at his brother and sister and recalled the words of their father.

"Bring me my shotgun, Marvin," the boy said his father told him Saturday, as the man lay in a drunken condition on a bed. "I'm going to kill you all—you first, and then Dessie and Ford."

Accustomed to carrying out his father's instructions, the boy said he went into another room and took down the shotgun. He brought it back to the room where the father lay across the bed, Marvin told officers. His 15-year-old sister, Dessie, and a 10-year-old brother, Ford, stood silently by, watching Barrett.

It was then that the first impulse to disobey came, Marvin said.

"I had put a shell in the gun when I took it down," the boy said. "I didn't think about it until I got back in the room. I saw Dessie and Ford there, an' I knew he was goin' to do what he said. I knew he'd kill me first and then kill Dessie and Ford.

MARVIN BARRETT.

No Escape.

"I came in the room an' he was layin' across the bed lookin' at me. I looked around to see if I could find a way for us to get out of there before he could grab the gun out of my hand. But we couldn't get away. I knew he was goin' to kill all of us, so I aimed the gun at him and pulled the trigger."

The shooting occurred Saturday afternoon at the residence of the Barretts, about a mile and a half south of here. According to the boy's story, he and his brother and sister were playing about in the house, and the father was drunk in his room. The boy's mother and the three youngest Barrett children had gone to visit relatives near Cumming the preceding Wednesday.

Mrs. Barrett told officers that she had left her husband after he had beaten her and threatened her life with a knife.

After the shooting, Marvin Barrett said, he and his brother and sister walked out of the house and down through the town until they came to the Cumming road, where they were picked up by a motorist who took them to Cumming.

At the home of Charles O'Kelly, brother of Mrs. Barrett, he told of the shooting. O'Kelly at once went to Alpharetta, he said, to investigate. When he entered a cafe here Sunday night—a few hours after the body of Barrett had been found—he was questioned, and told officers of the boy's story.

Sheriff A. W. Smith, of Milton county, at once went to Cumming, where the boy was taken in custody.

Admits Deed.

In a quiet manner—sometimes choking with emotion—the lad readily admitted the deed, officers stated. He told the story simply, in a straightforward manner, and at times appeared aghast at recollections of the shooting.

After a coroner's jury had heard the lad's version of the shooting it was decided to hold him in jail here for a preliminary hearing, which will be held Thursday.

Sheriff's officers investigating the death of Barrett found a 60-gallon still on the premises, they said. There were several barrels of mash also found.

Discovery of the body of Barrett was not made until late Sunday afternoon. A neighbor's child, going over to the old Thomas B. Welles homestead, occupied by the Barretts as tenants, the boy saw the body lying across the bed. The top of the man's head had been shattered by the discharge.

A shotgun and a woman's hat were found near the barn by officers who were called to the scene. The coroner's jury was impanelled Sunday evening to consider this evidence, but had adjourned without reaching a decision when word came from Cumming that Marvin Barrett had been arrested and admitted the killing.

Mrs. Barrett, mother of Marvin, told the coroner's jury of the good behavior of her son. She said he was the favorite of the father he had slain, and that Barrett often boasted that Marvin would obey him instantly, no matter what he told him to do. That the father thought more of Marvin than his other children also was indicated by testimony at the coroner's inquest, witnesses testifying that Barrett would always remember to buy Marvin some small gift when he was in town.

The mother told the coroner's jury a story of how her husband had beaten her and had been brutally drunk on several occasions lately, culminating in her decision to leave him last Wednesday. This was corroborated by the testimony of the other Barrett children who told of severe treatment at the hands of the father.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon for Barrett, conducted from the Warsaw Methodist church here.

RAILROAD DENIES AIRPLANE-TRAIN PASSENGER MOVE

Philadelphia, March 19.—(AP)—Authoritative sources at the Pennsylvania railroad offices professed ignorance of any conference here today on a plan to carry passengers from the east by train and airplane, as reported in St. Louis.

St. Louis, March 19.—(AP)—The Post-Dispatch says a plan for combination airplane and railroad service between New York, St. Louis and southwestern points, with an air terminal at Dallas, Texas, is being discussed today in Philadelphia among officials of the Pennsylvania railroad and representatives of New York and St. Louis interests.

The newspaper says the plan calls for carrying passengers in railroad Pullmans at night and in the cabins of tri-motored airplanes by day, so the trip from New York to Dallas, which now takes between 40 and 45 hours, could be made in slightly more than 24 hours.

CLOSED DOORS MARK CIVITAN LUNCHEON

HOW TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Makes One Look Younger

Men and women who used to be called Grandpa and Grandma are now setting the styles by darkening their gray hair at home.

For instance, J. A. McCrea, a well known Californian, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture in five minutes, that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. Merely take a half-pint of water, add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1-4 ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at trifling cost. Apply to the hair twice weekly with a comb. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."—(adv.)

TEACHER ARRIVES FOR PROHI AGENTS

Webster Spates, of Washington, prohibition bureau attorney, arrived in Atlanta Monday from Savannah to conduct a school in court, arrest and evidence procedure for prohibition agents. The school will last several days.

A number of prohibition agents from North Georgia, South Georgia, South Carolina and Florida are in attendance at the school.

The idea of the prohibition bureau is to have its officers proceed lawfully, so as to obtain the confidence and respect of public, in that prohibition enforcement may be made a success with the good will of the people, Mr. Spates said.

RAIL MAN DEFENDS GULF GRAIN RATES

Chicago, March 19.—(AP)—L. V. Beatty, Kansas City, assistant general freight agent of the Kansas City Southern, defended at an interstate commerce commission grain export hearing here today his road's reduction of rates between Kansas City and Port Arthur, Texas.

The Kansas City Southern established lower rates to compete with lines that originate grain in Kansas and then seek to control its movement to the Gulf of Mexico, Beatty said.

He declared his road was froced to reduce its rates as it found itself doing only a switching business in Kansas City, where it has extensive elevator facilities. The Kansas City Southern, he continued, operates the shortest route between Kansas City and the gulf and maintains at Port Arthur ample facilities to handle considerable export business.

Beatty said his road desired to attract some of the grain that moves to Europe by way of Montreal.

A. V. Enoch, counsel for the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad, asked Beatty if roads that built into grain territory and opened that territory to transportation were not entitled to a preference in business.

"The Rock Island has assumed a proprietorship in Kansas grain," answered Beatty. "It hasn't a cent invested in any of the grain it transports and shouldn't have any voice in determining what it moves beyond Kansas City."

CHAMBER BUILDING TAX REDUCTION PLAN FAILS

An effort to reduce taxes on the Chamber of Commerce building failed in city council Monday when Mayor Pro Tem Claude Ashley ruled the report of the tax committee out of order and was sustained in his ruling by a vote of general council.

Councilman Jack C. Savage, of the ninth ward, attempted to force the paper before council over the chair's ruling but failed when the body sustained the presiding officer by a vote of 26 to 3.

The paper was offered to council by Alderman Robert E. Gann, of the sixth, and chairman of the tax committee, who stated that council at its last meeting declined to grant the reduction, and that he was not present at the meeting of the committee at which the matter was considered for a second time. He asked the presiding official for a ruling as to whether it would be legal to consider it again and Mr. Ashley ruled it out of order.

Mr. Savage appealed to the city attorney in an effort to place it before council, but Mr. Mayson ruled that all such tax papers are illegal.

PICKETS ARRESTED AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington, March 19.—(AP)—Four pickets who appeared at the white house today to stage an unfriendly demonstration against a Hungarian delegation were arrested by police.

The pickets carried placards which accused members of the delegation and the government they represented with "mass murders" and with favoring the return of the Hapsburg dynasty. The delegation came to the United States to attend the unveiling of a monument to Louis Kossuth.

Special precautions had been taken at the white house when it became known that picketing might take place. Twelve additional white house police were called into service, in addition to six headquarters detectives and 40 city police.

The delegation, which President Coolidge was to receive, arrived at the white house in motor cars led by the Hungarian minister to Washington. It consisted of about 300 members, but only about 20 of these were received by Mr. Coolidge. These were carefully vouched for by the Hungarian minister and were scrutinized by white house police as they entered the executive offices.

The placards the picketers carried read: "They dishonor Kossuth; Hejjas, a mass murderer; Peryenyia Hapsburg lackey; Tomcsanyi reinstated the whipping post," the charges referring to members of the delegation or to Hungarian personalities which whom the picketers contend the delegation is closely affiliated.

A fifth person connected with the picketing was arrested for distributing literature and aiding the picketers. He was Ben Marsh, previously identified here with legislative movements.

BOUNDARY RIVER OWNED BY BOTH STATES, RULING

Since the Chattahoochee river, where it flows between Georgia and Florida, is the property of both states, each owning to the middle of the stream, each state may assess taxes upon half the length of a bridge across the stream, Attorney General George M. Napier held in an opinion rendered Monday.

Replying to an inquiry from William A. Wright, comptroller general, as to the fixing of a pro rata of taxation upon a bridge connecting the west boundary of Georgia and the eastern boundary of a strip of Florida touching the Chattahoochee, Mr Napier ruled that "the apportionment of the ownership of the bridge connecting the two states across said river is to be made in accordance with the facts of said ownership, and the assessments of taxes by the authorities of the two states would be in accordance with the fact of the ownership of the two states of the river—each state owning that portion of the bridge extending from the middle thread of the stream back into the shores of the two states, respectively."

ANCIENT CAR RUNS TOO WELL, DRIVER DRAWS FINE OF $25

Arraigned in recorder's court Monday afternoon on a charge of exceeding the speed limit, W. T. Cooley, 815 Virginia circle, told Judge Murphy M. Holloway that he was merely "trying out an old automobile that wouldn't run when Officers Simmons and Laster stopped him.

He was fined $25 and costs, and advised not to effect any rejuvenation of the ancient vehicle.

Turk Court Recesses In Important Case For 3-Day Festival

Angora, Turkey, March 19.—(AP)—After 38 days of testimony, during which 100 witnesses were heard, the first stage of the trial of Ishan Bey, former minister of marine, on charges of corruption, has closed.

The attorney general summed up the prosecution demanding Ishan's condemnation on the ground that his corruption and negligence delayed the reconditioning of the former German cruiser Goeben, now the Turkish cruiser Yavonz Sultan Selim, this being described as high treason. Ishan will begin his defense on March 29.

The court has now adjourned for the annual three-day "candy festival," during which the former minister and his two alleged accomplices will munch the traditional delight in prison.

Sale of Tickets For Will Rogers Reported Heavy

First day sales of tickets for the appearance Thursday night at the Erlanger theater of Will Rogers, celebrated humorist and comic, who is making his third annual visit to Atlanta, were unusually heavy as reported at the Cable Piano company and the Phillips & Crew Piano company, where the tickets are held.

The heavy ticket sales, together with the fact that Rogers this year is appearing in a much smaller auditorium than on previous occasions when he tested the capacity of much larger ones, indicates that an early reservation of seats not only is advisable but imperative, if Atlanta Rogers fans wish to hear and see the noted humorist on this visit, officials point out.

Rogers, who will appear at the Erlanger as the fifth and final attraction of the all-star series offered this winter by the Southern Musical bureau, will present his usual spontaneous brand of humor, dealing with comments and "wise-cracks" on current politics, politicians and national events which have come to the attention of the public.

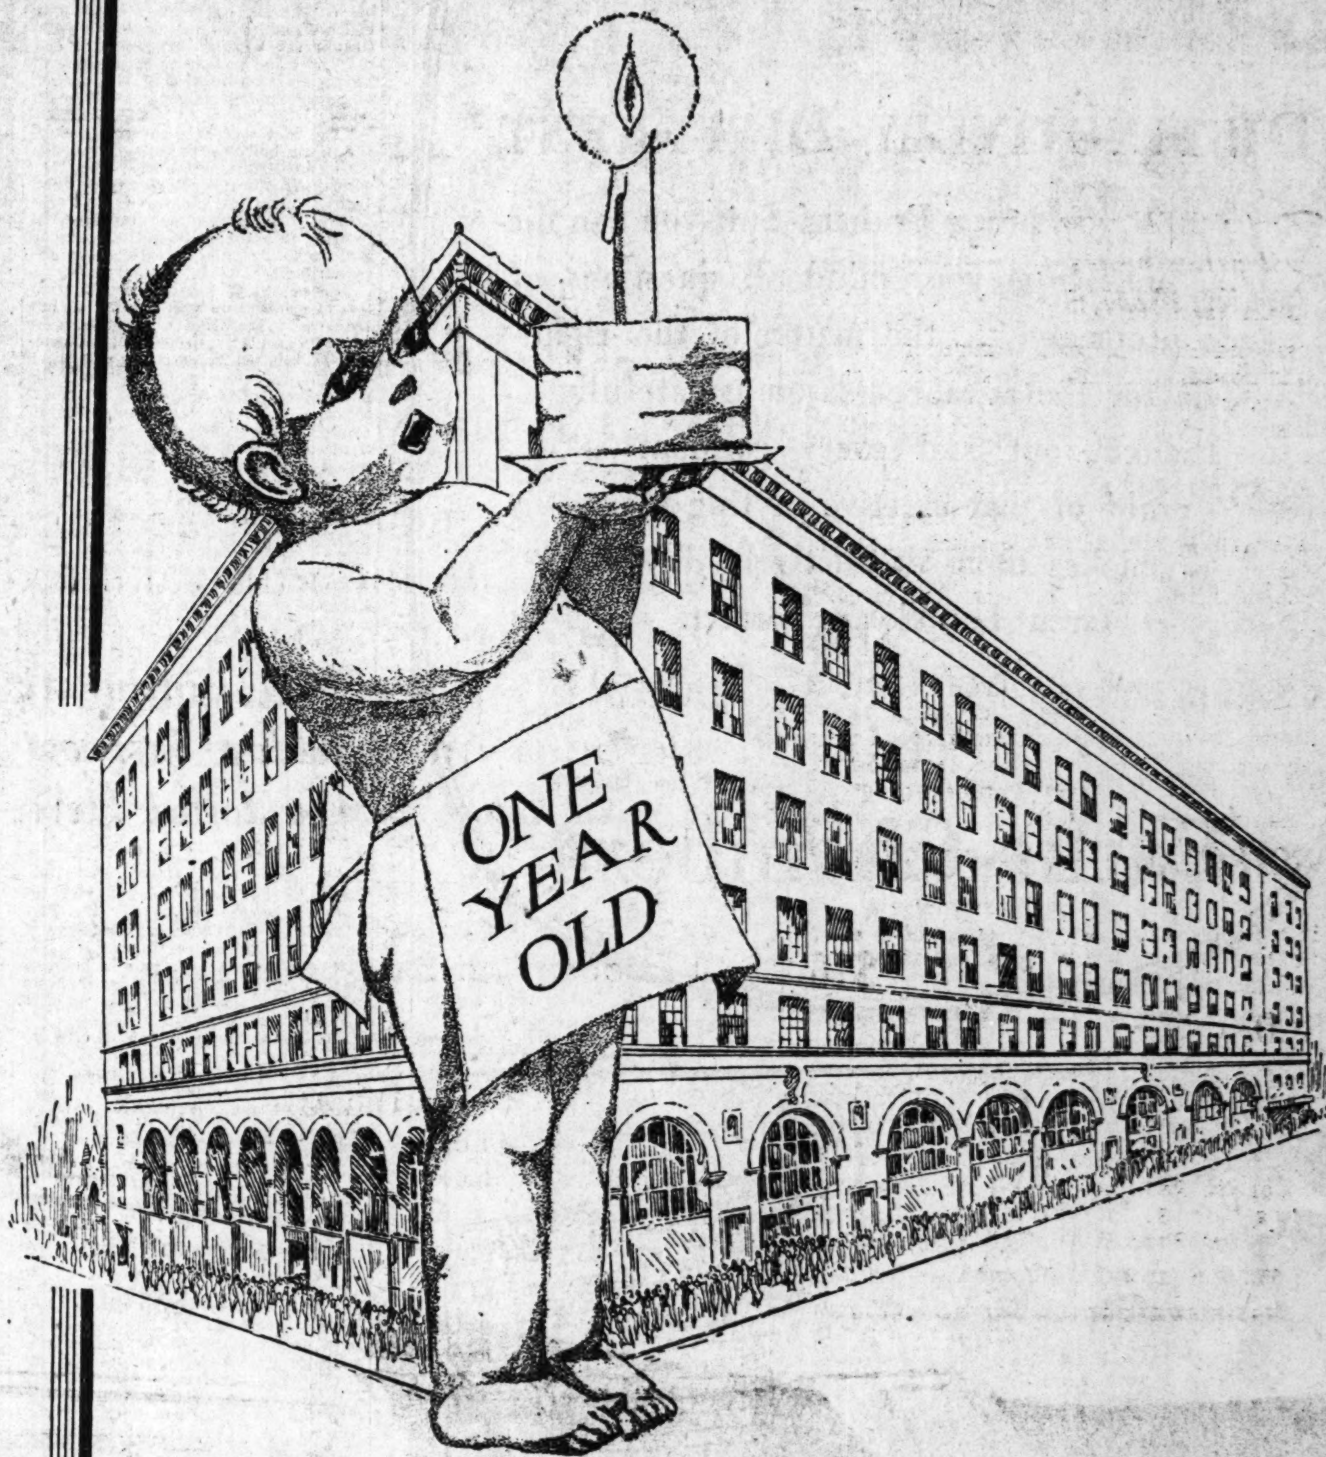
"ONE OF AMERICA'S FINEST STORES"



One Year Ago—

—The pulses of a new organization were thrilling at the prospect of opening a new store, and tired minds and bodies only kept going by the thrill of being a part of a store so beautiful, so completely equipped for the business of distribution that it is not surpassed, except in size, anywhere.

People looked at its size and wondered. It seemed almost reckless to erect a structure large enough to handle almost as much business as all the department stores in Atlanta were doing.

People looked at the grandeur of the structure and the luxuriousness of the equipment and interior and wondered whether prices would be high because of the nice surroundings. Then our policy of keeping ALL OUR PRICES, AT ALL TIMES, AS LOW AS THE LOWEST PRICES IN ANY STORE IN ATLANTA was announced, and with a mixture of pride and hope, also a little "trembling of the knees," we threw open the doors on the 21st of March, 1927.

There was no ceremony, no Days of Courtesy. This was a business structure—a new market place which opened that morning as every other morning at nine o'clock READY FOR BUSINESS!

Many thousands of people passed through the store that day. Many thousands have passed through every business day since that time—a number constantly increasing as the months passed by during this first year.

We are grateful to all those who have given us their patronage and support. We are hopeful that a great many more, who have not yet learned to know the store as well as we should like them to, will visit us, get to know us, and deal with us. This store can only prosper to the extent that it deserves support by the worth of its merchandise, the soundness of its policies, and by the quality of its service rendered to its customers.

It is a better store today than it was a year ago. It is a better store this month than it was last month! Every member of the organization is striving to learn more surely what to do, and how to do it; so that we may serve the community best, and become a constructive force in the growth of Atlanta.

We hope you will like to come to this store as much as we like to have you come, and that knowing each other better will be both a pleasant and a profitable experience for our customers and friends as well as for us.

The First Anniversary Sale of the new store Wednesday and Thursday, March 21st and 22nd. Full details in today's and tomorrow's papers—Don't miss it!

OLDS ANNOUNCES HIS INTENTION TO RESIGN POSITION

Washington, March 19.—(AP)—Robert E. Olds, of St. Paul, undersecretary of state, said today that he intends to resign his post.

At the same time he said reports that he was to take the place in the organization of J. P. Morgan & Co., New York, left vacant by the appointment of Dwight W. Morrow as ambassador to Mexico, were incorrect.

Mr. Olds said his resignation would be presented during the present year. He would not reveal his future plans.

Secretary Kellogg authorized the following statement:

"Mr. Robert E. Olds, undersecretary of state, expects to resign some time during the present year, but the date has not been fixed and it will not be immediately. Mr. Olds came to the department at my very earnest request. He came and has stayed at very great sacrifice. He has direct charge of many matters which are of very great importance and is of tremendous assistance to me. I want him to stay just as long as he can, but he is anxious to get away."

PASS BOLL WORM BILL, JARDINE ASKS

Washington, March 19.—(AP)—Enactment of the Buchanan resolution to provide funds for establishment of non-cotton growing zones in Texas to stamp out the pink boll worm was recommended to congress today by Secretary Jardine.

He said, however, in a letter to Chairman Haugen, of the house agricultural committee, that the budget bureau had recommended that the proposed $5,000,000 to carry out the eradication plan be reduced to $2,500,000 and that a proviso be added to limit the cost to the federal government to "not exceed one-half of the actual and necessary losses sustained by any farmer due to the enforced nonproduction of cotton within the non-cotton zones."

The secretary said that the emergency for the measure arose as a result of a "serious outbreak of the pink boll worm involving some seven counties in the western extension of cotton in Texas." This threatens one of the primary industries of the nation, he added, and demands immediate attention.

"The fact that this outbreak brings the pink boll worm into connection with continuous cotton eastward," he continued, "is the emergency feature. Unless drastic measures can be promptly undertaken to eradicate the pest in this area, its natural spread will carry it rapidly throughout the cotton belt."

The secretary said that the alternative of eradication was regulation, but that such regulation did not prevent spread except, as to district so completely isolated from other cotton as to eliminate the possibility of the natural spread of the pest. Therefore, the regulation of these new areas in contact with continuous cotton cultivation, he said, will necessarily permit the natural and probably very wide spread of this pest yearly, and will amount "practically to giving up the battle to save Texas and the rest of the cotton belt from increasing invasion by the pink boll worm."

"The only known and proven means of effecting eradication is the establishment of non-cotton zones for one or two years," he continued, "and this method has a long record of success."

Three Cincinnati Holdup Suspects Are Jailed Here

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 19.—(Special.)—Joseph Leinwohl, teller of the Central Avenue branch of the Peoples Bank and Savings company, of this city, which was robbed of $5,200 on March 9, by a pair of bandits, left this city late today for Atlanta to view two suspects and attempt to identify them.

Daniel Mahan, Cincinnati city detective, in Atlanta Monday, reported that he had trailed a pair from Newport, Ky., to Louisville, Ky., to Chattanooga, Tenn., and then to Atlanta, Ga., where they were arrested Sunday.

The suspects are registered as W. H. Merchant, 24, Louisville, and D. E. Allen, 30, Cleveland. With them was a woman registered as Ruby Merchant, 24.

Mahan told Emmett D. Kirgan, city detective chief, by telephone late today that the suspects deny wrongdoing and that nothing was found in their effects which might implicate them in a holdup but that he had secured evidence by which he expected to secure their transfer to this city if officials of the Peoples Bank of this city can connect them with the robbery of their Central Avenue branch.

The trio was arrested Sunday in a local hotel by Daniel Mahan, Cincinnati city detective, who had trailed them here from Kentucky. Atlanta Detectives D. E. Blair and A. R. Whatley assisted in the investigation and arrest here.

The three, being held at police station for Ohio authorities, are said to be wanted in connection with a bank robbery and a "flimflam" game.

NEW YORK, LONDON POLICE MYSTIFIED OVER A SUICIDE

London, March 19.—(AP)—New York police were called upon today to aid Scotland Yard in clearing up the mystery surrounding a man found shot to death in a hotel which was popular with American tourists.

The man was registered as "Jack Mitchell, New York," but police claim that he took elaborate precautions to conceal his true identity.

It was understood this afternoon that the police had succeeded in identifying Mitchell as an Englishman who spent some years in New York and recently returned to England.

New York, March 19.—(AP)—New York police, commenting today on the death of a man found shot in a London hotel, where he had registered as Jack Mitchell, of New York, said that they had found the address given by him to be false. They said they had no further clues to the man's identity.

BRIGHTER FUTURE FOR OIL INDUSTRY IS SEEN

New York, March 19.—(AP)—An improved outlook for the oil industry is predicted in the annual report of the Skelly Oil company, sent to stockholders today. The industry as a whole experienced one of its worst years in 1927, when American production of crude oil was 17 per cent in excess of 1926 totals and greatly in excess of the demand.

"There is no present reason to believe that 1928 production will reach the unprecedented mark set in 1927," the report stated, "and it is likely that large drafts will have to be made on stock in storage. Through this reversal of conditions the industry may expect in 1928 better average prices and larger profits."

Net earnings of the company in 1927 were $7,841,728 as compared with $5,691,345 in 1926.

Blazing Debris To Be Funeral

:: FIRE WILL DESTROY RESULTS OF CATASTROPHE ::

Pyres for Dam Break Victims

Los Angeles, March 19.—(AP)—Total loss of life in the St. Francis dam disaster was computed today at 449 persons—272 known dead and 177 missing and believed to have perished.

While the search for the dead continued, with an army of more than 100 motor tractors being used to tear through the big piles of debris, authorities in the stricken zone decided to confine their efforts only to reclaimable land. Debris on the unreclaimable area occupied by the old bed of the Santa Clara river will be burned.

The huge fires will serve as funeral pyres for an unknown number of the dead. Authorities said it would be impossible to put a large enough force at work to recover the bodies on the unreclaimable land within a reasonable length of time, and that with the available organization the process would require so much time that the purpose of seeking them will be defeated.

The state's inquiry into the cause of the dam break opened today. Many funerals, both public and private also were arranged for the victims.

BOLL WORM FIGHT DRAWS MANY MEN TO MEMPHIS MEET

Baton Rouge, La., March 19.—(AP) Responses received from agricultural authorities in practically all cotton growing states of the south indicate that a large gathering will attend the meeting called by Harry D. Wilson, Louisiana commissioner of agriculture, for March 30 in Memphis to discuss the spread of the pink boll worm in Texas."

Not only state commissioners of agriculture, but entomologists, agricultural extension workers and at least one chamber of commerce, that of Alexandria, La., have written Mr. Wilson of their intention to be present or represented.

SENATE APPROVES KING'S MOUNTAIN SURVEY IN S. C.

Washington, March 19.—(AP)—Senate approval was given today to a house bill authorizing a survey of the King's mountain battlefield in South Carolina on a motion of Senator Blease, democrat, South Carolina. An amendment was added, however, proposing surveys of all battlefields for which national memorials have been authorized.

City To Bask Under Spring Skies Today

Real spring weather, constisting of clear skies and slowly rising temperature will be Atlanta's for today, C. F. von Herrmann, United States meterologist, said Monday. Although the temperature is not expected to go below 34 degrees today, the weather man said that there may be frost early this morning. The mercury probably will rise to 55 degrees this afternoon.

Today will see the sun squarely over the equator on its way back north, the vernal equinox being scheduled for 2:45 o'clock this afternoon, Mr. von Herrmann said.

In spite of Monday morning's minimum of 28 degrees and Sunday's 30 degrees, temperature for March to date has been exactly normal, Mr. von Herrman said. The mean to date was 50 degrees. Rainfall likewise has been about normal. 3.89 inches having fallen, as against the normal of 3.35 inches.

HOME EXPOSITION SCORES SUCCESS

Greatly increased attendance was anticipated Tuesday for the Southern Building and Household exposition at the Atlanta auditorium, which opened Monday afternoon, after an address by Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, who congratulated the Atlanta business houses upon the splendid exhibits they had made and the junior chamber of commerce upon its enterprise in carrying out the big "Home Show."

Throngs were attracted to the show all Monday afternoon and night and the visitors carried away pocketsful of souvenirs and samples of various products, from paint to cleaning fluid.

The entire main auditorium is filled with exhibits of firms engaged in handling building materials and the myriad of things that convert a house into a home, from electrical refrigerators to oil-burning furnaces and vacuum cleaners.

The opering night of the show was marked by the torchlight parade of the junior chamber members, several hundred strong who presented a pageant of transportation called "Atlanta, Old and New." The progress of the city was depicted by a display of old-fashioned horse-drawn vehicles, a hand-operated fire engine of fifty years ago, automobiles of former years, battered but still hitting on both cylinders, and the most modern of motor cars. The marchers burned colored flares and bore banners and placards advertising the "Home Show." After the parade, the "Jay-Cees" visited the exposition in a body.

The "Home Show," presented by the junior chamber to stimulate home building activity in Atlanta this spring, will be open every afternoon and night this week, from 1 to 10:30 o'clock. Music will be provided by a ten-musician orchestra, and a series of entertainment features will be given.

COUNTY PROTECTION OF MEMORIAL ASKED

A resolution requesting the authorities of DeKalb county to take steps to protect the monument being carved on Stone mountain, and the stairway leading thereto, and the mechanical and other equipment connected therewith, was adopted Monday afternoon by the executive committee of the Stone Mountain Memorial association.

This action was taken after an official report submitted by the president, Hollins N. Randolph, that a few nights ago two men broke into the entrance of the stairway at the base of the mountain and started up the stairway, were seen by the night watchman and ordered off, but refused to leave until the night watchman fired several shots into the air.

The entrance of the stairway is so constructed that access to it can be had only through the door, which is securely locked and bolted at night. The men driven off by the night watchman, it was reported to the executive committee, tore off sufficient planks to get around the door. They were seen striking matches or flashing an electric hand torch.

Attention of the committee was called to the fact that destruction of the stairway and other wooden construction on the mountain, by fire, would halt the work for several weeks and prevent the unveiling of General Lee on April 9. Also, that explosives thrown down the mountain from the summit might blow off the sculpture or a portion of it, or blow off the equipment.

Text of Resolution.

The committee's resolution was as follows:

"Resolved that the president of the association is directed to request the authorities of DeKalb county to endeavor to ascertain who were these trespassers and night prowlers, with a view to prosecution;

"Resolved, further, that the president is authorized to employ, if necessary, the best detective agency obtainable to trace and have arrested, for unlawful and malicious trespass, whomsoever these night prowlers may have been, with a view to prosecution;

"Resolved, further, that the guards at the memorial grounds be doubled, both by day and by night, and every precaution taken to prevent injury or destruction of the statue of General Lee now so nearly completed, the same having been built after so much toil, difficulty and expense, contributed altogether by the public, both north and south.

"Resolved, further, that the authorities of DeKalb county are hereby requested to protect and preserve the monument, and that the president of the association is hereby authorized to invoke the protection of the governor of the state if in his judgment the same should be needed, and the said authorities are respectfully urged and requested to accord such protection and lend the association such assistance as may be necessary to completely insure the absolute safety and inviolability of this great public work."

New Hose Mill.

Woodland, Ga., March 19.—(Special.)—J. H. Woodall, Roy Starling, C. W. Matthews, C. V. Mills and others of this place, as well as some Columbus parties, have applied for a charter for a knitting mill to be located at this place. The mill will be known as the Woodland Knitting mill and the promoters expect to manufacture men's silk hose exclusively as a beginning, but intend to make a full line of all kind of hosiery later.

Griffin Couple Granted Bond At First Trial

Griffin, Ga., March 19.—(Special.) Declaring that the testimony of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Smith was in conflict with that of Arthur Whittle, star witness for the state, Judge W. E. H. Searcy, Jr., in commitment trial held Monday for the man and his wife for the murder of Howell Middlebrooks, assessed $2,000 bond against the couple following an application by Col. Chester Byars, their attorney.

The judge stated that the testimony of Whitte, if believed in its entirety, would make out a case of manslaughter but that the testimony of Smith and his wife would lead to a verdict of justifiable homicide.

The Smiths were arraigned on a charge of murdering Howell Middlebrooks at their home here on the night of February 27. They have been held in the Spalding county jail since that time. They will probably be brought to trial at the June term of superior court.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH TO OFFER PAGEANT

Presentation of "The Awakening," a pageant written by Mrs. Walter T. Downing, descriptive of inception of springtime, will mark a highlight of the Easter services at the St. Luke's Episcopal church, at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon, April 8.

All seats in St. Luke's Episcopal church are free and the public has been invited to witness the presentation of "The Awakening," as well as the regular services.

Stomach Disorders First Revealed by Coated Tongue

Your tongue is nothing more than the upper end of your stomach and intestines. It is the first thing your doctor looks at. It tells at a glance the condition of your digestive system—and physicians say that 90% of all sickness starts with stomach and bowel trouble.

A coated tongue is a danger signal of those digestive disorders which lead to so many kinds of serious illness. It tells why the least exertion tires you out; why you have pains in the bowels, gas, sour stomach, dizzy spells.

Coating on the tongue is a sign that you need Tanlac—the medicine which has helped thousands who were physical wrecks from stomach and bowel troubles—who had "tried everything" in vain and about given up hope.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of barks, herbs and roots. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

A SAFE GUIDE—In all thy ways acknowledge God, and He shall direct thy paths.—Prov. 3:6.

DEMOCRATS CAN IF THEY WILL.

If the democratic party does not win the fall elections it will have only itself to blame.

There has not been in the history of this nation since the smoke of the war between the states cleared away such a political situation as that presented today.

Swept into the nation's administrative and legislative offices in 1920 by one of the largest majorities on record, the republican regime had scarcely begun to function when ugly charges and counter-charges began to circulate throughout the nation.

First the great department of justice was involved. The ramifications in this particular situation included allegations of moral turpitude.

Further allegations of various natures were made against various people, some of the high-up officials and others—political friends, abettors and alleged "fixers."

Then came the oil scandal which was first accepted with far too much indifference, even by democrats in congress.

But every day brought new facts as to official connivance and fraud and corruption that made of it such a gigantic monster that the disclosures finally shook the civilized world.

Recent developments have been even more startling, for while there is no evidence of personal gains going to any of the republican officials from the reserve oil lands leased to Sinclair other than to Albert B. Fall, then the secretary of the interior, there is unmistakable evidence that practically all of the party leaders, particularly those in the official household of the administration, had knowledge that the leases had been made and that Sinclair had paid or was paying heavy tributes.

The silence of these officials during the years the senate investigating committee has been exhausting every means to get at the bottom of the entire transaction of corruptness cannot be excused.

Particularly reprehensible is the acknowledged connection of former Postmaster General Hays, who endeavored to so shuffle the Sinclair cards that his big donation to the republican committee could be covered up.

Such a course is tainted, and demands the excoriation it is getting from others of the party leaders, such as Senators Borah and Capper.

The restitution of $160,000 to Sinclair, as proposed by Senator Borah, can accomplish no good purpose, however, nor can it minimize the crime, corruption and misconduct in high public offices.

As Senator Nye has suggested, the raising of these funds would be "through $5 and $10 donations of poor devils who can least afford to pay."

That process will not take the fly out of the ointment. It will not eradicate records that are unparalleled in American history for violations of public trust.

Much has been written since the beginning of the series of high financing in high places and of alleged personal immoralities of men in positions of great trust and example that should not have been written—a great deal of fiction no doubt alleged by sensationalists as facts.

But it is not necessary to open the vaults of the dead to condemn the republican party. The records as to those living are sufficient to demand the severest condemnation of right thinking citizens, regardless of party.

The democratic party stands on a threshold that opens to victory, but provided—and this is fundamental—it does not make a mess of the job at Houston in June that it made in New York in 1924.

Upon that and that alone hinges the outcome in November.

THE GEORGIA ROSE SHOW.

The annual rose show in Thomasville has become as outstanding as the peach carnival at Fort Valley or the apple carnival at Cornelia.

According to press dispatches, it will be bigger and better this year than ever.

In volume this may be true, but in rare beauty the annual rose show at Thomasville reaches the same standard of superiority each season that will always remain unsurpassable.

Thousands of people from all sections of the southeast—even from northern and western states—attend these shows.

ENTIRELY TOO MANY.

Again the lack of proper regulation of air flying is emphasized by a wave of aircraft casualties.

The fate of the British contenders for the trans-Atlantic voyage, headed from Europe this way, is a matter of heartfelt regret throughout America. Every person hoped in the depths of his soul that the undertaking might be accomplished. But at this season of the year such an attempted expedition was foolhardy. It should not have been permitted.

The news dispatches of Sunday told of three more deaths from air crashes in California. This time they were private pilots. And only a day or two before four marine aviators fell to their death in the same state, one of them a Georgian.

Aviation, like every great development in scientific progress, must necessarily demand a toll. Pioneering in any forward movement means suffering and death. But there is an inexcusable number of airplane casualties, and the reason is more with the laxity in control laws than with the dare-devil spirit that actuates the man in the pilot's pit.

FRIENDSHIP WITH BRAZIL.

The ambassador of the United States to Brazil, Edwin V. Morgan, calls attention to the strong bond of friendship existing between this nation and Brazil.

It is true, and yet there are few people who give it a thought.

Mr. Morgan has been in diplomatic service in Brazil since the relations were established. His record has been a brilliant one.

The export trade of this country with Brazil has become more important than that with any other of the South American nations except Argentina.

A great volume of our capital has gone into Brazil to help develop her large natural resources. The fact is, the area of Brazil is larger than that of all the states of this union. Her boundaries touch every South American country except Chile. It is a Portuguese nation but with large Spanish colonies. The nation is surrounded by Spanish-speaking peoples.

Brazil finds her best customer in the United States, and the latter finds Brazil one of her best customers. It is fortunate that such a man as Ambassador Morgan is on the ground. He has been at the post for 16 years, and has greatly endeared himself to the people.

The Ohio inventor who purposes to take a trip to Venus will postpone his tour until August when the meteoric stream will be less congested, so he is quoted from Miami. Why the delay? When he drops he will be a little meater himself.

During the session of the physicians of the United States at New Orleans, a learned professor set forth that walking was the best cure for heart sufferers. Alas the auto, the front porch swing and the parlor sofa.

Automobile concerns spent $35,000,000 for advertising in 1927 and with local auto advertising the total is in excess of $50,000,000. This is exclusive of the jokes and casualties.

When a motorist negotiates ten miles of Georgia clay roads after a day's rain he is qualified to take the wheel of an ocean liner during a storm when the boat is being steered with a jury rig.

There will be some weird rhetorical gymnastics in the coming campaign from party leaders who are voting for the millions of appropriations and against all taxes.

A man never realizes how helpless he is until his auto skids and he finds himself straight across a narrow road with a ditch behind him and a ditch in front of him and the nearest house three miles away.

The Kansas City mother who corrected her 16-year-old flapper daughter with spanking did the trimming in the right place, according to the judge.

Florida is shipping grapefruit to Europe by the boat load. Hope there will not be any international trouble come from its hitting back.

Lenin's Brain.

Lenin left a wonderful brain, according to Dr. Semashko, head of the soviet commissariat of health. Under the heading "The Science of Lenin's Brain, a New Form of Adoration of Saints," Dr. Semashko writes in a German communist newspaper: "During the two years the work was carried on Lenin's brain was cut in 31,000 sections, all of which are preserved for future investigation. It has been preserved for science. The sections needed for the current investigation were colored in the proper way, microphotographs were taken of them, and then the work of investigation was begun. A number of normal brains of persons of average mentality were used for purposes of comparison. The construction of the third layer of Lenin's meninges deserves particular attention. This layer consists of the so-called pyramid cells, which in Lenin's case were found to be especially complicated. Therefore, the brain of Lenin represents one of the highest types of the development of the central nervous system. The considerable development of the pyramid cells is bound to produce an intensification of the entire activity of different brains. This explains the greater richness of Lenin's mental life. The wealth of the lines of communication that lead from the pyramid cells and connect the different parts of the brain with each other explains the great number and the multiformity of the thoughts which originated in Lenin's brain, and especially his ability to get his bearings quickly in the most complicated situations and on involved problems."

Morsels of Eloquence.

Mr. Poincare may be one of the last to benefit from that quaint political custom which the French chamber of deputies has preserved ever since the days when newspapers were practically unknown, at least in their present form. Whenever a deputy makes a special hit with a speech there are always to be found a few friends or partisans to propose that his morsel of eloquence be posted up in every parish in the country. The proposal is rarely turned down, because each deputy has a secret ambition that his own turn will come some day. Even the opposition will often favor the broadcasting (in the old sense of the word) of the orator's discourse, as it did with M. Poincare's summing up of the financial situation recently. That is why the Mairies walls in every town, village and hamlet of France are constantly seen plastered with huge white sheets on which is printed the text of the latest oratorical effort of one of the chamber's favorites. In some communes the town crier has to read off the whole discourse. There is a movement growing against the practices.

French Cancan.

The finest thing an American tourist sees when he embarks upon the traditional tour of Montmartre by night is a big advertisement of "The French Cancan" (printed in English) which he is invited to witness at the Bal Tabarin, a dancing hall of the modern kind, where cabaret numbers are interspersed with grand processions of lightly clad ballerines and models representing some of the alleged orgies of antiquity. The French cancan is not so very bad, as such dances go nowadays. In fact it is infinitely less suggestive than the voluptuous tango or the vicious shimmy. It is danced by a quartet of homely looking girls who in a quadrille-like kind of existence contrive to do a tremendous amount of high kicking. Nevertheless the French being very touchy just now on the subject of morality are bitterly complaining that the cancan is not French at all, that it may have originated in America, or in England or in any other country whose inhabitants are reputed to be hypocrites, but that it is no more a product of France than is the "danse du ventre," imported from Algeria or Morocco.

The World and All

BY CHARLES B. DRISCOLL.

A THOUGHTFUL BOOK.

Aldous Huxley, as I have told my readers heretofore, is my favorite living writer of English. I have just been reading his latest book, "Proper Studies." The title refers to Pope's dictum: "The proper study of mankind is man."

This book is so full of provocative sentences and chapters that one has to dip in haphazard in order to make any sort of beginning, in talking about it. In one essay, Huxley is commenting on some remarks by Dean Inge. Huxley doesn't agree with the dean's thesis, but he does say this:

"The spectacle of people who are never alone or in silence, whose life is one continuous round of social activity, who never stop to meditate or recollect themselves, fills me with all the dean's uncomprehending amazement."

Here I happen to be in agreement and in sympathy with both Dean Inge and Mr. Huxley. I cannot understand the person who has to be "on the go" all the time. I have strong suspicions of that person's peace of mind.

If you have any inner quietude of mind, or any serenity of soul, you want to be alone and unhurried once in a while. You want to sit in the dark, perhaps, and meditate. The person who never wants to be alone, but is happy only when "on the go" is apt to be either devoid of the ability to think, or else on very bad terms with his own conscience.

This might be called a railway text—a routing text.

My friend, the station agent has just told me of an amusing lapse of attention by himself when, in Sunday school class he was called on to give the Golden Text.

His mind was so preoccupied with railway matters that he answered absent-mindedly, "Route it by I. C., N. C. & St. L., and Georgia Railroad."

Now, this was not the Golden Text, it is true, but it is a parable we may well ponder.

In order for freight or passengers to reach promptly their proper destinations, wise routing directions must be followed.

Now, there are those who, by mistake or malice, give unwise and wrong—even destructive—routing instructions. Seek your routing from this life to that which lies beyond from a dependable source—God's word.

Keep this railway text ever before your mind.

A Nation Upside Down

BY THEODORE DREISER

This is the third of a series of articles by Mr. Dreiser, famous novelist and author of "An American Tragedy," in which he presents what appear to him the good and bad features of soviet rule in Russia. He returned recently after eleven weeks of observation in that country.

(Copyright, 1928, in all countries by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

It is so easy to stay in Moscow, [illegible] data concerning the rapid and beautiful development of the communistic system in Russia (as furnished by the officials and theoreticians) and interview the latter and take their picture of what is. But it is quite another matter to travel over the great empire and see for oneself.

Temperamentally, I am in favor of any government which promises the greatest happiness to the greatest number. That is why it was not difficult for the American communist organization, once it had procured an official invitation for me from the soviet government, to persuade me to visit Russia even in the dead of winter, its most trying period.

And once there, the same leaning took me out of Moscow and Leningrad, where mainly at this time the official soviet or communistic propaganda centers, into such far-inland cities and outlying regions as Perm, Novosebirsk, Novgorod, and again southward from Moscow to Kiev, Kharkoff, Stalin, Rostov, Tiflis, Baku, Batoum, and all the region bordering on the Black set betwen Batoum and Odessa.

Well, was I impressed? Very much. Have I been converted to communism? No, not to the brand operating in Russia at this time. Of course, all official communists explain to you that true communism has not yet arrived, that the dictum of Marx, the father of the present experiment, "From each according to his ability; to each according to his need," is something to be approximated, not necessarily achieved.

Decidedly, there exists in Russia at this hour something akin to a semi-religious, semi-moral theory that is parading as an economic truth. "One for all and all for one." Down with the individualist, the capitalist, the merchant, the trader! Out with anyone who seeks a single grain more of power, distinction, profit, from the body politic, than any other! Let all work in harmony, and relatively for the same limited reward. As Marx writes it: "From each according to his ability; to each according to his need."

Low Salaries for Leaders.

But as you and I might say, that is madness. Who under heaven is to determine the ability of each; who fix his need, and hence reward? Is Edison to receive the same as a swine-herd? Rockefeller no more than a steel-puddler? Well, in Russia at this hour something like that is in existence.

M. Stalin, voice and directing spirit of the present communist central committee, which is the directing spirit of all of the soviets and unions in Russia, receives for himself 225 rubles a month, about $100, plus three rooms in the Kremlin, now the seat of the principal government officials of Russia. And M. Tchicherin, the minister of foreign affairs, no more.

Lunacharsky, the minister of education, with perhaps as great a power for good or evil as any man in Russia, since he controls and checks all the sources of education, schools, courses, books, newspapers, motion pictures, the stage, the educational programs of the radio, receives no more.

In fact, I could find no one in any high position who received a penny more, although for many of them, in connection with their official duties, are furnished a car, or cars, a secretary or two, or ten, or twenty; an apartment, special means and equipment for transportation, but all incidental to their labors, of course.

Yet among the commonest workers I could not find any who were making less than 50 rubles, and thousands upon thousands who were receiving 150, 175, 200 and 225, or more. Every mine worker at the bank-head, the man with the pick and gas mask, receives 250 rubles, and in addition special clothing and special food and works only six hours a day as against Stalin's twelve or eighteen.

Scarcely a skilled worker of any kind, machinist, engineer, conductor, electrician, plumber, bricklayer, carpenter, but received 150 to 200 rubles. Actors, producers, singers, dancers, connected with the official stage of Russia, which is, roughly, the only theater, often receive more, some actors, ballet dancers and singers as high as 600 rubles a month. Perhaps because unlike so many others, they can leave Russia and succeed elsewhere.

And yet in the main the economic plan of the leaders is not so much for a minimum as for an average return or wage, which is to be always the best that can be done under the circumstances. Later on, as things grow better, wages are to be increased, not for any one class, as classes are to be done away with, but for everybody. And there is never to be any great difference in wages, just enough to make exceptional merit and exceptional skill comfortable according to their needs, but never luxurious as contrasted with the state of any other. In short, there is to be no luxury which any worker with the taste for it cannot literally aspire to out of wages, which, as near as possible, are to be the equivalent of the best.

Hierarchies Still Exist.

A queer doctrine truly, as we westerners see it, and yet, once you are in Russia, comprehensible after a fashion, though never logical as life goes. For try as you will, even there, you cannot quite conceive how people are to be made equal in significance however equal they may be made in means, and it is just this mental or temperamental significance which makes all the difference in people, money to the contrary notwithstanding.

For now here we are in Moscow, let us say. And here comes a street cleaner, or a hotel porter, or a droschky driver, or the manager of a small store for the government. And he may be as well or poorly dressed as Mr. Stalin or Mr. Bukharin, and paid as much. His rights and privileges under the new system are the same as those of any other. But does all this make him in your eyes, or mind, or those of any discriminating Russian of any mental rank whatsoever, the equivalent of any of the really significant people in Russia? Try and think it! Or go and try to see or feel it! It is not so!

Orders, hierarchies, and powers, however completely stripped of financial significance, have not disappeared. A learned doctor is still a learned doctor, and kowtowed to as such. A scientist, ditto. A statesman the same. Try to see Mr. Stalin, Mr. Lunacharsky, Mr. Rykoy, Mr. This, Mr. That, of the reigning powers! Or seek an introduction to one of the directors of the great theaters, the state moving picture organizations, the directors of libraries, universities, or any poet or writer of fame! You will find what I found, and exactly what you will find anywhere, that, communism or no communism, it is brain, or cunning, or both, that mysterious something called ability or personality, that makes all the difference in Russia between one who is respected and one who is not, one who is sought after and one who is not, one who is in authority and one who is not. A man who is mentally fitted to be a street cleaner is a street cleaner. And a man who is wise enough to be a leader is a leader.

Yet, according to all of the communist leaders with whom you talk, there are to be no classes. There is to exist only a classless society, equal financially and in every other way. But look about you, and with one exception there are all of the classes you have ever known, professional, scientific, social. The only one that appears to be missing is the monied class. And even there you are likely to find its equivalent, moneyless, to be sure, but still in possession of the one thing its former wealth represented—power and position.

In Moscow one heard so much of this remarkable economic system being carefully worked out among all of the 167 nationalities of the immense commune. And that it was working, everywhere in Russia.

Drawbacks of Communistic Plan.

But then I went further to be confronted by certain indisputable facts. Among these, for instance, that the major portion of the population is in poor if not insufficient clothing, that there is not any too much heat, also inadequate, and certainly from a western point of view, uncomfortable transportation for the masses, o furniture anywhere worthy of the name, insufficient, if not expensive, and certainly not comfortable housing, very few public roads, few modern vehicles, such as buses, automobiles, or trucks, not enough schools as yet, not enough places of amusement, all forms of commodities, from bread and tea, meat and grain, down to clothing and utensils, of the simplest and only the most necessary kind, high in cost and poor in quality, unemployment still great (200,000 in Moscow, 160,000 in Leningrad, and other cities in proportion), beggars, in Leningrad, Moscow and other cities, prostitution among women of the old order either unequipped or unwilling to meet the new conditions.

But then, as I reflected, the world should remember that the technique of so great a thing as a communistic state is something still to be learned, and it is being studied hourly in Russia.

"Last year (or in 1925, or '24, or '23), we did so and so, but we found it wouldn't do. It was too expensive. It conflicted with such and such a thing, and so we changed it."

It is not enough that the government should take over the railroads, postoffice, telegraph, public roads, land, houses, stores, manufactories, but it must manage them in such a way as to avoid waste, make a profit, keep one industry from conflicting with another, and still sell to the individual at such a price that he will never be charged too much nor favored so much that his healthy personal industry and interest will be stultified.

Truly, it is an enormous problem. One meets with its various facets and angles on every hand. Is there not waste here, graft there? How prevent this, manage that, from bakery to taxi, from candy store to railroad? And yet, when you begin to look into things, you do find waste and graft (I can furnish a long list of investigations and exposures), as well as a series of checks and balances quite reasonably devised.

So and so must report to so and so, one venture can complain of and investigate another venture. The great industries and organizations are contrasted by service, profit and population dealt with. If a leather company in Odessa does not do as well as a leather company in Novosebirsk, the question arises, why?

And always, everywhere, an official investigator may enter, call for the books, interview the workers and manager, discharge, promote, order changes in expenditures, reductions, or, should the whole industry seem unwise or persistently unprofitable, abolish it entirely. And from this decision there is no appeal.

VETERAN IS SOUGHT FOR PRESENTATION OF BONUS CHECK

Frank Haas, adjutant of the Atlanta post of the American Legion, is in receipt of a communication from the service officer of the Illinois department of the legion, asking assistance in locating A. D. Lone Johnson, reported to be a resident of Atlanta.

Johnson is entitled to a bonus check, awarded to all Illinois veterans by special act of the legislature of that state, and authorities are seeking Johnson's whereabouts in order to present a check to him.

According to the Illinois records Johnson's present address is 348 Fulton street, but all communications to this address have brought no response. Friends of the veteran are urged to communicate with him and notify him of his good fortune.

BERRY SCHOOL NOTES

Commencement Set for May Set for May 1.

Mount Berry, Ga., March 19.—(Special.)—Dr. Arlo Brown, president of the University of Chattanooga, recently delivered a series of inspiring addresses before the joint student body of the three schools.

In the high school declamation contest the first prize of $10 was won by Thomas Wheelis, of Commerce, Ga., and the second prize of $5 was won by Edwin Hyatt, of Screven, Ga.

Miss Anne Wiggin, of New York, a representative of the World's Student Christian Federation, visited Berry Saturday. Miss Wiggin gave several inspiring talks to the girls of the high school and college.

The Berry commencement exercises are scheduled for May 1. Seventy-seven college and high school students will graduate this year. The commencement speaker is Clarence Poe, president and editor of the Progressive Farmer. Dean Thomas Johnston, of Atlanta, will preach the baccalaureate sermon.

DR. LEVIE TO ADDRESS ENDEAVOR UNION RALLY

Dr. J. K. Levie, former dentist-missionary in Korea, will address the Christian Endeavor City union rally at 8 o'clock tonight in the Westminster Presbyterian church. Dr. Levie's lecture on condiitons in Korea will be illustrated, and will outline his experiences during the five years spent in the orient.

The rally will be presided over by Virgil Chew, president of the union. Dr. J. W. Caldwell, pastor of the church, will lead the devotional.

Odds & Ends of City Life

BY BILL SHIPPEN

The trial jury, addressed not wisely, but at great length, by a prisoner from the witness stand, is in a splendid position to retaliate.

This fact apparently slipped the attention of a little man who talked and talked in behalf of himself. Meanwhile the courtroom clock tolled off minute on minute and the jurymen stirred wearily in their chairs.

And the jury, stuffed with overmuch testimony, arrived at a verdict forthwith.

There was the vaguest hint of triumph in the foreman's sonorous report:

This particular couple had only one radio. The wife wanted to tune in on a grand opera concert. But the husband kept whirling dials until he filled the flat with noises relayed from a fiddlers' convention.

It was the police who had the final say in this argument.

Theodore Dreiser is a great man. The super-seductive abilities of his fiction heroes have intrigued me for years.

But since a terrific broadside of his shattered this so-called column and plastered it in fragmentary bits about such blank spots as remained to the editorial page, I am not so enthusiastic about Dreiser.

From now on when I want to read one of his books I will go out and borrow it from a friend. That will cost him at least a quarter, I hope.

Not, you understand, that I object to investigating Russia. Everyone will agree that Russia is one country which ought to be thoroughly investigated by expert investigators. I would like to go and investigate Russia myself . . . wonder if Senator Heflin could get me a pass?

And now the readers of the public prints must consider the report which attributes flat feet to Lindbergh. While he has never distinguished himself as a pedestrion, still there must remain a lot of people who would bet on Lindbergh, even if he set out on a bunion cruise to Paris.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

THE PHYSIOLOGY OF CHRONIC RHINITIS.

A good doctor is a prophet, sure enough. He is not without honor save in his own country and in his own house. Abroad he may amiably venture a guess as to what ails a casual acquaintance or what's good for it, but in his own county he wisely refrains from this sport, and consequently he is a "bum doctor."

To suggest any remedy whatsoever for simple chronic rhinitis is a thing a good doctor certainly does not attempt in his own country unless he has first had a look see at the site or course of trouble. Aside from the unwisdom of blind guesswork, this smacks much too much of that most ridiculous form of quackery, "catarrh" specialism. Further warning about the remedies I am going to suggest will not be needed by folks who know me—they won't use them anyway.

Twenty years ago a patient with the hardihood to present himself in a successful doctor's office with a complaint of constant or intermittent obstruction or stoppage of one or both nostrils then and there paid one bone for his temerity. It was the era of frenzied surgery, and turbinate or spongy bodies were hacked, punched, sawed or snared out of the nasal cavity literally by the bushel. The ordinary" doctor or the nose and throat specialist who hesitated about "removing a bone" from any such patient was a piker, and nobody knew that better than the patient. You see, the use of a bit or gimlet or something made a hole through the clogged passage so that the patient was certain to obtain immediate relief at least to the obstruction of breathing, and for six months or so everything was fine and dandy, but then the victims of the operation seemed to begin to realize that the turbinated or spongy body serves a function—a function very few schoolboys know, because physiology isn't regarded seriously by our educational authorities.

Let us inject a bit of elementary physiology here even though it take the space we intended to use to suggest a simple home treatment. The turbinated or spongy bodies are three shelves placed along the outer wall of each nasal passage, having a thin bony base or core and a thick covering of mucous membrane with a rich network of blood vessels in it. These turbinates serve a double purpose, being both radiators and humidifiers. As radiators they are more efficient than any radiator devised by man, for they warm up all the air entering through the nose from whatever temperature the outside air may have to approximately 98 degrees F., as it enters the windpipe. And besides they add to the excessively arid atmosphere most indoor dwellers breathe most of the time, sufficient moisture to prevent irritation of the throat, larynx, bronchi or lungs by the air. Obviously, the tubinates have their work cut out for them. Aye, and piled up. Certain doctors or health authorities who belittle the idea of using humidifiers to maintain a wholesome degree of humidity in the living rooms, shop or office, betray their unfamiliarity with this bit of physiology, that's all. Any kind of fairly efficient humidifiers, other than automatic systems built in, necessarily will be more or less a nuisance, to attend and keep at work, but any one who appreciates health and comfort will gladly pay such a price for the boon.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Carrots Turned Skin Yellow.

My sister has taken a great fancy to raw carrots. She eats them as a relish two or three times a day. The palms of her hands have become quite yellow. Can this be from the coloring matter in the carrots? Her complexion is a trifle yellow too but her skin is quite free from eruptions since she has taken to raw carrots and celery and greens, with less meat than she formerly ate. (G. McD.)

Answer.—A dye in carrots often causes a yellow staining in the horny epithelium of the soles, palms or other places where callus or thickened skin occurs. This is harmless. The general skin will not become yellow. The habit of eating such raw vegetables daily is a healthful one. The stain will disappear soon after the carrots do. I wish I could suggest that raw beets will give the complexion a beautiful rosy tint, but they will not. Some ladies declare that beet juice is a fine rouge, however.

'I Hate To Do This,' Said the Hangman, 'But You Had No Business Being Poor'

By Robert Quillen

If the law gave every convicted criminal a chance to outrun his jailer and gain freedom, would that be fair to the cripples?

Would you favor such a law, knowing that none but cripples would suffer?

There was a time when law discriminated in that way, but there was a reason for it.

The times were brutal; crime was everywhere; and the men who sat on thrones thought more severe punishment would discourage criminals.

They might have known better. They knew something of history, and history told them ancient Babylon burned, drowned and speared petty offenders without lessening crime.

The kings had to learn by experience, and they learned slowly. While learning, they spilled a great deal of blood.

In the 13th century all felonies except mayhem were punished by death. A thief who stole more than a shilling was hanged.

During the reign of Henry VIII, more than 72,000 people went to the gallows—in public places, where the crowds could see and take warning; but crime did not stop.

The church grew alarmed. Too many good men were being eliminated. To mend matters, it gave "benefit of clergy" to all who were its servants. They could not be punished under the king's laws. And eventually this privilege was extended to all who could read. Thus the "upper class" was saved from the law's severity.

When America was settled the king of England found another method of outwitting the law's cruelty. Those condemned to die for minor offenses were given "transportation" instead. The "freedom" many of our forefathers obtained was freedom from the gallows.

In America today the law's severity is softened by money. The "upper class," as always, finds a way to be saved.

"Capital punishment" means capital punishment of the poor. The capital crime is poverty.

Whether capital punishment is right or wrong, do you favor a law that applies only to the cripples?

EVERYDAY QUESTIONS

BY DR. S. PARKES CADMAN.

Pittsburgh, Pa.

Is it not a fact that the United States is the most lawless country in the world today, even Mexican justice being swifter than ours? Our laws are made by lawyers for other lawyers to pick out the loopholes inherent in them. Consider the Chapman case, if you ask for an example: With money that convicted murderer undoubtedly stole, he fought on and on to the supreme court of the United States, whereas a poor man with an honest case would have had to quit because of the cost. All England had was 412 murders last year, while New York City and Chicago each had nearly as many. You can hire a set of "scientific" doctors to prove insanity and you can turn around and hire as many more to prove sanity with respect to the same individual.

What's the matter with this country? Are we going to the devil?

If a superficial observer confines his attention to the criminal side of our national ledger he may conclude that the United States faces the setting sun. But, though comparatively small groups among us take long squints at his satanic majesty and not a few flirt with things diabolic, you can rest assured that the country as a whole will keep him at arm's length.

Is not Mexican justice a little too swift and uncertain for a liberty-loving nation like ours? You would soon verify this remark if you were a citizen of that land and openly opposed its present administration. In the main American life is sound. Too many of our people conceal a generous disposition under bad manners. Still more are sadly indifferent to lamentable evils because they adhere to individualism and are inclined to let others do as they please. But the vast majority are honest, industrious, domestic in their tastes and instinctively helpful to others.

Every prosperous nation breeds parasitical growths and criminal excrescences. Where the carcass is there the vultures gather. The scent of illicit gain is for the thug and the gangster what the scent of blood is for the tiger. They come from near and far, and the United States is their favorite haunt, especially its cosmopolitan cities.

The age we live in has outdistanced the moral capacity of many who by heredity and training are unequal to its strain. Its militant circumstances cannot be met by them. The remedy is in our own hands. The legal profession needs a radical housecleaning, long overdue, which will have to be effected by lawyers themselves. The people at large must recognize the imperative demand for personal integrity and religious education for their children.

I believe they will achieve these ends, despite the protests of Pollyannas and the resistance of sentimentalists who so ardently sympathize with criminals and so seldom mention the unfortunate victims of their brutality. We should offer the wrongdoer every legitimate inducement to reform and methods that best insure his reformation. But the established principle that punishment shall deter crime will have to be reasserted here. By these means present disorders can be overcome. The criminal class at its highest estimate in regard to numbers is a very small minority when compared with the bulk of our citizens, who loathe crime in any shape.

Brightwaters, N. Y.

Did not Baruch de Spinoza achieve a finer and truer vision of God than all other philosophers?

Are his writings, with a trend toward a personal god, compatible with modern theology or is he still a heretic, outlawed by church and churchmen?

Spinoza's philosophy is a thorough going pantheism which has its naturalistic and its mystical side. The foundation of his thinking consists in the doctrine of one infinite substance of which all finite substances are modes of limitation. Grasp this idea and you have the essence of his system.

For him God is the imminent cause of the universe, but he speaks throughout his works of the Supreme Being as equivalent to nature. This conception is not superior to the philosophy which attributes personality to Deity, nor do I concede that Spinoza achieved a finer and truer vision of God that all other philosophers. The late Dr. James Martineau's reasonings on the personality of Deity supply a needed corrective at this point. Read his "Study of Spinoza."

Today he stands at the top as a great and luminous thinker. Since 1780 all schools of philosophy and many theologians have united to honor his lofty character and the unique strength and sincerity of his thought. Lessing, Goethe, Herder, Novalis and especially Schleiermacher, ot to mention Schelling and Hegel, pay tribute to the splendor and dimensions of his idealism.

Indeed Schleiermacher, the father of the best modern preaching, speaks of him as "the holy and excommunicated" thinker. No orthodox believer can read his works without benefit. No liberal believer looks upon him as "heretical" or "outlawed."

YOUR BOY AND YOUR GIRL

BY ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.

THE BEST MOTHER OF ALL.

A mother complains that she spent $27.50 for a long-legged eccentric-looking French doll for her small girl and that the money was wasted because the child still sticks to "golden curls, dimples and eyes that shut."

Thank heaven the little ones have sense. They see so few curls in real life that it's a real joy to comb the doll's hair. They are at the "real mother" stage where the doll must resemble a real baby and they know the difference between a lanky, leering, lopsided, lobster-faced imported "doll" and the good old-fashioned honest-to-goodness specimen of doll city.

I have been told that the little ones will stand for short dresses but object so much to the ugly knee joints showing that doll manufacturers have lengthened the lower part of the limbs and shortened the upper portion. We still mention limbs when we talk about dolls.

There are two ages in which to teach real homemaking—one before the girl is ten, the other when she flashes a diamond. This is contrary to school practice where the high school homemaking courses occur when a girl ought to like the work but doesn't. She likes the credits and may like the scientific aspects.

The real time to interest girls in the practical side of making beds, cooking, helping mother, cleaning, "litte mothering" of babies, is before the age of twelve. A girl of high school age can be made, under pressure, to cook, take care of her room and repair her clothes. Her interests are not in housework. She is, however, deeply interested in decorating her own room, the front parlor and her own person. She will, under wise direction, become interested in budgets, labor saving devices, camp cooking and getting the most out of a dollar.

Watch the little girl with her doll and doll house; the mince pie with stones for raisins, sand for the crust and dirt for the filling; note the way she puts the rugs, hangs the curtains and arranges the furniture; listen as she orders around the inhabitants of Doll City. Never again will she show such interest until the great event.

Most girls of high school age do things around the house because they must or because by doing something they don't want to do they get something they want. The terminal of a little girl's effort is her doll and its home. The terminal for the big girl is herself. A little one will work alone for hours. A girl of twelve to fifteen will work for minutes if she has companions and can call the adventure a club. A girl of seventeen will organize a committee, develop a constitution, make by-laws and turn over the job to her mother.

And yet I do not complain.

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER.

Sticking to Habit.

My youngster manages himself pretty well. In fact, better than I do because sometimes I forget to direct him. How closely should a mother stick to the habit of continuous directing? DIRECTOR.

Answer.—Until the idea is sold. But do not be an annoying saleswoman. Imagine the whiskered faces of two well-known cough droppers eliminated from the box. Or "99 44-100 per cent pure" left out, or "walk a mile" changed to "step on the gas" and you see how these advertisements would lose their appeal. It costs money to build up definite buying appeal. Likewise it costs mothers great effort in building up obeying appeals. Don't drop the whiskers.

Beauty Skin Deep?

"Is beauty only skin deep? How can I keep my youthful complexion and prove this saying is not true?"

"Next week I want to go to a prom but I realize I am getting fat so I want to take off twenty pounds. Can you advise me how to do this within a week?"

"Are thinness and stockiness and tallness and shortness really inherited?"

"I read once that you use a vanity case yourself. Is this true?"

No doubt my readers' interest has been aroused. If the answers to the above questions hit a situation which troubles you, underscore the question in which you are in doubt and send a stamped, addressed envelope, and I will return the reply to you.

OFFICER C. E. KELLY INJURED IN CRASH WITH MOTORCYCLE

Motorcycle Officer Charles E. Kelly, of 631 Clifton road, was treated at Grady hospital Monday night for superficial body injuries received earlier in the evening, when the machine he was riding was struck by an automobile said to have been driven by M. Holtz, of 809 Moreland avenue.

According to police reports, Kelly was going east on Hunter street, and the auto was attempting to make a "U" turn in middle of a block near the city garage when the crash occurred.

Probe Is Asked Of Copley Group Of Newspapers

Washington, March 19.—(AP)—Demand for an investigation of the financing of the newspapers recently purchased by Ira C. Copley, former member of the house from Illinois, was renewed today in the senate by Senator Norris, republican, of Nebraska.

Senator Norris read a telegram from John Callan O'Laughlin, vice president of the Copley Press, Inc., denying charges made in a letter by Willis J. Spaulding, of Springfield, Ill., which Norris read in the senate last week that Copley was buying newspapers for the "defense" of public utility companies.

A telegram from the owner and publisher of the Los Angeles, Calif., Express, denying that Copley is now negotiating for the purchase of that paper also was read by Senator Norris.

Describing the offer of O'Laughlin to have Mr. Copley make a full statement of his newspaper purchases in Illinois and California to any government body as "very fair and just," Senator Norris repeated his proposal for the federal trade commission to investigate.

Constipation and Biliousness Cause High Blood Pressure

High blood pressure is both functional and organic, often produced by over-eating or mental strain, while constipation and biliousness are underlying causes. In either case, Alertox, through a process of elimination, thoroughly cleanses the system of its impurities and tends to reduce pressure in the veins and arteries by carrying out, through the intestinal tract, excess water in the system which the sweat glands have failed to secrete.

After the first dose or two of Alertox you note a decided improvement in reduced blood pressure, also in your general health, because Alertox removes, in one action, more poison bile from the system than any other known formula, leaving you buoyant, vivacious and alert. Ask any one who has tried it. At all druggis' or sent direct upon receipt of price, 60c and $1.00. Crystal Carbonic Laboratory, Dept. 33, Atlanta, Ga.—(adv.)

Your Lazy Liver Poisons Sytem

Stagnant, poisonous waste matter in the body which accumulates and remains in the lower bowels 2, 3 and 4 days at a time, is commonly known as "backwash." To get rid of this condition which is absolutely poisoning your blood stream, use Dr. Tutt's Liver Pills, famous for 80 years for their splendid results. Get a box at all druggists. 25c and if you don't think it the best quarter you ever spent, go and get your money back.—(adv.)

Have You Got Catarrh?

Try Dr. Blosser's Medical Cigarettes for Next Attack

Nasal catarrh is not only disagreeable and offensive, but it will lead to serious trouble.

That inflamed condition of the mucous membranes of the air passages of the head, nose and throat may spread to the point where it is incurable and a danger to life.

Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes are composed of medicinal herbs, flowers and berries. The warm smoke vapor is inhaled into the affected air passages and will go where sprays, douches and salves cannot reach. They contain no tobacco or cubebs, and being harmless, are used by children, as well as adults.

If you suffer from any catarrhal trouble, catarrhal deafness, hoarseness, asthma, hay fever, bronchial irritations or are subject to frequent colds, get a pocket-size package of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes, and prove for yourself their pleasant, beneficial effects.

BLEEDING ITCHING PAINFUL HEMORRHOIDS

Piles are no longer the curse they used to be. No other malady responds so readily to the right treatment. Discharges of blood and mucous end in a jiffy and pain stops just as quickly when you introduce "PYRAMID" for Piles. You'll be delighted. Per box 60c. Just ask your druggist for "Pyramid" or write for free trial comfort box in plain wrapper.

Dr. W. K. Moorehead Tells Of Archaeological Finds

VISITOR IS HONOR GUEST AT DINNER

Dr. Warren K. Moorehead and his assistant, Miss Margaret Ashley.

The archaeological wealth that lies beneath the surface of Georgia's soil, an indication of which has been revealed by the celebrated excavations of Dr. Warren K. Moorehead in north Georgia, near Cartersville, formed the principal topic of discussion at a luncheon Monday at the Henry Grady hotel at which Claude L. Ashley, mayor pro tem of Atlanta, was host to the distinguished archaeologist; Clark Howell, publisher of The Constitution, and Miss Margaret Ashley, assistant to Dr. Moorehead in his work at Cartersville and research student of archaeology at Columbia university.

Dr. Moorehead outlined the work that he has been directing in the Murray county and Bartow county sections and elaborated on some of the important finds, explaining their significance in unraveling the extinct civilization of Indians formerly inhabiting those regions. Recent discoveries in the ancient village site and Indian mounds at Carter's Quarters, on the Coosawattee river banks, have linked the Indians of Georgia with the famous Toltec and Axtec civilizations.

The possibilities presented in this state for archaeological investigation are vast, Dr. Moorehead intimated to his listeners. With proper support Georgia would become the center of attraction for research workers, Dr. Moorehead said.

Dr. Moorehead returned to the excavation scene about six weeks ago. He came to Atlanta for a few days on business and will address the regular Rotary club luncheon here today. It is probable he will go back to Andover some time in April. Miss Ashley expects to resume her research studies at Columbia next week. In May she will proceed to Andover to complete the research work she is doing for Dr. Moorehead on pottery and ceramic finds brought from the ancient Georgia village site.

LAKE CARGO RATE INJUNCTION ASKED IN WEST VIRGINIA

Charleston, W. Va., March 19.—(AP)—The decision of the interstate commerce commission in the lake cargo rate case was assailed and defended in federal district court here today.

Arguments were presented supporting and opposing a petition by southern coal operators who seek an injunction to restrain the commission from preventing southern railroads from making a reduction in freight rates to the northwest effective.

Lines were drawn anew for the economic dispute termed by one of the counsel as "strife between states for commercial supremacy" as interested organizations from the territories involved filed petitions to intervene on one side or the other of the court action to test the power of the commission.

At the outset of the hearing, the government and the various southern railroads involved filed answers to the operators' bill.

THREE MEN KILLED WHEN AUTOMOBILE TIRE BLOWS OUT

Phil Campbell, Ala., March 19.—(AP)—Three men were killed and another seriously injured last night when a tire on their automobile blew out and sent the car into a ditch beside the highway.

The dead are: Royace Wamsley, 30; Ollie Fowler, 40, and Ellvie Bentley, 32, all of Phil Campbell. Fred Bates, 25, of Milwaukee, Wis., was severely injured. Bates was visiting with relatives here.

I. C. C. Authorizes Construction of Short Line in Oklahoma

Washington, March 19.—(AP)—Construction in Oklahoma of 59 miles of new railroad from Hooker to Keyes, was authorized today by the interstate commerce commission.

The Beaver, Meade and Englewood corporation, which now operates a short line of Oklahoma railroad, will undertake the work and provide $1,196,762 to meet the costs.

The company originally sought authorization to build through from Hooker to Des Moines in New Mexico, a distance of 157 miles. However, it decided that the construction from Hooker to Keyes was all that it could undertake immediately.

The line is expected to serve a fertile farming and grazing area which has prospects of developing gas or oil resources.

FINAL SERVICES HELD FOR EUGENE ROGERS

Funeral services for Eugene C. Rogers, 25, of 1732 Lanier drive, S. W., who was fatally burned Saturday morning when he came in contact with a high voltage electric wire at the Porter Fertilizer company, were held Sunday night from the chapel of Harry G. Poole. The Rev. T. T. Davis officiated. The body was taken early Monday morning to Seneca, S. C., for interment.

MACKAY TELEGRAPH MERGER RUMORED

New York, March 19.—(AP)—Negotiations were reported under way today for the acquisition of the Mackay companies by the International Telephone and Telegraph company. The consolidation would bring the uniting of ocean and land telegraph and telephone systems in many parts of the world.

The International Telephone and Telegraph company, as a holding corporation, operates through subsidiaries a large network of communication lines in 47 countries in both hemispheres. Since its organization in 1920 it has expanded rapidly, particularly in Latin America. Control of all American cables was acquired last year.

The report was attended by marked activity in the stocks of both corporations. International Telephone common, which rose nearly $12 a share last week, was bid up 3 points more to $163, and at one time sold $2 above that figure. Mackay Companies common rose $13.50 to a new high price of $131 while the preferred gained $10.75 to $83.

WRECKER BLAMED FOR DERAILMENT

Pushing a vigorous investigation of the derailment early Monday morning near Jesup, Ga., of the Kansas City-Florida Special train No. 8, which cost the life of Fireman Hubert M. M. Acuff, of Macon, and severely injured Engineer Fred M. Pair, Southern railway officials late Monday said they believed the derailment had been deliberately arranged.

The engine, two mail cars and an express car were thrown off the track when the train, northbound, ran into a switch which had been opened and locked. This latter factor leads officials to believe the derailment the work of train wreckers.

Conductor D. F. Pinholster, of Atlanta, joined officials in the opinion that the switch had been deliberately opened and locked to cause a wreck of the fast train. The speed of the train, on what was presumably a clear track, caused the engine and cars to be thrown off when the train swerved into the siding. Air brakes stopped the train almost instantly and prevented derailment of more cars.

Engineer Pair was scalded and bruised and Fireman Acuff was killed instantly when pinned under the engine. The only other injured were A. R. Jones, mail clerk, who sustained a sprained ankle and bruises, and L. Lawson, negro train porter, who was cut and bruised.

None of the passenger cars left the track, according to the report of Southern railway officials, and none of the passengers was injured. The track was cleared with unusual dispatch and the train arrived in Atlanta at 11:05 o'clock Monday morning. It was scheduled to arrive at 6:15 o'clock.

PROSPERITY ERA IN GEORGIA SHOWN

"For instance, take the several thousand employees of a new mill recently put into operation near Gainesville, Ga. Most of these employees have come directly or quite recently from farms adjacent to or relatively near Gainesville. They have changed from producers to consumers of farm products. They make products that go to the world, thus bringing money from afar to be paid out in wages in Georgia and in turn paid to farmers for their products.

30 Per Cent Farmers.

"Approximately 30 per cent of the people of this country are engaged in farming. The other 70 per cent are consumers and non-producers of farm products. The prosperity of the 30 per cent of farmers depends upon the prosperity by regular employment at good wages of the 70 per cent. If the 70 per cent is not well employed or employed at low wages, they will be able neither to buy nor consume in normal quantities the products of the farm, which means less demand and therefore surplus production and low wages.

"Georgia is fast becoming a balanced state by the rapid incoming of industry and commerce. Our raw materials are being converted into finished goods on our own soil by our own labor, who in turn buy their food, clothing and other necessities and conveniences from our own merchants. When we shipped our raw products out of our state to be finished by labor of other states our farmers did not supply those workers with food nor did our merchants sell goods to them, but had to rely upon those who produced the raw materials only.

"The incoming of industry is, to my mind, probably the greatest single factor in our increasing earnings, and prosperity and as an ideal balanced condition between production of farm products and their consumption and conversion into finished products by our people become more complete our prosperity, happiness and net earnings will continue to increase.

"Georgia being such a large state with such diversity of climate and soil, it is hardly possible that all sections of the state can be above the average of the country in any one year, but I repeat that from a profit standpoint in the state as a whole the people of Georgia did well last year."

Collections Speeded Up.

Income tax collections up to March 15, the last day for the filing of returns, was speeded up considerably by the maintenance of a special staff of tax agents in the internal revenue offices in the federal building. Mr. Rose made special arrangements so that Atlantans could be waited on by tax experts in the revenue offices, and as a result, the usual long lines of waiting citizens were eliminated.

Activities of Mr. Rose and his staff in urging early filing of returns resulted in very few people waiting until the last minute, and the number of delinquents was said to be remarkably low.

PACT OF PACKERS UPHELD IN RULING BY SUPREME COURT

Washington, March 19.—(AP)—The "packers' consent decree" by which the big packing companies agreed to confine themselves to the meat packing business and give up handling unrelated commodities was sustained today by the supreme court which refused to cancel the agreement.

The packers stipulated in the decree upheld today that their consent was given to its entry upon the condition that it would not be considered an admission that they had been guilty of violating the anti-trust law. They charged that the government violated this agreement by filing a brief claiming that the entry of the decree implied a finding of facts necessary to support it.

The Swift and Armour groups joined November 5, 1924, in asking the supreme court of the District of Columbia, which entered the decree to vacate it, attacking the jurisdiction of the court to enter it. The district supreme court refused to set aside the decree and the district court of appeals finally asked instructions of the supreme court which instead of answering the questions as to jurisdiction, ordered the whole proceedings transferred to it for decision on its merits, and this decision, rendered today was against the packers.

NAMES OF COOLIDGE AND HARDING BRANDED

when Senator Nye said he had heard the reports which Robinson referred to.

Senator La Follette, progressive republican, criticized the silence of President Coolidge and Secretary of Commerce Hoover with regard to the oil scandals.

Senator Harrison, Mississippi, democrat, said Mr. Coolidge, while vice president, and Secretary Hoover had addressed a gathering of republican leaders at Chicago in 1922 when attempts were being made to pay off the party deficit which Sinclair later contributed to.

Siddons Issues Denial.

Justice Frederick L. Siddons, of the District of Columbia supreme court, issued a statement denying that he had ever received a mysterious package. The Teapot Dome committee was said to have received information that a package of bonds sent from Sinclair's New York offices addressed to a Washington official during the Fall-Sinclair conspiracy trial, over which Justice Siddons presided, had miscarried.

Information which might solve the mystery came when Chief Justice George E. Martin, of the District of Columbia court of appeals, said his son-in-law, George Sus, a Sinclair employee, sent him a package of Christmas cards. He said the cards were sent from Marshall-Field company in Chicago at his request.

There was some delay in delivering the package but he had not heard, he said, of any mistake in the address.

Nye Still Unconvinced.

Chairman Nye has not convinced himself of the reliability of the report about the "mystery" package.

"I cannot make too sweeping a denial that any package or any communication directed from any such source—any oil company or anyone else—has come to me," Justice Siddons said.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, who was assistant secretary of the navy when the Teapot Dome deal was consummated and who carried to the white house the draft of the executive order transferring the naval reserves to Secretary of Interior Fall, contributed $100 to Senator Borah's "conscience fund" being raised to return the republican contribution of $160,000 made by Sinclair after the Teapot Dome deal.

Debate Without Warning.

The sensational senate debate was precipitated without warning when Senator Harrison, Mississippi, democrat, rose to take exception to a press statement of Senator Nye describing Borah's "conscience fund" as "foolish" and denying that there is little difference between the democrats and the republicans in the matter of political contributions.

"What warrant has the senator for saying that?" Harrison demanded.

Nye retorted that E. L. Doheny gave to both parties.

"Men of Sinclair's type play both ends against the middle," Nye added. "The only reason the democrats have not done so well is that no man pays as much to keep a spare tire in repair."

"I wonder if anybody in the democratic party has organized a fund to pay back Doheny?" Brookhart, Iowa, republican, asked when Harrison lauded the effort of Borah to raise money to pay back Sinclair.

Humor Held Dubious.

"The senator may think that's funny," Harrison said.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, democratic floor leader, took issue with Harrison, saying he saw no justification for returning the Sinclair money unless on the theory that Sinclair thought he was buying immunity and failed to get it.

"My idea of poetic justice," said Reed, Missouri, democrat, is to let Sinclair stew in his own juice and then pay for the juice. The rank and file of the republican party should not be charged with the burden of this wrong. The president has been as silent, as complacent and as satisfied as if nothing were wrong."

Senator Walsh, of Montana, who has conducted the Teapot Dome investigation, said there was no justification for Nye's criticism of the democratic party.

"I challenge the senator to say whether he knows of anything before like it," Walsh said. "The scandals of Grant's administration were picayunish compared with this."

Nothing As Bad.

"No, I don't recall anything as bad," Nye replied.

Senator Robinson, Indiana, republican, took up a counter attack on the democrats asking if the late Franklin K. Lane did not resign as secretaary of the interior under Wilson to accept a $50,000-a-year job with Sinclair.

"No," retorted Walsh. "He went with Doheny but what does the senator mean to imply by that? Does he mean to attack a dead man?"

Senator Hiram Johnson, republican and a college mate of Lane's, defended Lane as a decent, upstanding American, and democratic senators, violating the rules of the senate, applauded.

Robinson, of Indiana, then shifted to Governor Smith. He asked Chairman Nye if Smith had not appointed Sinclair to the New York state racing commission in 1922, 1923 and 1924.

Sinclair Contributor.

"I have received some information to that effect," Nye replied. "I do know, however, that in the 1920 campaign when Smith was elected governor, Sinclair was a liberal contributor to the Smith campaign fund."

"Does the senator speak with any information?" asked Walsh, of Montana, in a tone indicating surprise.

"He does," Nye replied.

"I am under the impression that the relations between Smith and Sinclair were very close," Robinson, of Indiana, said. "The chairman of the committee might do well to summon Governor Smith and ask him to explain his relations with Sinclair."

"That is a very irrelevant suggestion," Nye replied.

For Good of People.

Robinson insisted that the investigation should be held "for the good of the people."

Senator Reed, of Missouri, opposing Smith for the democratic presidential nomination, asked if Robinson meant to insinuate that Smith received any Continental bonds from Sinclair.

"I don't know," Robinson replied.

"Surely the senator doesn't think that Governor Smith turned public property over to Sinclair," Reed persisted.

"There is much circumstantial evidence that indicates Governor Smith ought to be called here to clear it up," Robinson said.

"Are we considering the migatory blue bird bill?" asked Senator Bingham, Connecticut republican, referring to the measure then theoretically under discussion.

Heflin Makes Reply.

"I don't see any harm in discussing the predatory bird bill," observed Senator Heflin of Alabama, who had been listening to the reports concerning Governor Smith with intense interest.

Senator Borah refused to have debate diverted and made his charge that the Teapot Dome conspiracy was hatched at the Chicago convention.

"For more slimy, sordid betrayal of a public trust I know of nothing to be compared in meanness and vulgarity of purpose with the group of men who met in the little green house," Borah said, charging that the deal arranged at Chicago was carried out in the famous little green house here after the Harding group came in.

"As a republican, as a senator and as an American, I thank Senator Walsh and the others responsible for these disclosures," Borah continued.

Better for Party.

"I know it's better for the country and I think ultimately it will be better for the party. Every republican who thinks as much of his country as he does of his party will join with me in thanking them."

Senator Blaine, Wisconsin progressive republican, interrupted to say that President Coolidge reached the white house "by way of Sinclair." He criticized the president for reappointing Secretary Mellon and other Harding cabinet officers and for remaining silent in face of oil exposures. He said all officials who have been silent or acquiescent ought to be driven from office. But he thought Borah's plan of returning Sinclair's gift would "compound the felony." Borah replied he wanted no corrupt money in the party treasury.

La Follette Questions.

Senator La Follette, Wisconsin progressive republican, demanded to know why Mr. Coolidge and Secretaries Hoover and Mellon have said nothing.

"How can the republican party clear itself until its responsible leaders repudiate that transaction?" he asked.

"I am not responsible for the leaders," Borah replied. "If they want to go before the people in the next election with their lips sealed it might be the best thing which could happen for the country."

"Mr. Hoover has not reproved the action nor mentioned a word about it," La Follette said. "Mr. Coolidge, who was the chief beneficiary of the payment of the money because it cleared the way for his election, has remained absolutely silent."

"That's true," Borah agreed, "and if the Kansas City convention nominated a man whose clothes smell of smut the party will face defeat."

RAISED SUBMARINE REVEALS TRAGEDY

Full Tube of Oxygen.

Apparently no effort had been made to add to the oxygen supply in the torpedo room by tapping the oxygen flask which is provided in each compartment of a submarine. The flask was in its rack, and a test showed that there was considerable pressure in it. The valve was shut.

The gas masks which were available to the imprisoned men had been made ready for use. They had been taken out of their canvas containers, but it was impossible to determine whether they had been used.

No attempt had been made to escape from the submarine by way of the torpedo tubes or the torpedo hatch, officers who entered the compartment reported. The torpedo tube doors all were closed and there was no evidence of an effort to make use of the hatch. The gear of the listening tube had been shipped, but the stethoscopes had been removed and lay on the work bench. This indicated, it was said, that the prisoners hoped that the tube would be used for providing them with an air supply, and made ready by taking off the inner gear.

Evidence of Communication.

On the side of the hull in the compartment the searchers found places where the paint had been chipped and broken by a hammer as the imprisoned men sought to communicate with their comrades in surface ships before they succumbed to the poisoned air.

The bodies of the torpedo room were in good condition. Two others, one found in the engineroom and the other in the motor room, were less well preserved. Immediately after the preliminary search of the hull, medical officers began to prepare the bodies for removal to the Chelsea naval hospital for identification.

The S-4 was placed in drydock at the navy yard in the forenoon and as soon as the water and oil had been drained off, the members of a board of investigation appointed by Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, commanding the first naval district, began its work. The board consists of Captain J. D. Willson, senior member; Commander F. Enright, Lieutenant Commander E. P. Eldredge, Lieutenant Commander F. K. Libenow, Lieutenant T. S. Wylly, Lieutenant Arthur C. Smith, and Lieutenant Commander G. B. Dowling.

Mud Inside Vessel.

At 1 o'clock the torpedo room was opened for the first time since the disaster. Those entering were Lieutenant Commander Eldredge, Lieutenant Commander Dowling, Lieutenant Commander H. G. Mauken, medical officer during salvage work; J. H. Taylor, fingerprint expert, and George B. MaGrath, medical examiner of Suffolk county. Lieutenant Smith maintained telephone communication with the navy yard during the search.

In the narrow confines of the torpedo room, the bodies strewn about the deck made it difficult for the searchers to move about. The gray mud which had seeped in from the ocean bed off Provincetown covered bodies, deck and walls.

It was remarked that the control room clock had stopped at 3:34 and that the indicators of the motors both were at "stop."

The board of investigation will begin its formal work tomorrow after the ammunition has been removed from the submarine.

COUNCIL BACKS 1928 CITY HOSPITAL BODY

The 1928 committee predicated its contention that elections of the 1927 committee were illegal on the theory that the 1927 committee "held its elections on December 29, 1927, and that they were not submitted to city council for approval as is required by the city code." Mr. Mayson ruled that the actions of the committee are "subject to the approval of city council, but that it is not mandatory on the committee to offer them to council for such approval."

Hope for Peace Fades.

Hope for an amicable adjustment of the differences between the two councilmanic factions and those of the doctors faded when the resolution was first offered with Alderman G. Everett Millican, chairman of the 1928 committee, leading that division's battle, while Alderman J. Allen Couch, of the fifth, and Robert F. Pennington, of the first, both of whom were members of the 1927 committee, upheld action of that body.

Two members of the 1927 committee, Alderman Charles M. Ford, of the tenth, and Councilman Horace Russell, of the ninth, are no longer members of council.

Councilman W. E. Saunders, of the twelfth ward, who had prepared a paper designed to obtain appointment of a committee to investigate the feasibility of turning operation of the instituton over to Emory university, did not offer the resolution after several members of the medical profession asked that he refrain from presenting it.

Although council approved the York resolution by a vote of 23 to 4 on show of hands, Mr. Mayson contended that council is powerless to undo what the 1927 committee did in election of a staff.

White's Move Tabled.

A move by Councilman John A. White, of the fourth ward, which sought to increase the powers of the police, fire and hospitals and charities committee so that they would have "absolute control of their respective departments" and which was labeled by opponents "as an omnibus bill designed to tie in other committees and force elections of the 1928 committee down the throats of the 1927 committee," was tabled by an overwhelming vote, when Mr. Mayson ruled that the committees have that authority now, but held that officials elected by one committee could not be dismissed without cause and a trial.

This was the opening gun in the verbal battle, and was followed a few minutes later by presentation by Mr. Millican of rule changes voted by the 1928 committee. He asked councilmanic ratification of action of the 1928 committee.

Mr. York's resolution was then offered before a vote was taken on the Millican motion. Members of the 1927 committee elicited a ruling from the city attorney that even ratification by council of action of the 1928 committee could not upset the elections it made December 29, 1927, and did not offer any strenuous objection to the paper until Mr. York on second reading of the paper inserted abrogation of action of the 1927 committee.

Although Mr. Mayson ruled that in his opinion even this could not have any legal bearing on the elections made by the 1927 committee, members of that body in 1927 voted against it.

During the debate a move to table all the papers relating to the Grady fight missed passing by a vote of 18 to 13, both factions contending that council should take a definite stand and "end the unfavorable publicity which the institution is getting because of the turmoil."

Councilman White scored what he termed quibbling while "those who need the services of the institution suffer," and called attention to "unfavorable publicity which the useless and destructive argument has initiated."

FLOYD SMITH, 7, LOSES COURAGEOUS BATTLE FOR LIFE

A pall of gloom settled over Grady hospital Monday night when one of its little patients, Floyd Smith, 7, of 2070 Bankhead highway to whom everyone connected with the institution had paid especial attention, died shortly after 10 o'clock.

The little fellow, after having spent some time in two other local hospitals, was taken to Grady on March 12 following a mastoid operation which apparently proved successful. Last Tuesday he was forced to undergo an operation for a brain tumor and though he was thought by physicians to be well on the way to recovery late Monday afternoon his condition took a sudden turn for the worse and he weakened rapidly until the end came Monday night.

During the past two months young Smith had been forced to go under the influence of anaesthentics for five operations, three of which were major in character. He was cheerful and brave, however, throughout his long fight for life and he endeared himself to everyone at the city hospital.

The youth is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Smith; two sisters, Eloise and Winette Smith; a brother, and his grandmother, Mrs. J. B. West.

His body was taken to T. C. Bazemore's undertaking establishment and funeral arrangements will be announced later.

EQUALIZATION FEE IN FARM AID BILL UNDER DISCUSSION

Washington, March 19.—(AP)—The equalization fee provision of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill was reached today by the house agricultural committee, but no action was taken.

Chairman Haugen said that he expected the committee, which for several weeks has been considering the bill in executive session, would vote tomorrow or the next day on whether the fee would be retained in the measure.

The committee today approved a section of the bill to give the proposed federal farm board authority to enter into "marketing agreements" for distribution of agricultural produce.

MARINES TO SAIL FOR NICARAGUA ON WEDNESDAY

Washington, March 19.—(AP)—The detachments of marines from the Atlantic coast ports which will make up more than half of the 1,000 marines ordered to Nicaragua last Friday, are to sail from Norfolk, Va., and Charleston, S. C., Wednesday.

The Minelayer Oglala is to embark 446 officers and men at Norfolk and the supply ship Bridge is to take abroad 162 officers and men.

FINAL RITES TODAY FOR J. W. HEPBURN

Funeral services for W. J. Hepburn, 49, traveling salesman of Sumter, S. C., who died Sunday night in a local hotel from a heart attack, will be held at 5 o'clock this afternoon from the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son. The body will be taken tonight to Sumter.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Frances Hepburn, of Atlanta; his mother, Mrs. C. C. Hepburn, of Sumter; four sisters, Mrs. Thomas Read, Mrs. J. W. Brunson and Misses Annie and Elizabeth Hepburn, all of Sumter, and a brother, R. C. Hepburn, of Lakeland, Fla.

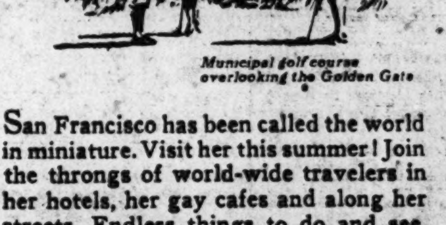
America's coolest summer city



Municipal golf course overlooking the Golden Gate

San Francisco has been called the world in miniature. Visit her this summer! Join the throngs of world-wide travelers in her hotels, her gay cafes and along her streets. Endless things to do and see. "The scene of more novels and the theme of more appreciations than any other city west of New York," the author Will Irwin describes her, adding fervently "This sweetheart of the cities!"

Summer's average maximum temperature in San Francisco is only 65°, and it doesn't rain. Her carnival spirit, inherited from the Spanish founders and the later argonauts of the Days of Gold, will captivate you. "The poppy in California's hair," Irvin S. Cobb describes this city that he loves best of all; and Rudyard Kipling writes: "San Francisco has only one drawback. 'Tis hard to leave."

Forty-four thousand miles of California motor roads ribbon out from San Francisco to the fruitful orchard valleys, Yosemite, the Big Trees, Carmel, Del Monte, Redwood Empire or Valley of the Moon. Network of scenic railroads. Right at hand, along the Golden Gate and about San Francisco Bay, are 33 golf courses, sparkling yacht harbors, playfields and tennis courts where champions are made, bridle paths by park and beach, grand mountains, and always San Francisco herself on several times seven hills, each hill quainter or more beautiful than the last.

Low roundtrip excursion fares will be in effect on all railroads beginning May 15. Your ticket will take you the length of the Pacific Coast for about $20 more. Hawaii and the Orient lie just beyond. Judges To Choose Girls for Style Show Wednesday

Atlanta's sixteen prettiest and most stylish girls will be selected Wednesday morning.

They will be chosen by stage and style experts to appear in the fashion show of spring to be staged by the George Muse Clothing company at the Howard theater the week of April 2.

Two hundred and fifty girls who applied for these positions in response to an appeal sounded through The Constitution on behalf of Muse's and the Howard have been notified to be on hand at the Howard theater at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning to appear before the judges who will choose the lucky sixteen.

Officials of the theater and of the Muse company were highly gratified at the heavy applications, the size of the list establishing the claim that Atlanta is a city of beautiful women, they pointed out.

The style show in which the winners will appear will be conducted throughout the week of April 2. Most gorgeous creations from the resplendent spring stocks of the Muse company will be worn by them in morning, afternoon, evening and sports wear.

LAFAYETTE MERCHANT JAILED IN SHOOTING

Lafayette, Ga., March 19.—B. B. Carroll, well-known merchant of West Lafayette, was placed in jail here on charges of shooting W. D. Moore to death in his store Saturday. It is understood that he claims that he shot in self-defense as Moore was advancing on him with a knife. Moore was drinking, it is reported, and started an argument that finally led to the shooting.

Moore is survived by his widow.

Fireman Killed, Engineer Hurt In Jesup Wreck

Macon, Ga., March 19.—(AP)—Fireman Hubert M. Acuff was killed and Engineer Fred M. Pair was seriously scalded when the Kansas City special of the Southern railway was derailed at Jesup, Ga., south of here early today.

A. R. Jones, Marietta, Ga., mail clerk, was slightly injured while L. Lawson, negro porter, Atlanta, was cut and bruised.

An official report to the railway was that the train hit an open switch which evidently had been thrown dedeliberately by persons who intended to wreck the train. Railway detectives were working on the theory. The switch had been thrown and locked.

Africa and America Are Linked by World's Latest Radio Service

Akron, Ohio, March 19.—(Special.) Mr. and Mrs. Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., now in the jungles of Africa, today sent the first radio message from a radio station erected on the Firestone plantations in the interior of Liberia to a station erected on the roof of the Firestone factories here. This not only marks a new era of communication in the interior of inaccessible countries, which heretofore could only be communicated with by foot messengers through trails, taking days to receive any word from the outer world, but it marks a new era of commercial use of the radio from continent to continent and gives the Firestone company great advantages in developing its million acres of rubber lands it has secured from the Liberian government, which are located over 5,000 miles from headquarters at Akron, Ohio. Hereafter daily reports from the plantations to Akron will be made by radio.

Mr. Firestone has been in Liberia since early January and in his first report by radio today said that Liberian government officials were giving every support and cooperation in the company's great undertaking to make Liberia one of the important rubber growing countries of the world.

FLORIDA RED CROSS AIDS STORM VICTIMS

Washington, March 19.—(AP)—Reconstruction work for sufferers in Saturday's twister, which did extensive damage in Orange and Lake counties, Florida, was begun by the American Red Cross.

A report to national headquarters of the Red Cross from its Florida field representative places the number of persons affected at 75 with one fatality and nine injuries.

Red Cross chapters in the two counties, which are handling the relief work, have reported that all immediate needs of the sufferers have been met. Medical assistance has been given the injured and persons whose dwellings were made untenantable have been provided temporary shelter.

NEGRO GIVEN 5-10 YEARS ON BURGLARY CHARGE

Convicted Monday in Fulton superior court on charges of burglary, Manget Cheney, negro, was sentenced to five to ten years by Judge John D. Humphries.

Cheney was also found guilty of shooting at City Policeman F. A. Turner, said to have cornered the negro surprised in an attempt to loot an A. & P. store on Edgewood avenue and Boulevard, February 28.

Sentence of a year on the shooting charge and a second year on charge of carrying a pistol, will run concurrently with the original penalty.

JUDGE WOOD SPENDS $633.25 IN CAMPAIGN

Judge Jesse M. Wood, of the criminal court of Atlanta, spent $633.25 as an unopposed candidate for reelection in the recent county democratic primary, according to his report filed Monday in Fulton superior court.

Judge Wood this week is presiding in the civil division of municipal court during the absence of Judge Hugh M. Dorsey, who is in Washington for a few days.

CACHE OF WHISKY BARED BY SEARCH OF SCUTTLE HOLE

Something unusual about a scuttle hole which opened into the attic attracted the attention of prohibition officers Monday when they raided the home of Essie May Page at 34 Piedmont circle, and on investigation they found that the scuttle hole led to 19 gallons of whisky, according to testimony before United States Commissioner James E. Brown.

The agents told Judge Brown that they found a quart of whisky in a bookcase, and that further investigation revealed the scuttle hole hiding place. Judge Brown held the defendant for the grand jury under $300 bond.

The second raid this month on the home of Luther Cross, at 826 Simpson street, brought to light eight gallons of whisy, prohibition officers told Judge Brown. The commissioner said that the Cross home was raided on March 6 and a gallon and a half of liquor was uncovered. He held Cross under $300 bond for the grand jury.

DEFENDANTS WIN IN PATENT CASE

A decision in favor of George T. Warren, et al., defendants in an infringement suit brought by Harry L. Hussman Refrigerator & Supply company, plaintiff, was handed down Monday by Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley. The patents involved dealt with showcase refrigeration, having been granted to John Schulte and assigned by him to the plaintiff. Judge Sibley held that the art of refrigeration was old in 1915 when the first of the two alleged infringed patents was applied for.

THEATER REVIEWS

JIMMIE HODGES AGAIN GREAT HIT ON CAPITOL BILL

Jimmie Hodges, that personable comic who is sweeping Atlanta audiences off their feet with his own inimitable brand of comedy, presented Monday his second show to Capitol theater audiences, and it was no less than three times as good as the initial week's vehicle which, in show parlance, "wowed 'em"—and how!

A condensed version of "My Dream Girl" is the current show, and Mr. Hodges has boiled it down so that it includes only the most meritorious bits of the production. And then Jimmie, himself, jumps in and gives it that touch you love to laugh at.

This week, more clearly than before, is demonstrated the strong reason why Mr. Hodges proceeded to establish himself as the favorite musical comedy star of Atlanta. Everything he does is funny. There's no reason why a man twisting a hat should produce a laugh. And ordinarily it doesn't—but that doesn't go for this Hodges chap.

Incidentally, instead of the one chapeau of last week, Jimmie this week shows his versatility and fiddles—or whatever it is—with three of the head coverings.

The production is sound musically, and includes many lilting and whistleable melodies. One in particular, "What a Wonderful Wedding That Would Be," sung by Patsy O'Neill, puts the show in the class with the highest type of musical comedy presentation.

The Hodges quartet, making its initial appearance this week proved show-stoppers twice with two numbers, which makes their batting average all hotsy, as anybody can see. The chorus this week is equipped with more colorful and more striking costumes than last week, and this lends charm to the production.

The vaudeville bill this week is headed by Ann Chandler, the international favorite of song, who proved the hit of the vaudeville with her song program. Vic Lauria, "the Italian Shiek" proved popular and Mary Zoeller and company, xylophone artists, were rewarded nicely.

Reginald Denny scores on the screen this week in "That's My Daddy" and he has a hard job keeping a cute youngster from stealing the picture. The kid is worth the price of admission alone, and the rest is thrown in.

—ELMO HAMBY.

FINE VAUDEVILLE BILL IS OFFERED AT LOEW'S GRAND

Julian Hall, versatile showman, band leader, comedian, dancer, singer and musician, and his talented coworker, Kathleen "Red" Dexter, are headliners on a vaudeville bill at Loew's Grand theater this week, which is a mighty good show. With his jazz band and his partner Julian Hall appears in two acts and they keep lots of fun moving around while they are on the stage.

With this unusually clever vaudeville entertainment is the Loew feature picture, "The Crowd," and it is safe to say that the whole town will be talking about this picture before the week is over. This reviewer desires to go on record as recommending it in the highest possible terms and in insisting that every person in Atlanta that can possibly see this picture visit Loew's Grand this week. Unquestionably "The Crowd" approaches real art and is an achievement that should reflect great credit on King Vidor, the director. James Murray, Eleanor Boardman and Bert Roach play leading roles. It is a picture that grasps the interest from the start and holds it with a tenacious grip. Those who miss seeing "The Crowd" will miss the best picture, in this reviewer's opinion, that has been offered in Atlanta in years and years.

Back to the vaudeville bill it can be said that the program as offered by Hall and Dexter and their coworkers is also of more than ordinary merit. The Hall-Dexter skit, entitled "What's S'Matter," is funny and well done, while the big band act is easily one of the best seen here recently. Julian Hall besides his many other feats does a Charlie Chaplin imitation with real finish.

Jimmy Gildea and company offer a musical comedy oddity entitled "Up the Nile." It, too, is exceedingly well done. It introduces some pretty girls, who wear attractive costumes, and in Gildea is presented a resourceful comedian. John Madden sings several attractive song numbers.

Julian Hall and his crowd on the same program that offers such a magnificent picture as "The Crowd," is a combination that comes seldom to any theater and certainly ought to shatter some records at Loew's Grand this week.

—PAUL STEVENSON.

EMPIRE THEATER OPENING MARKED BY LARGE CROWDS

Opening to capacity audiences Monday, the new Empire theater, one of the finest neighborhood houses in the south, located at Crew street and Georgia avenue, not only gave audiences a film treat in "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris," a hilarious film comedy, but also presented them with a distinct treat in the way of architectural beauty.

Perhaps the most novel feature of the new theater is the remarkable invention, the Orchestraphone, which with the latest model pipe organ, provided music for the theater that is equal to that furnished by the most elaborately equipped of the larger feature houses.

The theater throughout is a model of theater construction and Manager Alpha A. Fowler, who supervised its construction, is to be commended on the eminent attractiveness of the theater. Today's picture at the house will be "The Warning," a stirring action picture featuring Jack Holt.

U. S. FLEET STARTS ANNUAL CRUISE OF FAR EASTERN PORTS

CLARA BOW WINS HOWARD AUDIENCE IN CLEVER PICTURE

Clara Bow, the vivacious, redheaded flapper of the screen, who made "It" famous some months ago in Elinor Glyn's fascinating story of that name, is again captivating local audiences at the Howard—this time, creating a riot of laughter and fun in "Red Hair."

The only criticism of the picture that could possibly be made by the most cynical of reviewers is that the picture ends too soon. "Red Hair" is the kind of picture that grips the audience with such interest that it ends, seemingly, in only a few moments.

Undoubtedly, Clara Bow is at her best. The plot of the story is ideally adapted to the winsome ways and personality of this youthful, dynamic Paramount star.

Portraying the role of a manicurist in a city barber shop, Miss Bow plys her trade well—plays hands with wealthy old bachelors, gold digs them and makes them like it.

The climax is unexpected. With a dash and a vim which met with instant approval of the large matinee audience Monday, the finis comes.

The affable wielder of his magical musical wand directs, in pleasing style, one of the best stage performances to be seen at the Howard in many months. This attraction is featured by a bevy of beauty contest winners from the principal cities of Florida.

Chester Fredericks, tap dancer supreme, is unquestionably the snappiest specialty dancer to appear here in a long while. Other dancers and songsters round out a well-balanced song and dance revue.

—FRED M'EACHIN.

JAZZ ORCHESTRA IS ACCORDED TOP HONORS AT KEITH'S

An unusually good jazz orchestra, a black-face singer and three other interesting acts, plus a society life screen drama, "Come To My House," featuring Olive Borden and Antonio Moreno, make up an entertaining and well-balanced program at Keith's Georgia theater this week.

Jack Kneeland and his "Merry Makers" took first favor with Monday's matinee crowd, and offered some real up-to-the-minute jazz selections. Some excellent singing, a comedy skit "Morn 'Till Night," and a clever presentation of the "Varsity Drag," the latest dance, were also included.

Although not billed as a headliner, Rody Jordan, as the blackface singer, attracted plenty of attention and was the source of continued laughter and applause during his appearance. He gave several selections on a bass saxophone.

Another of the acts that scored a big hit was Janet, of France, a charming little French beauty in a comedy of military life written by Johnny Cantwell from his own experiences in the army. Assisting in the act were Byron Hawkins, William Rand and Lloyd Crafton.

Ann Clifton first appeared in male attire, sang several songs and then switched over to her regular outfit—voice as well as clothes.

A combination circus act presented by Riblo and Lacotyna company received hearty applause. The act consisted of three acrobatic clowns and some clever canine stunts.

An overture by the Keith-Albee concert orchestra and a news reel are also a part of this week's program.

Democrats May Use "Jefferson Gavel" At Houston Meet

Houston, Texas, March 19.—(AP)—A worm-eaten oak gavel, said to have been used by Thomas Jefferson when he presided over the senate as vice president, may be used to rap the democratic national convention to order here next June.

The gavel was presented to Jesse H. Jones, finance director of the democratic national committee, who said today he would turn it over to convention authorities.

Miss Lee Taylor, vaudeville actress, who made the presentation, said the gavel had been handed down from Zachary Taylor, twelfth president of the United States, and had been in possession of her family ever since.

"We hope," she told Mr. Jones, "that in giving it to the democratic convention here in Houston, it will serve in some way to stir up memories of all that Jefferson meant in early Americanism."

JOLSON CONTINUES SENSATIONAL RUN AT METROPOLITAN

Its sensational run fed by the flames of public favor into a fifth record breaking week here, Al Jolson's classic film, "The Jazz Singer," Monday opened to the usual large and enthusiastic audience which joined with those of the past four weeks in acclaiming the mastery of Jolson and the new Vitaphone.

Each successive week that this extraordinary film plays at the Metropolitan but adds to the wonder of the unique attraction of "The Jazz Singer," for through opposition of all kinds, the picture has consistently maintained a standard of business which not only is intensely gratifying to the management of the theater, but which reflects unlimited credit to the producers of such a picture.

"The Jazz Singer" and Vitaphone have grown to be institutions with Atlanta, as such a picture naturally should be. It will be more a matter of surprise if the film is not continued into a sixth week, as phenomenal as it may seem, rather than if it is held over.

As to praise—the plaudits of public and press in the light of this remarkable achievement in local theatricals are totally unneeded, and film criticism resolves itself into a mere report of the financial success of "The Jazz Singer."

But again, the critic urges, if there is in the whole city one soul who has not viewed the film, to see "The Jazz Singer" and then will be explained the astonishing run of the Jolson-Vitaphone classic.

Rialto.

Warwick Deeping's "Doomsday," at the Rialto all week, will hold your interest throughout. To say that Paramount has done well with this extraordinary novel is to put it mildly. Florence Vidor, who plays the part of Mary Viner, gives a truly inspired performance. Cary Cooper, who occupies the supporting male part as Arnold Furze, is a most convincing character. These two stars do some of the best acting of their careers.

West End.

The William Fox screen translation of the celebrated stage success, "What Price Glory," will end its successful engagement at the West End theater tonight. This greatest of all war films is having the triumph it deserves. The leading roles are played by Victor McLaglen, Edmund Lowe and Delores Del Rio.

Palace.

Conway Tearle, who has the stellar role in "Isle of Forgotten Women," the Columbia production which closes at the Palace tonight, is given another opportunity to add laurels to his already abundant supply. The Dempsey-Sharkey fight pictures will also be shown for the last time at the Palace tonight.

81 Theater.

(MIDNIGHT FROLIC.)

Heralded as "the greatest event since armistice," "Dixie Brevities," one of the speediest and snappiest colored musical comedies ever produced, will play at 11 o'clock Friday night at the 81 theater to a big midnight frolic for white people only.

Produced by Miller and Slayter, the former a brother of the noted Irvin C. Miller, Broadway star, and whose show last week was perhaps the finest of any seen in Atlanta, "Dixie Brevities" comes here with a large and exceptionally talented group of America's foremost colored musical comedy stars.

Among these are such famous names as Cooper and Thomas, the well-known radio and record artists, who will furnish singing, dancing and comedy to midnight audiences Friday night. In addition to the large array of stars, a chorus of 16 peppy choristers and a special jazz orchestra will also be featured. Ticket reservations should be made immediately at the 81 Decatur street theater, or by calling Walnut 1154.

Loree Will Renew Plea for Merger of Three Rail Systems

New York, March 19.—(AP)—Rumors that his plan for a merger of Kansas City Southern, St. Louis Southwestern and Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroads had been abandoned, were denied today by L. F. Loree. A new plan, he reiterated, will be ready for submission to the interstate commerce commission on April 2.

Mr. Loree declined to comment on reports that stock of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas, which was acquired as part of the original consolidation program, had been sold. Purchase of these shares had been disapproved by the interstate commerce commission, which has cited the Kansas City Southern to appear next Monday to answer charges of violation of the Clayton act through continued holding of the securities.

DEFENSE CLOSES SPEED TRAP CASE

Columbiana, Ala., March 19.—(AP)—The defense in the murder trial of Police Chief H. F. Blake, charged with the murder of Miss Louise Monteabaro, introduced a surprise witness just before resting its case late today, when R. E. Green testified he saw Henry Haygood, negro, and star witness for the state, in Birmingham at the time Haygood previously had testified he was on the Montgomery highway near Calera.

Testifying for the state, Haygood last week told the jury he drove past Miss Monteabaro's automobile after she had been pursued and arrested by Blake and Officer H. F. Farmer, of the Calera police force, for reckless driving.

As he drove by, he said, a woman standing beside the automobile with blood streaming down her face exclaimed: "Oh don't take my pocketbook."

Preceding Green on the stand were 11 character witnesses for Chief Blake. They said the police officer had an excellent reputation in his home city of Calera.

Most of the day's session was taken up by the testimony of Blake himself, who reiterated his previous story of the girl committing suicide after he and Farmer had arrested her. He told of the pursuit, capture and of Miss Monteabaro's shooting herself with the small pistol she carried with her in her automobile.

The defense rested at 4:30 p. m., after which the state placed Dr. F. G. Dubose, of Selma, on the stand in rebuttal. Dr. Dubose, who aided in an autopsy on the girl's bodq, testified it would have been possible for the girl to have walked and talked, as Haygood testified for the state, after she was shot.

The state will go forward with its rebuttal tomorrow. On its completion the case will be given to the jury.

WOMAN AND FIREMAN INJURED IN BLAZE

Fire of undetermined origin completely gutted a two-story brick apartment, the Maribet, at 650 Boulevard, N. E., Monday night and caused injuries to two persons.

Mrs. M. J. Lester, an occupant of the building, was forced to jump from the second story to safety when she was unable to escape by means of the stairway. She suffered only slight injuries.

FIFTEEN INJURED WHEN DENVER HOTEL BURNS

Denver, Colo., March 19.—(AP)—Fifteen persons were injured, four seriously, when an early morning fire partially destroyed the Colorado House, one of Denver's oldest hotels.

All of upwards of 100 guests were believed to have escaped or to have been carried to safety by firemen. Several received minor injuries when they jumped from second and third story windows.

Five persons, at first believed to have been trapped on the third floor were accounted for.

Bert C. Hart, Denver, was believed to have been fatally burned, Roy Bender, Denver, was thought to have sustained internal injuries and William Caphert, address unknown, was suffering from a fractured skull. Four firemen, including Fire Chief John Healy, were cut and bruised by falling timbers.

The blaze started on the first floor about 2 a. m. and soon swept through the structure. Several persons jumped from the windows when heat prevented firemen from placing ladders against the building.

Marine Fliers Take Off To Meet Army Air Party

Managua, Nicaragua, March 19.—(AP)—Lieutenants George C. McDonald and Robert B. Williams, flying amphibian planes from Panama, hopped off this morning en route to Minatitlan, Mexico, where they will join the party of F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war for aviation, and Major General James E. Fechet, chief of the American air force.

Mr. Davison and General Fechet, due to a mishap to one of the planes in which they are making a flight from Washington to Panama, have postponed further flight until the new amphibians arrive at Minatitlan.

The American pilots covered the distance from Panama to Managua in 6 hours and 40 minutes, one stop being made at David, near the Panama-Costa Rican border. The distance to Minatitlan is about 1,500 miles and stops will be made in Salvador and Salina Cruz.

Mississippi Legislature Lauds Work of Former Constitution Reporter

Jackson, Miss., March 16.—(Special.)—The legislature of Mississippi, in session here, shattered all precedents Friday, when both houses, in unanimous resolutions, urged the retention at the capitol of Frank Craigie, former special writer for The Atlanta Constitution, who is here as staff correspondent for the New Orleans Item.

Information that Mr. Craigie's assignment would be shifted to the Mississippi gulf coast, was said to have caused the unusual action of the legislature.

Mr. Cragie was "war correspondent" for The Constitution with the Georgia brigade during its mobilization at El Paso, Texas, and during its training period at Camp Harris and Camp Wheeler, at Macon.

Mrs. Craigie, who as Cecilia Keating Craigie, formerly of Atlanta, has been writing feature stories for Mississippi newspaper, was included in the resolutions of the legislature.

FISHER 'INVITED' TO COAL INQUIRY

Harrisburg, Pa., March 19.—(AP)—Senator James E. Watson, chairman of the senate committee which is investigating conditions in the bituminous strike area, today telephoned to Governor John S. Fisher and invited him to confer with the committee.

The governor requested the senator to reduce his invitation to writing and promised to give his written request "prompt and respectful consideration."

It was understood here that the governor probably would go to Washington to testify before the committee on receipt of this invitation but that he would refuse to go if subpoenaed.

In his telephone conversation, it was announced at the governor's office, Mr. Fisher declined to comment in any way on the senatorial investigation or on his speeches of last week in Easton and Scranton beyond saying his offer to cooperate and furnish any information desired still held good.

Earlier in the day the governor announced that he favored a conference of representatives of both branches of congress, the executive department of the federal government, all the states in the bituminous region, labor, operators and the public in an effort to "find a cure for the ills of the industry."

DAVIS AGAIN FIRES ON MUNITIONS BILL

Washington, March 19.—(AP)—For the second time in less than a week Secretary Davis of the war department engaged in verbal battle today with members of the house foreign affairs committee over the merits of the Burton anti-war munitions export resolution as an instrument of world peace.

The secretary warned that adoption of the resolution, which would prohibit export from the United States of war munitions to belligerent nations, might prompt present non-munition producing nations to build up a munitions industry.

Minimize War.

Several committee members including Chairman Porter and Representative Burton, republican, Ohio, autor of the proposal, argued that the refusal by the United States to export munitions would tend to minimize the possibility of this country being drawn into a conflict.

Porter also made public a letter from Secretary Kellogg which said that a ban on munition exports would not violate the "obligations of neutrality."

"Neutrality may be said to be an attitude of impartiality by non-belligerent states toward belligerent states," Mr. Kellogg said.

Neutrality Upheld.

"It is not perceived that the resolution would have an effect on the definity of neutrality. There is no obligation on a neutral state to permit or to forbid the exportation of arms, munitions, or implements of war by private persons.

"Therefore, the prohibition of traffic in arms, munitions and implements of war as proposed in the resolution would not violate the obligations of neutrality.

"Nor would action taken by congress to life an embargo constitute a hostile act, a violation of neutrality, or be cause for declaration of war by a belligerent country, provided such action by congress applied equally to all the parties to a war."

SOLON WOULD GIVE IDLE WARSHIPS TO SCHOOLS FOR STUDY

Washington, March 19.—(AP)—A proposal that the idle government war time ships be turned over to high schols and colleges for vocational training in seamanship was made today by Representative Wood, republican, Indiana, in a statement to the house merchant marine committee. He said he would incorporate the plan as an amendment to his shipping bill now under consideration before the committee.

Riots Feature Pre-Election Plans In Argentina

Buenos Aires, March 19.—(AP)—Violence which has cropped up in recent weeks continued to feature preparations for the presidential elections to be held April 1. Shots were exchanged last night among irresponsible elements and three bystanders were wounded.

Former President Irigoyen, one of the candidates, believing that victory is already assured, and in order to prevent further disorders, has ordered his followers to suspend the campaign and to close their political subcommittees.

INDOLENT CHRISTIANS SCORED BY MORRISON

Scoring indolent "self-styled Christians as a worthless lot" and issuing a warning that unless the Methodist church lives up to the "expectations of God Almighty. He will raise up another sect to carry out His plans," the Rev. H. C. Morrison Monday night flayed those who have failed to "carry on for God," and called them to repentence.

Dr. Morrison, one of the biggest figures of the southern Methodist church, declared that unless the people show "a zeal for God and follow the teaching of the Bible, no man can bring a revival to any church."

He is delivering the sermons at a two-week revival service being held at the St. Paul Methodist church, of which Dr. B. F. Fraser is pastor. He began the series Sunday and spoke to packed houses at both services. He will speak at 10 o'clock each morning and again at 7:30 o'clock each night this week except Saturday, when there will be no services. Music is under the direction of W. H. Timms, prominent Atlanta business man.

No Rheumatism Now!

S.S.S. and Rheumatism
Simply don't get along together

You know it cannot be rubbed away

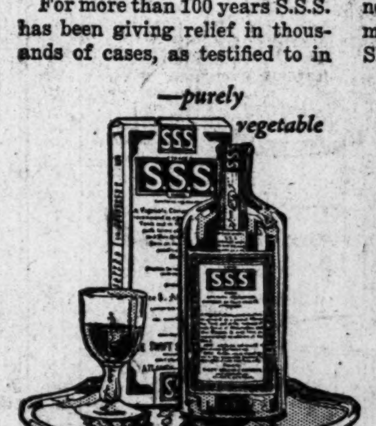
ARE you one of those unfortunates who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, commonly called rheumatism, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep?

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.?

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"After suffering several years, six bottles of S.S.S. completely relieved me of rheumatism. It also cleared up a skin eruption and gave me a good appetite. I think S.S.S. is a wonderful medicine."—R. L. Busic, Southern Railway, Knoxville, Tenn.

"I was very nervous, had hardly any appetite, and suffered with rheumatism. I tried many medicines, but S.S.S. is the one that did me the most good. I am now well, and feel like a new man."—William Osborne, 2406 Sloan Street, Flint, Michigan.



S.S.S. is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Get the larger size. It is more economical.

Of Atlanta's Entertainment Sensation!

Mr. Carter Barron, Manager,
THE METROPOLITAN THEATRE,
City.

My Dear Sir:

For years I have been a patron of Theaters, both in this country and in Europe, and since the days of the "movie" I have switched over to that form of entertainment almost exclusively.

This is the first letter I have ever written relative to expressing my opinion as to a "movie," but after having seen that marvelous and wonder of all wonderful pictures, "Al Jolson in the Jazz Singer," I cannot help but write you, Mr. Barron, to thank you personally for bringing to Atlanta that which will do more good in every way, teaching a lesson to us all, bringing to the surface any good that might be in us, giving the REAL definition of what LOVE really is, than anything that has ever been seen in this city.

What a great pity that every man, woman and child in Atlanta cannot see this MASTERPIECE, a picture in a class to itself. All our Ministers and Clergy should see this; we know it would help everyone. I believe if some newspaper editors could witness this soul-stirring, pulsating, living picture, we would possibly get an editorial from some of them that would move hundreds of them to take advantage of seeing this wonderful production of MOTHER LOVE, a picture that has brought tears of joy to hundreds that have been privileged to see it, not once, but many times.

Earnestly yours,
GEORGE W. BOSMAN.

Lenten Days in Atlanta Are Gay With Social Entertainments

Lent finds Atlanta gay with social functions and Tuesday's calendar is replete with parties engaging the interest of civilian and military society, with luncheons, dinners, bridge-teas and other forms of entertainment honoring the smart set. Mrs. Edward Carpenter will be honor guest at the informal luncheon given Tuesday at the Biltmore by Mrs. Gray Zalinski. Mrs. Carpenter leaves Atlanta for Europe at an early date with her husband, Colonel Carpenter, who has been made military attache to Germany from the United States, and Mrs. Zalinski's luncheon will assemble a small group of Mrs. Carpenter's intimate friends to bid her farewell.

Misses Eugenia Calvert Holland and Marian Clark, popular students at National Park seminary in Washington, D. C., who are spending the spring holidays in the city as the guests of Misses Dorothy and Harriett Collier, will be entertained at luncheon today by Misses Mary nad Elizabeth Dodd at the Athletic club.

Miss Martha Hodgson, bride-elect of March, will be hoonr guest at Mrs. Stephen Barnett's luncheon given at her home on Fourteenth street, while other events on today's calendar include Mrs. W. H. Haselton's bridge-luncheon in honor of Mrs. Harvey Meriwether, the guest of Mrs. Albert Baumberger; Miss Hilda McConnoll, bride-elect, will be honor guest at the bridge-luncheon given by Miss Rowena Ferguson at the home of Mrs. C. A. Rauschenberg on Habersham road, and Mrs. F. W. Blalock entertains at a children's party at Piedmont Driving club in compliment to her daughter, little Miss Martha Blalock, in celebration of her sixth birthday.

Miss Ferguson Honors Miss Hilda McConnell.

Honoring Miss Hilda McConnell, whose marriage to Brainard R. Adams will be solemnized at an early date, Miss Rowena Ferguson entertains at a bridge-luncheon Tuesday at the home of Mrs. C. A. Rauschenberg on Habersham road.

Besides Miss McConnell and Mrs. Rauschenberg, the guests will include Misses Polly Stone, Carrie Scandrett, Mesdames Linn Adams, John T Dennis and Robert M. McFarland, Jr.

Mrs. Moore To Organize "Youth Forum" in Atlanta.

Mrs. J. D. Moore, Jr., of Birmingham, Ala., will organize a "Youth Forum" in Atlanta Wednesday evening, March 21, at 8 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce building. The subject of her opening lecture will be. "The Call To Youth," and Mrs. Moore is the organizer of the forum in Birmingham, which has been widely syndicated. The meeting takes place under the sponsorship of the Simplex Shorthand school.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford At Warm Springs.

Warm Springs, Ga., March 19.—Mr. and Mrs. Edsel Ford, of Detroit, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Pierson, also of Detroit, at their home in the Meriwether Inn Reserve at Warm Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Wilson, of Philadelphia, and their son, Norman Wilson, have arrived and will spend an indefiinte time at the resort.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Peabody have arrived from New York city and will spend the spring months.

Mrs. Harold Otis and her two daughters, the Misses Alice and Mary Otis, of New York city, are guests at the Meriwether inn.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Browne, of Cleveland, Ohio, are spending indefinite time visiting their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Root, of Greenwich, Conn., the latter having just returned from Florida.

Miss Elizabeth Retan, of Boston, is a late arrival at the inn.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Y. Josephs and daughter, Miss Marie Josephs, of Duluth, Minn., were late guests at the inn.

Mrs. T. Douglas Robinson, wife of the assistant secretary of the navy, and her son, T. Douglas Robinson, Jr., are at the resort.

Peachtree Hills Club Plans Benefit.

The Peachtree Hills Woman's club is sponsoring a benefit bridge at the Elk's club, April 2. Mrs. Grover Tilles, chairman of the committee, held a called meeting at her home Thursday morning and final arrangements were completed.

There will be table prizes as well as a number of lovely draw prizes and light refreshments will be served. Those wishing tables please make reservations early by calling Mrs. Tillis, Hemlock 5712.

Memorial Group Meets Friday.

The Atlanta Ladies' Memorial association meets with the president, 217 Fifteenth street, N. E., Friday afternoon, March 23, at 3 o'clock. A full attendance is necessary as plans for the Memorial day exercises will be made and delegates appointed to the convention of C. S. M. A. at Little Rock.

Mr. Boifeuillet To Speak To Garden Committee.

The garden committee of the Atlanta Woman's club meets Thursday, March 22 at 12 o'clock at the Woman's club building. John T. Boifeuillet will speak on "Gardens of the World." Mr. Boifeuillet's ability and attainments as a writer and speaker are well known in Atlanta.

The Flower Exchange is open for the spring season and anyone having plants or slips for sale may bring same to this meeting.

It's a Pity To Stay Fat
In these days

Don't do it, when so many have found the right way to reduce. You see them in every circle—happy, healthy people who have lost that burden in an easy, pleasant way.

Since the year 1907, people have been fighting excess fat by scientific methods. They combat the cause. Were fat as common as it once was the dress styles of today could never have come into vogue.

That modern method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. Over-fat people have used them for twenty years—millions of boxes of them. Now you see the results wherever you look. Why not enjoy them yourself?

Users of Marmola are not forced to abnormal exercise or diet. Moderation helps, but starvation is taboo. One simply takes four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal.

Every box of Marmola contains the formula, also the reasons for the many good results. You know just what you are taking and how you get the effects. You will have no fear of Marmola when you know the scientific facts.

Go get a box today. Learn how it acts, and why. Then watch the results in new vitality and loss of weight. Then tell your friends. You can do no greater kindness to people who overweigh.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

Clean-Up Campaign To Be Launched By Mrs. J. R. Little

Mrs. J. R. Little, chairman of the civic department of the Atlanta Woman's club, calls a meeting Tuesday morning, March 20, at 10:30 o'clock in the assembly hall of the Chamber of Commerce, to make plans for the April clean-up and paint-up campaign.

The clean-up campaign will be on a very much larger scale this year than usual, with the senior and junior body of the Chamber of Commerce and the woman's division of the Chamber of Commerce giving full cooperation bringing different civic organizations and trade bodies into the movement. In addition to these Mrs. Little has the cooperation of the mayor, I N. Ragsdale; John J. Jentzen, chief of sanitary department; L. L. Wallis, superintendent of parks; Willis Sutton, superintendent of the public school system; Georgia Railway and Power company; merchants, grocerymen, druggists and our newspapers have promised full cooperation in every way in this clean-up campaign.

The late Mrs. Sam D. Jones inaugurated "clean-up week" while she was president of Atlanta Federation of Women's clubs, in 1907, and it was made an annual event with the mayor issuing [illegible] proclamation each year, making "clean-up week" an official act. In the evolution of club life, clean-up campaign week means the beginning of a 52-week campaign, and appeals to women. Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, president of the oldest and largest woman's club in Atlanta, invites every club in the city, both men and women, to cooperate in this campaign.

Auxiliary Honored By Mrs. Tompkins.

Those present were Mesdames Glenville Giddings, Floyd McRae, Jr., Winship Nunnally, Louis Gregg, Ewell Gay, Harrison Jones, Sam Slicer, Joel Hurt, Jr., Jerry Osborne, Brooks Morgan, Rucker McCarthy, Robert Troutman and James Ragan.

Gov. and Mrs. Hardman To Attend D. A. R. Convention.

Governor and Mrs. Hardman will be among the distinguished visitors attending the State D. A. R. conference which meets in Augusta March 27, 28, 29. Governor Hardman will speak at the opening session of the conference at the Junior college auditorium. While in Augusta they will be the guests of James Ricker at the Forrest Hills-Ricker hotel.

Better Homes Group To Give Benefit Bridge

For the first time in its seven years of welfare work for Atlanta, the Better Homes in America committee will give a benefit in the form of a bridge party at the Henry Grady hotel ballroom Friday afternoon, March 23, at 3 o'clock, with Mrs. Charles Harding, former telephone chairman for the homes committee, as chairman for the party.

Mrs. Newton C. Wing, state chairman for Better Homes in America, will assist in the arrangements, and the following committee, many of whom have in the past served as chairman of homes subcommittees, are on the committee for tables: Mrs. R. I. Reed, Mrs. Ed Pierce, Mrs. John G. Courtney, Mrs. Homer Jessup, Miss Isadora Lyon, Mrs. J. A. Carlisle, Mrs. Moreton Rolleston, Mrs. P. C. Fabel, Miss Clara Lee Cone, Mrs. J. E. Springer and others. Reservations for tables have already been made by Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, Mrs. James A. Little, Mrs. George Ripley and Mrs. George Price. Tables are $2. Mrs. Harding may be reached at the Henry Grady.

The receipts from the party will be tinguished guests attending the reception to be given the last of March for Miss Julia Connor, administrative assistant of Better Homes in America, with headquarters at Washington, who will be entertained by Atlanta's leaders while in the city. The homes committee plans also to have an elaborate exhibit at the state P.-T. A. convention here in March, of which Miss Clara Lee Cone will be chairman.

Library Committee Meets Tuesday.

The library committee of the auxiliary of Wesley Memorial hospital meets Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Jonathan Moody at 60 Montgomery Ferry drive.

Plans will be discussed for the annual book donation day, which takes place Friday, March 30, at the hospital. Mrs. Plato Durham, president of the auxiliary, will be an honored guest at this meeting.

The library committee is composed of the following members: Mrs. Jonathan Moody, chairman; Mrs. Phillip Ammons, co-chairman; Mrs. Walter Mitchell, secretary; Mrs. B. K. Vann, treasurer; Mrs. Walter Holmes, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ashby Taylor, Mrs. Homer Thompson, Mrs. George Lester, Mrs. Billy Alexander, Mrs. William Parker, Mrs. William Warren, Miss Corday Rice, Miss Julia McCullough, Miss Venice Mayson, Miss Bernard Neal.

College Belles Honored on Visit To Misses Collier

Among the most attractive of the spring visitors in the city are Misses Eugenia Colvert Holland and Marian Clark, popular students at National Park seminary in Washington, D. C., who are the guests for the spring holidays of Misses Dorothy and Harriett Collier. This foursome of lovely young belles are the center of much social attention from the members of the college set.

They will be honor guests at the luncheon at which Misses Mary and Elizabeth Dodd will entertain Tuesday at the Atlanta Athletic club.

These visitors formed the inspiration for a trio of lovely affairs Monday. They were the luncheon guests of Miss Sarah Law at the Atlanta Athletic club, covers being placed for a small group of the hostess' close friends.

Mrs. Wallace Daniels' bridge-tea was a charming compliment to the Misses Collier and their guests. Mrs. Daniel invited to meet them twelve members of the school girl set.

Miss Mary Crenshaw entertained at an evening bridge party at Agnes Scott college which was also planned in honor of these visitors.

Fort McPherson Social Life Is Filled With Entertainment

Fort McPherson, Ga., March 19.—Society in army circles will be unusually gay during the week with entertainments in honor of General and Mrs. Abraham G. Lott, recent popular additions to the garrison, and parties honoring many attractive visitors, while the Bridge and Riding clubs are still centers of interest. The ladies' riding class met Sunday morning in the post riding hall and Monday the Bridge club held a prominent place on the calendar when Mrs. Harry J. Keeley entertained the Afternoon club and Mrs. Marvin W. Peels was hostess to the members of the Twenty-Seventh Bridge club.

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Thomas Mayo will be hostess at a bridge-tea in special compliment to her guest, Mrs. Emanuel MacEachern, of Boston, Mass. Mrs. Mayo has arranged for three tables of players and additional guests for tea. Those present will include Mesdames George F. Baltzell, C. R. Dunham, J. V. Dunham, of Chicago, Ill., who is the guest of Lieutenant and Mrs. Arthur M. Parsons; Mesdames Nelson Myll, Stanley Blanton, Simeon J. Seal, Maxwell G. Keeler, DeWitt C. Smith, Robert Moore, Henry W. Robinson, Gilbert Procter, Arthur M. Parsons, John Weckerling, Marvin W. Peck, I. H. Joffee, Miss Florence Blanchfield and Miss Tilton.

Wednesday General and Mrs. Richmond P. Davis will be hosts at a golf-luncheon at the Druid Hills Golf club. Covers will be placed for ten. During the afternoon the men will pursue their favorite game of golf, while bridge will be the diversion for the ladies.

The Bob White troop of the Girl Scouts will have the weekly meeting at the Officers' club Wednesday afternoon.

A charming visitor from Clarksburg, West Va., is Mrs. A. W. Rapp, who arrived Monday for a two weeks' stay at Fort McPherson as the guest of Colonel and Mrs. Melville S. Jarvis. Mrs. Rapp is en route from Baton Rouge, La., where she was the guest of her son and daughter, Lieutenant and Mrs. W. L. Mitchell. Mrs. Rapp has numbers of friends in both army and civilian circles who will be interested to know of her visit.

Mrs. Marvin W. Peck, who has been visiting relatives in Birmingham, Ala., returned to the post Sunday, accompanied by her small daughter, Miss Frances Gertrude Peck.

An anticipated visitor of Thursday is Miss Lois Hedrick, of Washington, D. C., who will be the guest of Major and Mrs. John Hutchenson Hester at their quarters in the post.

Captain and Mrs. Des Pland, who are stationed at Warsaw, Wis., accompanied by their small daughter, Aimee, arrived Monday to be the guests of Captain and Mrs. David E. Barnett. Captain and Mrs. Des Pland are enjoying a leisurely motor tour in the southern states with stops at points of interest.

A number of attractive dinners have been planned to precede the hop Friday evening at the Officers' club. General and Mrs. Lott and General and Mrs. Cocheu will be honor guests at a dinner given by Colonel and Mrs. Harry J. Tebbetts, while Major and Mrs. Hester will entertain the same evening, honoring Miss Hedrick, of Washington. Mrs. A. W. Rapp and Mrs. Milton Hughes Pressley, who is visiting Captain and Mrs. Samuel C. Harrison, will share honors at a dinner given by Captain and Mrs. Robert Joerg before the hop at the Officers' club. Two other visitors who will be complimented at dinner Friday are Mr. and Mrs. James V. Dunham, of Chicago, Ill., who will be honor guests at a hop-supper given by Lieutenant and Mrs. Arthur M. Parsons. Another congenial party for that evening is the informal buffet supper to be given by Lieutenant and Mrs. I. H. Joffee at their quarters in the garrison.

Trade Board Women Hear Rev. Moor.

Speaking before the woman's division of the chamber of commerce Monday night, Rev. N. R. High Moor, rector of St. Luke's, said, "Civilization rises and falls with woman's conception of her sphere of activity and the manner in which she functions in that sphere." Throughout his address he emphasized the importance of spiritual insight and moral courage in woman.

Another feature of the meeting was the discussion of television or "far-seeing" by D. M. Therrell, of the Southern Bell. After Mr. Therrell's explanation of this miracle of the age, a film showing the first successful exhibition of television was presented.

During the evening Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith urged the cooperation of the division in the fight again narcotics and Mrs. Wilbur Colvin discussed the work of the division, present and future. The number of new members and visitors present was proof of the enthusiastic response of each group in the membership campaign, the first project under the group plan.

Two vocal solos by Mrs. Nellie Nix Edwards added to the enjoyment of the evening.

Modernism Finds Expression In M. Rich & Bros. Exhibition

BY LAMAR SPARKS.

We have all heard the story of a piece of string.

This is a story of a ray of light.

As sky scrapers rose higher and higher along old Broadway the streets became darker and darker. Down where the shadows of towering office buildings fell, the situation became disastrous. There was need of light.

And so the streets in New York are being zoned. Skyscrapers which plunge upward now are "set back" so that the sun's rays fall into an angle into the street. They are built upward, are pyramided—upward, another pyramid, growing smaller until they reach the top.

Necessity is the mother of invention.

We have the beinning of modernist architecture in America.

Modernism is a new world finding itself in art. It is this age of ours, machinery, air planes, pivots, and wheels, interpreted in terms of architecture, furniture, decoration, and the necessities of every-day life. It is a feeling for individuality. It is the machine age of translating itself freely and without restraint.

Room At Rich's.

Tucked away on the fifth floor of M. Rich & Brothers company is an artistic bit of this modernism, a room where the gray and silver of smoke screens blends with the metalic finish of crystal globes and many mirrors, reflecting checkered glass doors and furniture that like that old skyscraper in Broadway is pyramided with a precision and simplicity that affords reason for rejoicing that America, like the countries of Europe, is throwing off the shackles of the periods.

Not so long ago an Italian Princess visited in Atlanta. She was a real princess, but she had ideas, ideas about modern American life.

"What do you miss most over here?" I asked her.

"Have you ever seen Venice?" she said. "Well you will know what I mean. I miss the ability of American architects to adapt their work to their environment."

This princess had not seen the modernism of New York skyscrapers. She had not seen the parlor on the fifth floor of Rich's.

Arthur A. Brill, interior decorator for the company, showed me this room. Now I have little doubt that the wheels of modern machinery, the sweep of plane wings, the "set backs" of skyscrapers and the beauty of an industrial age are finding their way into American homes.

The room is lighted indirectly, electric bulbs from serrated pyramid wall pockets supplementing the effect produced by the silver, star-studded ceiling, of afternoon or late evening. Great hollow circles form the arms of the chairs. Bookcases on both sides of the replica skyscraper mantle of dark mahogany, supported by modernist columns sinking without base into the floor, are blocked, staircasing against the wall toward the mantle. Black and white squared linoleum is covered with a somber square rug. Walls, silvery shimmering blocks, are ornamented with modernistic prints. A novel tapestry, forming the background of a large cylindrical mirror, at a glance strikes the note of angles and complete curves which distinguish the room.

Mirrors.

"Mirrors are used extensively in modernist decorations," said Mr. Brill, pointing out the mirrowed globe electrileer, the mirrowed writing set and the mirrowed plate of angles and curves which occupies a place on the bookcase shelves. The checked mother of pearl cigarette box here is a real modernist piece which was brought from Europe.

This charming bit of modernism in interior decoration, which was designed by Mr. Brill himself, combined comfort with novelty. The deep plush chairs and sofa, on a base of natural wood, upholstered in somber rose with angular braiding, are inviting. And the green, silvery-toned gauze curtains before the group of glass doors, an angular effect being obtained by the straight drop of the end curtains in contrast to those in the center caught with silver modernist tie-backs, add softness and warmth which the angular arrangement demands.

"Many of the fashionable New York homes have one room in this style, preferably a small den or after-dinner coffee room," said Mr. Brill in explaining how modernism has already taken hold. "It is not, however, a room to live in long. The shades of grey and even the tones of white are most often used in this type of decoration. You will find squares, sharp angles, complete circles, with all lines carried out definitely. Lighting is generally indirect."

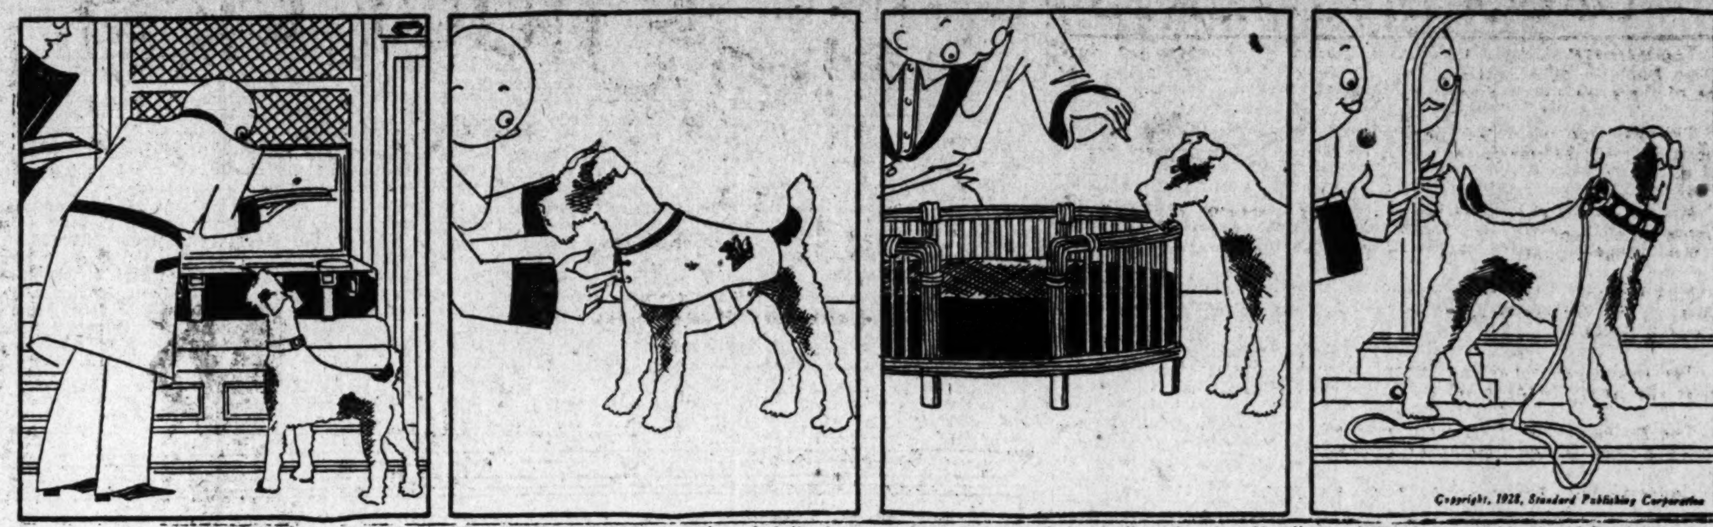
Development of Modernism.

Modernism developed when men grew tired of reproducing what others had created. It is a desire for something new, something their very own. Beginning in Germany the idea spread throughout Europe, reaching its height in the Paris exposition several years ago, when the most representative examples of all countries were collected. America was not represented. It was later that she began to express her self in similar terms. Paul Frankl is one of the foremost exponents in this country.

The feeling for a new artistic mode of expression which first translated itself into architecture, later into furniture and decoration, is finding an outlet in women's apparel, accessories and costume jewelry.

"When any art finds its way into the necessities of life," said Mr. Brill, "you may be sure that it has a lasting hold."

THE CONNOISSEUR — Mr. Van de View Packs for a Pre-Easter Southern Trip



Copyright, 1928, Standard Publishing Corporation

If a terrier could speak aloud and say the things he thinks
It would be a great relief to one as sensitive as Binks,
But he has to watch his master pack his trunk and go away
In a state of melancholia without a word to say.

But the Connoisseur has thoughtfully foreseen the puppy blues
And has bought some little trinkets to console and to amuse—
For example, in a little coat to keep Binks warm and dry

And in case he's feeling lonely, Vandie tells him with a pat,
He can sleep it all away and that will be the end of that,
For he's bought a little bed for him of gaily painted willow
That is cushioned for his comfort with a downy sort of pillow.

And to please his doggish vanity, a collar he has bought
Made especially to fit him and of brass and leather wrought,
And he looks so very handsome he forgets about his sorrow
And the bitter, bitter parting that will come upon the morrow.

DIET AND HEALTH

BY LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

A CENTRAL REGULATOR OF NUTRITION?

In an article in a French magazine, Dr. G. Leven tries to prove that there is a regulator of weight or nutrition connected with the nervous system, and that in underweight or in obesity this regulator is disordered. He says that he has frequently tried to cause a gain in weight in healthy men by having them overeat and take insufficient exercise, but he was not able to do so. He acknowledges that the duration of the experiments was but from 15 to 30 days, because, he says, the over-alimentation produced constipation and gastric disorders. He goes on to give a number of cases which he thinks illustrate his theory of abnormal functioning of this weight regulator. Here are a few of them.

Case 1. A young mother foolishly overate and drank beer with the idea of increasing the quality of her milk She became very obese. Her pregnancy had thrown her organism into disequilibrium.

Case 2. A man of 47 weighed 352 pounds. He always had a tendency to obesity. He has an ordinary appetite and drinks considerable wine

Case 3. A woman 22 years of age, always been dyspeptic, but her heart, lungs and other organs were normal. She fell down and injured herself. From then on she began to gain weight and gained 60 pounds in three years.

Now there isn't one of these cases that Dr. Leven cites that gives me any evidence that it was anything but the under-activity and overeating that caused the gain in weight. It is not unusual at all, in fact, it is quite a common experience, to gain weight after an illness or an accident. The reason is quite obvious. The convalescent appetite and the desire to regain the strength, plus the lessened physical activities, get one into the habit of overeating. It does not require any obscure nervous regulator to account for the increased weight!

Few people realize how little food above the normal needs, if it is continued any length of time, will cause a gain in weight. There is apparently a fairly wide zone within which one will stay normal, but going under, or over, the zone, for any length of time will surely result in a reduction, or an increase in weight, respectively.

Dr. Leven doesn't say that a careful count of the caloric intake was made of these patients. How does he know how much they exceeded their normal amount? Case No. 2's "ordinary appetite" carries no conviction with me. Especially with the considerable wine taken.

It is impossible to tell how much or how little a person is eating until the calories are counted. One could consume a large meal of the bulky, low-caloric foods and still be eating much less, as far as actual fuel and fattening value is concerned, than one who eats a small meal of concentrated foods.

Now for the sake of argument, we'll say there is a nerve regulator of weight and when it gets out of order there is a disturbance in the weight. Or we'll say—as is true in rare instances—that a disturbance in the internal secretary gland will cause an increase in the weight. How are we going to get the nerve weight regulator or the internal secretary glands in order again? Simply by the reverse of what brought on the disturbance. In other words, go on a scientific reducing diet. For what do we find, without exception, in these cases? There is over-alimentation; in simpler words, overeating for the needs. Most of the time it may be the chief cause of the disturbance in the "nutrition center," if there is one, or of the glands, and the overweight.

The sooner the overweight person blames his own overeating for his troubles, the sooner he is going to get relief. Those who complain so bitterly of gaining so rapidly on week-ends and vacations, etc., will find that they will lose just as rapidly if they undereat to the same extent and for the same period of time that they overate.

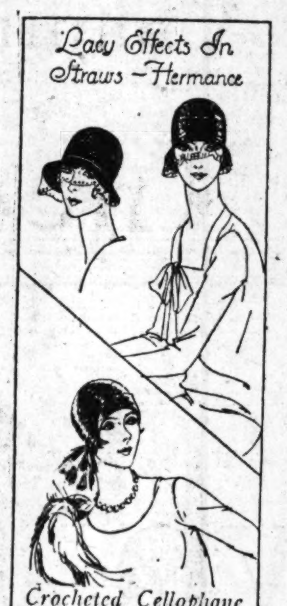
Below—One of the linen-like straws is used for the hat in this case with dotted silk employed for the band, the same silk making a scarf.

Lacy Straws

FASHION'S very definite approval of things feminine is very well evidenced in the new lacy effects that are achieved in straws. Hermance shows a black lacquered straw in lacy effect and employs drawnwork in the crown of a ballibuntl. Leghorn crowns sometimes have very wide brims in lacy effects in the same straw. One of the interesting new millinery bodies is crocheted cellophane, which Rose Valois employs in the hat illustrated in the accompanying sketch.

Scarf and Hat-band to Match

ONE of the smart shops on the avenue during the past week showed several straw hats with wide crushed trimming bands of polka dot silk finishing in a bow at the side, or directly at front in the case of one hat. These were accompanied by square scarfs of the polka dot silk, to be worn knotted on one shoulder.



Lacy Effects In Straws—Hermance
Crocheted Cellophane—Rose Valois—

Left—A black skirt with fullness concentrated at the side is accompanied by a jumper of polka dot silk, the lower edge of which as well as the scarf ends, are finished with red silk fringe. White silk crepe with scalloped edge, outlines the neck. Center—This wrap of flesh moire shows the new vogue of dyeing the fox trimming to match the fabric. Right—Bows and the yoke treatment are important details of this new Lelong model.

ONE of the smartest developments in costume completeness, we think, is the frequency with which the fur trimming matches the garment it adorns. Especially is this effective in the clear pastels that appear for evening. The flesh moire wrap illustrated, for instance, is trimmed with fox dyed to match, while another wrap noted recently in one of the new beige shades that might almost be classed as off-white was trimmed with mole in the same pale beige coloring.

EVIDENCE of the vogue for color in the new season jewelry is seen in the Chinese art jewelry which the shops are featuring. The sets include a short necklace, earrings and the three-stone brooch and are shown in carved jade, carnelian and lapis. The shops are also showing red lacquered pearls that are exceedingly chic for sports wear.

ONE of the outstanding features of the new flowers is that they are very realistic or pointedly artificial, the latter especially true of those sponsored by the French couturiers. Chanel, for instance, shows a ragged poppy in red, white and blue and Molyneux combines a calico print with straw for amusing tulips. Avenue shops are featuring both Chanel's poppy and Molyneux's tulip.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Peter Rabbit Visits Scrapper.

Use your tongue where'er you go
When there are things you want to know.
—Peter Rabbit.

Peter says that people who fear to ask questions never get anywhere. But, then, Peter doesn't realize that other people may be as curious as he is. Peter had never been particularly curious in regard to Scrapper the Kingbird until Winsome Bluebird told him that Scrapper was one of the feathered folk who spend the winter farther down in the Sunny South than most of the others do. Peter got to thinking it over. "I wonder," thought Peter, "if it is so very different down there. My, it must be wonderful to travel. I must get Scrapper to tell me about the people down where he spends the winter. I don't suppose they're much different from the people up here, the furred and feathered folk. I wonder if I've got any relatives down there. Scrapper ought to know. I must go call on him."

So at the very first chance Peter went over to see Scrapper the Kingbird. It happened at the time that Scrapper was sitting on a fence post and there was no one else about.

"Hello, old Long-ears!" exclaimed Scrapper, as Peter came hopping along up. "Hello, Long-ears. How is everything with you?"

"Fine!" replied Peter. "Just fine! Couldn't be better. How is everything with you?"

"Just the same," replied Scrapper. "I don't see but that the Old Orchard looks just as it did when I was here last summer. Things don't change much up here."

"Do they change much down where you spend the winter?" inquired Peter.

"Yes," replied Scrapper, "things never look quite the same when I get back there. You see, things grow very, very fast down there."

"Do they grow any faster than they do up here?" inquired Peter, looking a little surprised.

"Yes, oh, yes," replied Scrapper. "You wouldn't believe me if I should tell you how fast things grow down there, and trees and vines of all kinds. There are a lot of things I could tell you about that country down there that you wouldn't believe."

"Yes, I would, Scrapper! Yes, I would!" cried Peter. "Just try me and see."

Scrapper shook his head. "No," said he. "I've seen things down there that you wouldn't believe if I should tell you. You would say they couldn't be and would just refuse to believe. So I'm not going to waste my breath, Peter Rabbit."

"Is it so very different from around here?" inquired Peter. "Don't they have Green Meadows and Laughing Brooks and Green Forests and Old Orchards and Smiling Pools?"

Scrapper hesitated a bit. "Not like these up here," he replied. "The Green Forests down there they don't call forests at all."

"What do they call them?" asked Peter.

"Jungles," replied Scrapper promptly. And the jungle down there is just as different from the Green Forest up here as the names are."

"Hello, Old Long Ears!" exclaimed Scrapper.

Scrapper nodded. "The trees are different, the vines are different, the small plants are different, the flowers are different and even the grass is different. And the bugs I have to eat are different."

"And I suppose you'll say next that the birds and the animals are different," said Peter.

"Certainly," replied Scrapper. "They are different. You have never seen any one like some of them. By the way, I saw your cousin down there. I saw him down in a place called Panama."

The next story: "Peter's Tropical Cousin."

LANG AND FOOTE OPEN RUG STORE HERE ON MONDAY

The new firm of Lang & Foote Carpets, Inc., wholesale dealers in floor coverings of all types, formally opened its doors Monday to dealers in the south at 212 Henry Grady building with an elaborate stock of rugs and carpets on display. In addition to handling cotton, wool and oriental rugs, the company features a line of new patterns said to be available nowhere else in the south.

The firm is composed of Roy C. Lang, former manager of the floor covering department of a big eastern rug wholesale company and Donald M. Foote, well-known in this territory by reason of the fact that he has traveled it for several years for a house of New York importers.

Lang & Foote will offer the latest service to retail dealers throughout the south, making rugs in many lines to meet requirements of individual buyers.

WORK PROPHESIES HOOVER TO ENTER WHITE HOUSE NEXT

Washington, March 19.—(AP)—Secretary Work predicted today that Herbert Hoover will be the next president of the United States.

Dr. Work, who is a close friend and political adviser of the commerce secretary, declared Mr. Hoover would be nominated as the republican candidate on the first ballot and would receive more votes than any man either party could put into the field for the presidential election.

Hoover is "pretty well established all over the country," Dr. Work said. He expressed the belief that none of the republican candidates already announced could muster enough strength to oppose the commerce secretary successfully.

Strong Field Gathers at Augusta for Davis Cup Tryouts

Bill Tilden Heads List Of Players

First Matches Will Be Played Wednesday; Stars Look Good in Practice.

BY WHITNER CARY,
Constitution Staff Correspondent.

Bon Air-Vanderbilt Hotel, Augusta, Ga., March 19.—Eleven hours and nine minutes after arriving in this charming city and at this magnificent tavern, two distinct facts are impressed upon the more or less feeble brain of your correspondent. First, that the call of higher education to most of our first 10 tennis players residing in halls of learning at this time of the year is but a feeble whisper compared to the clarion blast of an invitation from the Davis cup committee to attempt to see Mexico as a guest of the United States Lawn Tennis association. And second, that the present form of these would-be crusaders, who on April 5, 6 and 7 will attempt to carry the gospel of superior tennis to our sister republic, is such that a sad awakening is probably in store for our cousins south of the Rio Grande.

Classes Deserted.

Taking a hurried glance at the group assembled here to do justice to the wonderful fare of this hotel and to try to get the three places on the invading team that will flank the angular form of William T. Tilden, one finds that quite a few are forsaking the call of the class room in a heroic endeavor to make the Davis cup unsafe for other challenging nations.

At the head of the list we find George Lott, of Chicago and the University of Michigan and an outstanding racquet wielder. Mr. Lott, although in his early twenties, accomplished so much on the courts last season that his name appears at No. 3 position on the official rankings.

Running on down the list one finds John Doeg, the California youngster, ranked eighth last year, and possessing probably the hardest serve in the world; John Hennessey, the Indianapolis marvel, ranked at No. 5; Arnold Jones, of Providence, ranked at No. 6, and Bill Tilden, who heads the American list, are the other three of the first 10 players who are here for the trials. Bud Chandler, of California and the Harvard Law school, a player well up in the lists and a former ranking junior; Frank Shields, junior champion of the United States; Wilmer Allison, the great university of Texas player, and Wray Brown, the St. Louis star and former member of the first 10, complete the list of 10 who will compete for places on the team. As can be seen the list includes five of the first 10. Francis Hunter, No. 2 in the national ranking, will not attend the trials or be a member of the invading team to Mexico.

Tilden arrived several days ago, some of the others hit town Sunday and Lott, Allison and Brown checked in today, making the list complete.

Stiff Practice.

All had stiff workouts today on the splendid courts of the Augusta Country club and as mentioned before showed surprisingly good form considering the time of the year. Tilden took part in two single matches this morning, disposing of Coen and Arnold Jones without the loss of a set. This afternoon he teamed with Coen in an informal doubles engagement against Lott and Doeg. The others put in some hard practice.

Tuesday and Wednesday will be devoted to practice and informal matches and the elimination contests will be held the last three days of the week. Tilden has been put in complete charge of the squad and the selection of the three who will compose the team to Mexico. The selection of this team will in no way affect the personnel of any subsequent team selected to meet other nations in the American zone matches. The winner of this zone will then meet the European zone winner in a final match played in France in July. The winner of this final match will meet France in the challenge round on French soil the latter part of July.

It is generally thought in tennis circles that while the personnel of the American team will be subject to many shifts in the American zone matches, but one team of four men will be sent to Europe.

Sarazen Leads $15,000 Open Golf Tourney

String of Birdies Puts Him Ahead of Great Field.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 19.—(AP) Counting four birdies and an eagle on the last nine to get back his lost lead, Gene Sarazen, New York and New Port Richey, Fla., winner of the majority of Florida's golf tournaments this year, led the most brilliant field ever to play in a winter tournament at the end of two rounds in the $15,000 La Gorce open tournament today. He had a score of 139.

Another 36 holes will be played tomorrow.

Spectacular shooting was the usual thing today, especially in the later play. Harry Cooper, of Buffalo, who was in a tie for qualifying medal on Sunday, knocked down five birdies for himself on the same nine.

Behind the stocky Floridian came Bobby Cruickshank, of Purchase, N. Y., tied with Johnny Farrell, last year's most consistent winner in the metropolitan area, at 140; Henry Cuici, New York, joint holder with Cooper of the qualifying medal honor, at par 142, and Cooper, Joe Kirkwood, of Albany, Ga., and Harry Hampton, of Key West, with 143.

Carries Gallery.

Cooper's five birdies brought him home in the afternoon with 31, best nine hole score of the day. The score netted him a $200 special prize.

Sarazen carried the gallery through both of today's rounds. Tomorrow he will shoot with Al Watrous and Joe Kirkwood. Farrell, another gallery favorite, will play with Eddie Held, St. Louis, and Billy Burke, New York. Cruickshank drew Al Espinosa and Jim Foulis.

Sarazen was barely on speaking terms with his putter in the early play, and they did not reach final agreement until the turn in the afternoon. He missed four easy putts in the morning 18 that would have given him an unparalleled score of 135.

Scores for the two first rounds in the La Gorce open golf tournament were:

Gene Sarazen, New York and New Port Richey, Fla., 68-71—139. Bobby Cruickshank, Purchase, N. Y., 69-71—140. Johnny Farrell, New York, 70-70—140. Henry Cuici, New York, 73-69—142. Harry Hooper, Buffalo, N. Y., 73-70—143. Joe Kirkwood, Albany, Ga., 71-72—143. Harry Hampton, of Chicago, 74-69—143. Al Espinosa, Chicago, 73-72—145. Massey Miller, Norwich, Conn., 71-75—146. George Voigt, Washington, D. C., (amateur) 73-73—146. Macdonald Smith, Great Neck, L. I., 76-71—147. Lloyd Gullickson, Cleveland, 72-75—147. Frank Walsh, Appleton, Wis., 78-69—147. Bill Mehlhorn, Pittsburgh, 74-74—148. Al Watrous, Grand Rapids, 74-74—148. Charles Mayo, Jacksonville, 72-78—150. J. W. Kenny, Toledo, Ohio, 75-75—150. John Golden, Paterson, N. J., 78-73—151. Al Cuici, Flushing, L. I., 75-76—151. Alex Ayton, Springfield, Ohio, 77-75—152. James Miller, Bradford, Pa., 71-81—152. Bob MacDonald, Chicago 74-78—152. Eddie Driggis, Great Neck, (amateur) 76-77—153. Art de Mane, Great Neck, 79-74—153. William Livie, Cleveland, 79-74—153. Mike Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., 79-74—153. Tony Longo, Hopewell Junction, N. Y., 78-75—153. Eddie Townes, Lake Wales, 81-72—153. Roland Hancock, Wilmington, N. C., 78-76—154. A. C. Picard, Charleston, S. C., 81-74—155. F. McDermott, Hollywood, 77-79—156. Jim Foulis, Hinsdale, Ill., 79-77—156. Douglas Casey, Chicago, (amateur) 77-79—156. Jim Brophy, Cincinnati, 81-76—157. Larry Nabholtz, Cleveland, 77-80—157. Jock Hutchison, Chicago, 80-78—158. Joe Bellfore, Daytona Beach, 79-79—158. Reggie Myles, Cleveland 72-78—150. Jack Causey, Jacksonville, 84-75—159. Norman Sommers, Fort Lauderdale, 80-80—160. Donald Vinton, Charleston, S. C., 89-82—162. Clarence Hackney, Northfield, N. J., 81-81—162 Ramsey Hunter, West Palm Beach, 77-86—163. James Ferguson, Spring Lake, N. J., 82-84—166. J. E. Junkin, Jr., Miami, (amateur) 83-85—168. J. J. Duggan, Decatur, Ill., withdrew. Bob Randall, Cleveland, withdrew.

Rickard Plans Championship Bout in 1928

Confers With Tunney in Miami and Both Come To Agreement.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 19.—(AP) There will be only one heavyweight championship fight this year. Tex Rickard will stage it. Other promoters who want Gene Tunney's services might just as well think up something else to want. The fight will be held in July, against an opponent yet to be named at a place not yet selected. Dempsey's retirement is definite and final.

Those were the announcements made at noon today after a quiet conference between Rickard and Tunney after the promoter's return from New York.

Rickard said:

"I don't believe it is possible to stage two heavyweight championship matches this year. Tunney had agreed to box the man I selected, early in June, and he gave me an option on the second contest for later in the summer. I had hopes of putting Jack Dempsey in one of the contests and the survivor of the tournament in the other, but now that Dempsey has emphatically announced his retirement it seems that there is a possibility comes.

"If there is anything the matter with Dempsey's eyes," says this genfor but one contest, on account of the lack of a second opponent. The champion and I have decided to postpone the June engagement until early in July. This will be the only title contest this year. I shall name the opponent at an early date."

ALL BALLYHOO, SAYS DEMPSEY.
BY ALAN J. GOULD,
Associated Press Sports Editor.

New York, March 19.—(AP)—They don't always come back, but it is difficult to keep them from trying, those who have once worn the purple robes of sport.

Take Bill Tilden and Jack Dempsey as two bright examples. Each has known the satisfaction of ruling his particular kingdom of sport for a seven-year stretch. Both began to hit the well-known chutes in the same season, 1926. There is no question that big Bill and Manassa Jack are well past the peak of their careers, yet each is slated for a leading role in this year's athletic drama.

The Chicago Tribune prints an item in which Dempsey is quoted as writing to a friend:

"Ballyhoo."

"This retirement talk is just a part of the old ballyhoo," adding that he is going to New York around the first of April to talk with Rickard and arrange for a third bout with Gene.

Meanwhile one of Dempsey's "personal representatives" returns here from the Pacific coast with the impression that Jack will be in a mood to talk fight when the proper time tleman, "it was not apparent in the ease with which he determined from the Tijuana grandstand recently that one of his thoroughbred horses won his race by a nose."

TUNNEY AGREES TO FIGHT IN JULY.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 19.—(AP)—Gene Tunney's announcement today that he will engage in only one title contest this year, to be held under Tex Rickard's management in July, takes care of the New York boxing commission's demand to know what the champion is going to do about challenges now in its hands, the promoter declared tonight.

Epworth Finals Wednesday Night

The finals in the Epworth basketball tournament will be played Wednesday night at Wesley court. The first game starts at 9:15 and will be for the championship of the girls' division. This contest will bring together the St. Marks girls and Emory Nurses and should be the best girls' game in the association this year. The boys' championship game starts at 9:40 and will see College Park and Druid Hills battling for championship honors. These games will close the basketball season of the Epworthers.

RADIO-ING The Air Waves

BY WILL SMITH.

While the house and senate are considering the radio bill now before congress the federal radio commission is consulting the government specialists and radio engineers from the radio industry on means designed to provide a more equitable distribution of radio assignments to broadcasting stations. A statement issued by the commission follows:

"In an effort to put into effect some valuable suggestions made by congress at recent hearings, and to crystallize all proposals made from various sources tending to improve radio reception, the federal radio commission for some weeks has had the free services of numerous experts who are studying the complex technical problems involved.

"Highly trained men from the army, navy, bureau of standards, and other government agencies, have volunteered their services, as well as experts from private industries and corporations.

"Criticisms and suggestions from the broadcasters have also been sought by some of the commissioners, in the hope that radio reception can be improved.

"In calling in the experts the commission asked them to confine their studies solely to the technical and engineering problems involved and to work out a fair and equitable distribution of power and wave-lengths for each and every community in the country.

"Their work is approaching an end, and if the theoretical set-up is approved by the commissioners the latter will then decide what stations should be assigned to the various channels and the power to be used in each instance.

"A number of changes in power and frequencies may be necessary as a result of the studies now being made.

"The commission feels that in calling upon the outstanding radio engineers of America, representing all branches of the industry, it will be guided along the proper channels, and any defects in the present allocation will be pointed out by them and will be corrected by the commission.

"In the light of recent information the commission hopes it may be possible to improve reception in many parts of the country."

Rachmaninoff has probably done more to make the prelude type of music known among the public by means of his famous "Prelude in C Sharp Minor" than any other one composer. Those who are familiar with this composition will, no doubt, find a great deal of interest in the "Prelude Religieux," by Lang, which is included in the Stromberg-Carlson program for tonight.

This composition follows the same general lines as other preludes, but as its name implies, is essentially religious in nature. It possesses all the stateliness of a processional, and as such, is sure to find favor among many listeners.

"The Enchanted Hour," by Mouton, is a love lyric set to music. In contrast to this selection is "Fireflies," by Savino, which imitates the flashing of the tiny phosphorescent lights in the summer evening. as a distinctly lighter touch to the program, Merle Johnson plays "Dizzy Fingers" as a saxophone solo.

The Stromberg-Carlson quintet appears in two selections, as usual, the first being "There Must Be a Silver Lining" and the second, "You're Just a Flower From an Old Bouquet."

Did you hear "Amos and Andy," WMAQ's new feature, at 7:11 o'clock Monday ngiht? You were fortunate if you did. The Chicago station finds plenty difficulty in getting through. Anyway, "Amos and Andy" are "Sam 'n Henry" reborn, and they made their debut Monday night over the Chicago Daily News station. They will be on the air every night, except Sunday and Wednesday, from 7:11 to 7:25 o'clock. We hope you pick them out of the scrambled mess the ether is in.

The Brunswick hour of music tonight will bring some of the most popular hits of recent years. Among those which promise real entertainment over WSB at 5 o'clock are "Dear, on a Night Like This," "Six Feet of Earth," "Mine—All Mine" and "Without You Sweetheart," Nick Lucas, Lee Sims and Frank and James McCravy are among the soloists.

TWO BIG EVENTS

Are Scheduled on Today's Program In the Celebration of Atlanta's 1st Annual City-Wide, Store-Wide

Easter-Festival

Styles and Home Sewing

NO more appealing styles have ever been shown in the South than those now gracing Atlanta's stores. And of no less interest is the wonderful array of new fabrics for Spring—silks, cottons, light-weight woolens and novelty materials without end, all ready to be made into attractive new garments in the mode for Spring. The new season has fairly outdone itself in the presentation of things new—things beautiful. Surely, this will be one Easter when every member of the family will want to "Dress Up."

Today, while stocks are most complete—when selection is simplified by the wide variety from which choice may be made—when special showings have been arranged in connection with this great Easter Festival—THIS VERY DAY IS THE BEST DAY FOR YOU TO DO YOUR EASTER SHOPPING!

Remember, this great Easter Festival has been arranged for YOUR benefit.

Stiff Winds Make Targets Hard To Hit

BY DICK HAWKINS.

Fighting all the elements, particularly the wind which made the targets do strange dips and jumps, W. E. Rape, of Chattanooga, won the singles trophy for Class A at the first day of the Dixie gun shoot Monday.

Each of the nine squads shooting at the singles Monday found the traps a bit more difficult than the last squad. The March breezes blowing from behind the traps sent the targets to performing all kinds of gyrations and the fast shooters were entirely at a loss.

That deliberate shooters found the windy targets more to their liking than the others was evidenced by the fact that Rape won the singles with a score of 195x200, just one target more than Harry Lanier, of Augusta, state champion, managed to break. The Chattanooga star is a very careful shooter at the singles though his doubles shooting is a lesson in speed.

In Class B Ed Dickenson, of Shreveport, took first money by cracking down 192x200 and Arthur Cuscaden, professional, stood second with 191 dead. Ike Andrews, of Spartanburg, was third with 190 out of a possible 200.

Atlantans Lead.

Class C found two Atlantans in the lead. M. C. Seaborn, professional, led the field with a score of 182, while John J. Woodside, Jr., led the amateurs with 181x200. W. S. Montgomery, of Spartanburg, scored third in this class while Charlie Skinner took fourth money with 179. Skinner would have been further in the money but his last trap on the second hundred saw him drop six out of 25.

C. E. Daffin, of Tallahassee, took first money in Class D with a score of 183x200, while H. E. Fox, of Augusta, was second with 163.

The doubles found one of the singles aces still in the money when W. E. Rape tied with A. M. Perkins for first place with 45 out of a possible 50. Ed Dickenson, of Shreveport, and Harry Lanier, of Augusta, tied with 44x50 for second place in the doubles competition, while H. R. Beckwith, of Tampa, was alone in third place with 43.

The Dixie championship 200 singles and 25 pairs doubles are on the books for today.

PETREL GRID TEAM STARTS WORK AGAIN

BY FRED McEACHIN.

After a lay-off of three weeks, the gridsters of Oglethorpe university have again donned the moleskins and helmets to complete their annual spring training football grind.

According to Coach Harry Robertson, spring training period will be ended in two weeks. During this time the candidates will be divided into two separate squads, Coach Harry in charge of one and "Nutty" Campbell leading the other. According to the plans formulated for the completion of the program, there will be two scrimmages held, one each week.

Practice.

In the workout on Hermance field Monday afternoon the chief duties of the afternoon's routine were the usual formalities of passing, punting and pacing exercises.

This afternoon another practice is scheduled and it is expected that the work will be a little harder each day, finally culminating in the scrimmage, possibly Friday afternoon.

An abundance of good material has come up from the freshman squad of last year and with this new material, Robertson will be able to whip a strong eleven into shape for next season.

HAWK-EYE-ING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS

"March Targets."

To the average man there would seem to be little difference between "March targets" and those of April, May, June or July, but the shooter at the traps will tell you there is a vast difference.

Watching them come from the trap house they seem to fly at just such an impossible speed today as they always have. They seem as impossible to hit today as ever but some of the shooters will tell you they are more impossible—if the comparative degree can be applied to such an adjective.

A lot of shooters who are always to be found at the meets in this section were not on hand Monday and we inquired of Arthur Cuscaden, genial professional, as ot just the cause of their absence. "They are out after an average and don't want to play with these March targets," was the answer. Funny, isn't it? March targets. What about 'em?

There is one thing very noticeable about these March targets of Monday, but the same might be true of August or December for that matter. A sweeping wind came from behind the trap houses on every trap and every now and then a target would catch the gust as it soared and dipped like a ship in an air pocket. A miss often resulted. The fast shots suffered most from these targets inflicted with St. Vitus dance.

Suggestion.

Just to prove that the power of suggestion plays a part in trap shooting as well as in all other sports. Harold McKenzie sat behind the first trap Monday morning when A. M. Perkins, of Baton Rouge, went to bat. The Louisiana star dropped his second target and Harold remarked about the fact only to go and do likewise himself at the first trap.

* * * * *

Discovery.

After spending several hours in the attempt, Frank Kopf and the writer have finally discovered why Charlie Skinner, of Waynesboro, shoots with the butt of his gun reposing somewhere between his armpit and his belt. We have decided that such is not the case. That Charlie really shoots with his gun at his shoulder but that the location of his shoulder is known only to Charlie.

Charlie, as you probably know, weighs exactly as much as a carload of shells and has all the appearance of a blimp about ready to take off for observation of enemy lines. Recalling our biology, the recollection came that all whales are mammals and have legs though the the same are not apparent from a casual observation of the outside. All of which proves by deduction that Charlie's shoulder is known only to himself.

* * * * *

Superstitions.

Trap shooting has its superstitions just as all the other sports have. You will find the man wearing an old worn-out shooting jacket disreputable to a superlative degree and if you know him well enough to ask personal questions you will find he has tried new jackets several times and each time his shooting has fallen off. Hence the old jacket.

One prominent shooter who is worth more money than most banks can claim as capital and surplus comes to the traps every day with feet encased in a horrible pair of shoes, patched and mended like those of a chambermaid. He will shoot in no other shoes because he can't hit targets with any others on his ample feet.

* * * * *

So He Went to the Traps.

Harry Lanier, present state champion at the traps, tells one fit for the "embarrassing moments" column. It all happened when he was a little boy and with a young friend went hunting near his home. The boys were hunting quail and when dusk came the boys had not found a single covey and had not killed a solitary quail. They were homeward bound when they were offered a ride by a colored farm hand who was drawing a load of lightwood to the house. Going up the lane the negro stopped the wagon long enough to take a lightwood knot and throw it into a covey of quail on the ground near the lane, killing three birds with the one shot.

That incident embarrassed Harry so much that he took to trap shooting, where birds are always to be found.

If This Is True!

Travea Waner is the best batter in the Waner family, according to his cousins, Paul and Lloyd. Unless the cousins are just being kind, the Pirates must have a sensation in young Travea, for last season Paul led the National league, and Lloyd was third in hitting.

3 ALL-STAR BOUTS BOOKED AT RING CLUB

Jimmie Mayson, promoter of the cauliflower industry at the Ringside club, will have for his patrons' approval on Friday evening three all-star bouts in which four of the participants are Atlanta boys, with the entire personnel of fighters well known.

Joe Knight, the boy from Cairo and a middleweight with a mean punch, has been watched rather carefully by Mayson and by showings particularly in winning eight knockouts since December 1, has been placed at the top of the list on the all-star cast. Tommy O'Rourke, Atlanta product, has the assignment to stop the fast-rising youngster.

Regan on Card.

Charley Houge and Benny Regan, parties of the second 10-round party of the program, will make it anything but a calm party, so they say. These two bantamweights—Houge from Chattanooga and Regan a local boy—have been placed for 10 rounds of the second of the three all-star bouts. They are both scaling 118 pounds at the present.

Now the third, but not by any means the least fight, has the aspect of equalling the other two named. Casey Jones, a local welterweight, and Johnny Harper have agreed to Mayson's terms and will enter hostilities for 10 rounds or so, it is scheduled.

The announcement that the card will be opened with a six-round preliminary has the marks of drawing another large crowd. All told 36 rounds are scheduled. Tickets have already been placed on sale at the Hack Eible Billiard parlor. Ladies will be admitted free.

Y.C.A.A. Baseball Meeting Tonight

The "Y"-Church Athletic association will meet Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A., at which time the fourth and fifth baseball leagues will be formed. The applications of three teams have been received since the last meeting of the association. This makes the formation of the fifth league imperative.

Several of the teams which were in the league last year are yet to be heard from. More than 20 teams were enrolled for the coming season, and any Sunday school outfit wishing to join should have a representative at this meeting Tuesday night.

Wales Tops Ireland.

Wales has won 23 of the 38 international soccer matches played with Ireland. Of the rest, Ireland won 14 and one was drawn.

Walt Scores Perfect Day With His Bat

Gets Homer, Double and Single Out of Three Times at Bat.

BY BEN COTHRAN.

The first home run of the year 1928 and retaliation came about all in the same day at Spiller's Monday. The home run was caused by Walter Gilbert, and retaliation took place when the regulars trimmed the yannigans by a 7 to 1 count. Last Tuesday the yannigans were victors by the score of 5 to 1.

The game was a full nine-inning affair and Gilbert's prodigious wallop was produced in the seventh inning with E. C. Dudley on the mound, pitching for the yannigans. Dudley let one fly, Gilbert banged it squarely on the nose and the ball landed in the colored grandstand, which is situated quite some distance from home plate out in left field.

That four-base wallop of Walter's was all that he needed for a perfect day. It was his last time up. His first action with the bat had been in the first inning with a two-timer to center field. He followed that in the third with a sacrifice to center. Then in the sixth he singled to right, sending Paul Strand scampering up the right field goat-hill after the ball. Then the seventh and his Ruthian act. That gave Walter three times at bat and three hits. He also scored three runs and played errorless ball for the regulars at third base.

Scores.

The regulars jumped on their teammates at the outset and scored two runs in the first inning. Russell Pence, big right-hander, was pitching for the yannigans. He started off by walking Zoeller, who was forced at second by Marrion's infield roller. Then Gilbert doubled and Marrion went to third. Both scored when Poole slammed one to Hack Eibel at first and the latter made a bad throw to Pence, who covered the bag.

No more scoring took place until the sixth inning when singles by Gilbert and McKinney and doubles by Poole and Francis brought Gilbert, Poole and Francis bounding across the rubber. In the seventh Gilbert slammed out his homer, scoring Frankie Zoeller who had doubled to left ahead of him.

It was a slam-bang hitting attack that the regulars put up. They pounded Pence, Sherry Smith and Dudley for 10 hits. One of them was a home run, four of them doubles. Another indication of hitting strength that will be warmly welcomed at Spiller field this year.

The yannigans made their lone run in the seventh when Paul Fittery, one-time Cracker pitcher and now working out for exercise, singled down the third base line, went to second on Miller's single through short, and scored on Blackstock's liner through first base. The yannigans made eight hits off Spencer, Adcock and Blethen, but were unable to bunch them to score runs.

Releases.

It was announced Monday by Sherry Smith, who is in charge of the club while Bert Niehoff is in Florida with Colonel Spiller, hunting players, that Stuffy McCrone, first baseman; Dick Peel, pitcher, and "Slim" McHenry, outfielder and pitcher, had been released to Macon where Uncle Wilbur Good begins training the Peaches today.

No news was heard from the colonel, who is at Clearwater, conferring with Wilbur Robinson, of the Brooklyn Dodgers. Johnny Suggs stated Monday that he was expecting the colonel and skipper back in town not before Thursday. Johnny believes that they'll come back bearing players.

Monday was fair, but very chilly. Today another practice game is planned, and the boys are hoping for warmer weather.

A CRACKER A DAY TO-DAY

ELDON CARLYLE,
Outfielder.

BY BEN COTHRAN

Here's another one of the Norcross Carlyles. This is Eldon, the kid brother of Roy and Cleo Carlyle, who made big names for themselves in the majors as baseball players of some ability.

Eldon seems to be starting out over the same trail as did his brothers. He is big, rangy and has a powerful swing when he steps into the ball. He just looks like a baseball player and the other day, when he walked up to the plate to take his turn, one of the Cracker veterans remarked: "Well, if I didn't know who that was up there I'd say it was Big Dizzy." Big Dizzy is the name they gave Roy Carlyle. And if Eldon turns out to be that kind of a ball player, then Colonel Spiller will have the "find" he has been talking about.

When spring training began on March 5, something like two weeks ago, Eldon trekked in from Norcross to try out with the Crackers. It took only a couple of days to convince Skipper Niehoff and Colonel Spiller that he was worthy of being proffered a contract. They did so and Carlyle will, in all probability, be sent to Macon for a year's seasoning and next year you'll see him in Atlanta.

Carlyle, from watching him at the plate, is going to make a good hitter. As said before, he steps into the ball with an almost vicious sort of swing and when he connects the ball travels quite some distance from the plate. He has much to learn, but the material seems to be there.

This isn't young Carlyle's first professional experience. In 1926 he went over to Laurel, Miss., and played with that club for a short while before it blew up. He has played much semi-pro baseball with the Norcross team.

ELDON CARLYLE.

Carlyle was born on April 16, 1907, at Norcross. That would be 21 years ago. He is six feet two inches in height and has 188 pounds spread over his frame. You'll hear more about this young ball player.

Good on Grid.

Cuzco, Peru, March 19.—The Peruvian national football team is one of the best in South America.

The Incas were so hot at ball booting that after cleaning up on opposition around home they have gone on tour further north.

The SPORTLIGHT by Grantland Rice

CONCERNING BOB SHAWKEY.

"The glory that is Greece—the grandeur that is Rome"—
And there is Bob the Gob—well, so the gray tide veers—
Where fame is like the spray that rises from the foam,
For nation and for man, along the eternal years.

There, up, and back again—from valley on to hill,
From hill to valley home—one stays for just so long—
To sit and dream at last of some forgotten thrill,

Why Tex Rickard Got Dizzy.

There have been six so-called challengers for Tunney's million or two million dollar throne, although only five of the six have been recognized.

If your care to look at the most even muddle or milling in competitive sport you might examine the inter-elimination meetings of these six heavyweights. It is about as follows:

Sharkey vs. Godfrey—12 rounds—Sharkey won the decision—about even.

Heeney vs. Paolino—10 rounds—Paolino got decision—fight even.

Heeney vs. Sharkey—10 rounds—a draw.

Heeney vs. Delaney—15 rounds—Heeney won.

Risko vs. Delaney—10 rounds—Risko won.

Paolino vs. Godfrey—10 rounds—Godfrey got decision—fight even.

Risko vs. Paolino—10 rounds—Risko won.

Risko vs. Sharkey—15 rounds—Risko won.

Here you have a total of ten scrimmages among the six contestants, leading to 112 rounds with almost no damage, without a knockdown and with almost every battle won or lost by a shade. One hundred and twelve rounds with no one getting anywhere in particular, although Heeney and Risko are a step or two in front, with Paolino close upon their heels.

And the two most definitely "climinated"—as you might called it—were the two favorites—Sharkey and Delaney.

No wonder Dr. Rickard finds it difficult to concentrate on his mashie shots.

No one has yet bothered or seriously annoyed Risko, Heeney or Paolino. But Risko has won at least three of his fights by a wider margin than any of the others. Heeney has had four fights that all might have been called even-up against Paolino, Risko and Sharkey, although he lost a decision and won one. The only answer so far is this—there isn't any answer.

It might be mentioned that from the entire group listed above Risko has plastered on more improvement than anyone else in his field.

The one feature that makes the Yankees' cause look uncertain for 1928 is the apparent certainty of their outlook. More often than not it is under blue and sunny skies that one is hit just above the right or left ear with the flying brick of fate.

At the moment of going to press Knute Rockne has cut his spring football squad down to 293 survivors. There seems to be a melancholy chance that Knute may have to start his fall campaign with only four teams of regulars—not, of course, including his "starting team."

It is reported that out of his 293 survivors he would be satisfied with even "two horsemen" for 1928, on a par with Stuhldreher and Layden or Miller and Crowley.

Or just one George Gipp. Just one.

Rickard, with a guarantee of $500,000 to slip Tunney this summer, may finally decide to fight Gene himself. A knockout is one thing, but $500,000 is something else.

Pick-Ups

Sherry Smith took his turn in the box Monday and pitched for the Yannigans three innings. Sherry is reputed to have one of the best motions to first of any pitcher in the game today. McKinney, catching for the regulars, got a single and took a lead of about two feet off first. Smith drew back as if to send the ball to the plate, but instead shot it to first and McKinney barely managed to reach the bag. After that he stuck like a leach.

Johnny Adcock, young right-handed pitcher, pulled his regular stunt Monday of three scoreless innings. He pitched the fourth, fifth and sixth frames for the regulars and in that time 11 men faced him and three got on base. Blackstock, centerfielder, got a single. Johnny lost control of one of his slants and hit Miller, catcher. He had Casey Mills struck out, but McKinney let the ball go by and Mills got to first.

Gene Suggs, brother of Johnny Suggs, ex-Atlanta pitcher, was a visitor at the field Monday. Gene is on his way to Greensboro, N. C., where he will play second base this year.

F.E.F. and Decatur In Title Series

The F. E. F. class, winner of the Dixie league, will battle the Decatur Presbyterian quintet, champion of the Sewanee league, on the Y. M. C. A. court Tuesday night at 8:30 o'clock in the first of a three-game series for the championship of the "Y"-Church Athletic association.

Starting at 7:30 o'clock the Y-Church All-Stars will meet the St. Paul Methodist, of the Epworth association, in a preliminary before the main game.

New League Discussion Here Friday

Representatives Will Meet at Scott's To Lay Plans.

Representatives from Rome, Cedartown, Griffin, in Georgia, and Talledega, Opelika and Anniston, in Alabama, will meet at 7:30 o'clock Friday night at the sporting goods store of Trammell Scott, 66 Broad street, N. W., elect officers, post guarantees, fix salary limits, discuss a schedule and organize a class D baseball league for the promulgation of the national pastime in the smaller cities of Georgia and Alabama.

This league will take the place of the old Georgia-Alabama league, which passed out of existence some years ago. It will also open new farms for baseball clubs and further the game in every way.

Strong Backing.

The new league is the outgrowth of a plan advanced over a month ago by Major Trammell Scott, prominent Atlanta sportsman. It has the backing of the Brooklyn National league club and also of Colonel R. J. Spiller, owner of the Atlanta Crackers.

Only this year Brooklyn, managed by Wilbur Robinson, adopted a policy of wider assistance to minor league ball clubs as farms for the development of young players. The new league will be located in a section that has produced such players as the Carlyle boys of Norcross, Napoleon Rucker, the Sewell boys of Alabama, and others.

It is very likely that two more towns will take up franchises to make the league an eight-club organization. Major Scott found everyone whom he questioned in these towns very enthusiastic over the idea of reviving organized baseball.

JUGGERNAUT

By Alice Campbell

SYNOPSIS.

Esther Rowe, a young nurse, having accompanied an invalid from the United States to Cannes on the Riviera, is about to return to New York when she sees an advertisement in the paper for a nurse and doctor's assistant and she decides to apply for the job in order to spend a little time in Cannes.

While waiting for an answer to her application to Dr. Sartorius Esther treats herself to tea at the fashinable Restaurant des Ambassadeurs. She becomes interested in the conversation of a beautiful French woman and her escort, an Englishman, who sit at the next table. On returning to her hotel Esther finds a note from the doctor asking her to report in the morning.

The beautiful French woman of the restaurant comes to see Dr. Sartorius and Esther learns that she is Lady Clifford. A few days later her husband, Sir Charles Clifford, is stricken with typhoid fever and Dr. Sartorius gives up his practice and laboratory work to devote himself exclusively to Sir Charles. Esther is taken on the case as day nurse.

Roger Clifford, Sir Charles' only son, arrives in Cannes. Sir Charles tells his son that he has changed his will to the extent of making him executor and trustee of the whole estate. Roger is attracted to Esther and invites her to dine and dance with him They go to one of the fashionable restaurants in Cannes.

On returning to the house Roger comes upon his stepmother in the darkened drawing room with Arthur Holliday, who has been paying Lady Clifford some attention. Roger orders Holliday to leave the house.

The next day Sir Charles breaks the news to his wife that he has named his son executor of his estate in his will. Lady Clifford flies into a rage.

Shortly afterward Roger complains of a headache and his aunt, Miss Clifford, offers him one of her remedies. In trying to open the bottle Roger breaks it and cuts his hand. Esther is called in to bind up the cut and in her hurry she mislays the doctor's hypodermic needle which he has just used on Sir Charles. The doctor is unwarrantably angry with her over this carelessness. Two days later Sir Charles dies. Esther finds the doctor's needle but instead of returning it to him she takes it to a chemist for an analysis. The next day Lady Clifford dismisses her.

PUZZLED.

Burning with indignation Esther returned forthwith to her room and began throwing things into her trunk, anxious not to lose a minute in getting away. Since the occasion when she had been forced to intervene between Sir Charles and his wife, Esther had been afraid that the latter must cherish resentment towards her, but till now there had been no open sign of it. During the last ten days, indeed, Lady Clifford had spoken very little to either of the nurses, but that little had been polite. This abrupt change of attitude indicated plainly that tact was no longer necessary. There was something superbly arrogant in the way in which she washed her hands of Esther, lost no time about getting her out of the house.

Stay—was it because of Roger's evident liking for her? Did Lady Clifford resent that? Or could it be that she definitely wanted Esther out of the way?

She was too deeply humiliated to think very clearly and yet, sitting there on her trunk, she felt her attention drawn by this new idea. What if it were true that Lady Clifford was afraid to have her in the house? She had not had time to consider properly this fresh possibility when a knock came at the door.

"Who is it? Come in," she called indifferently.

She expected one of the servants come to inquire about taking her luggage down, and consequently she was unprepared when the door opened to reveal the big, stolid bulk of the doctor. His slow moving eyes glanced about the little room, taking in her preparations for departure. When he spoke it was in a tone unexpectedly agreeable.

"I thought of inquiring, Miss Rowe, what plans you have for the immediate future. Is it your intention to go back at once to New York?"

"I don't think so, doctor, but really I don't quite know what I am going to do."

He nodded and cleared his throat slightly.

"I think I have mentioned to you that for the present I do not intend to resume my practice. I mean to take a short holiday instead, so you of course understand that I shall not require your services."

"O, perfectly, doctor!" she replied quickly, sure that her voice must betray the irony she felt. As if she cared, indeed, whether he wanted her or not!

"I take it, then, that you may remain in Cannes for some time. Have you any friends here?"

"No, none at all. I shall go for a few days to a pension Miss Clifford told me about. After that I have no idea what I shall do."

"In that case I may as well drive you down to your pension. Let me know when you are ready to go."

Completely taken aback, she hastened, perhaps overhurriedly, to disclaim the proffered civility.

"O, no, thank you, doctor, I'll just take a taxi. I couldn't think of troubling you."

"It is no trouble," he returned firmly and in a manner that brooked no dispute. "I should prefer to see you safely to your destination. In any case, I am going that way myself."

Much as she shrank from the thought of half an hour in his company, she did not well see how she could refuse, particularly as it seemed as though he were making an awkward effort to atone for his past rudeness to her. Accordingly she resolved to put a cheerful face on it.

"All right, then, doctor, if you're quite sure it's not putting you out. I'll be ready in a quarter of an hour."

Not till after he had gone did she recall his words, "I am going that way myself." Why, she had not told him where the pension was! Never mind, perhaps he was sorry for his behavior to her, she would give him the benefit of the doubt. It was surely unlike him to be so gracious. She shook her head over the puzzle he presented.

Her packing done, she put on the coat of her costume over her marron crepe de chine jumper—the one she had bought in the Croisette—and going to the mirror adjusted her little felt hat carefully. She recalled the fact that, except for the blouse, these were the same clothes she had worn that day she first called to interview the doctor and later had gone on for tea at the Ambassadeurs. How long ago it seemed!

On her way to Miss Clifford's room to say good-by she met Holiday. She inclined her head slightly and was hurrying past when to her surprise he grasped her by the arm and pulled her around facing him.

"I beg your pardon?" she said, a little offended by his casual insolence, and drew her arm away.

"Hello," he murmured softly, still detaining her by her sleeves. "Stand as you are, let me look at you."

His shallow eyes ran over her carefully, taking in every detail of her appearance. Then he slapped his leg and gave a noiseless chuckle.

"By Jove!" he whispered deliberately, "By Jove!"

"Well, what's the matter?"

"O, nothing—only I've got it now."

"Got what?"

"Where it was I first saw you. Of course—fool that I was!"

He continued to stare, and then she saw his smile fade and a curious reminiscent look take its place. She knew what the look meant. He was trying to recall more of the occasion, and wondering how much of his conversation with Lady Clifford she had overheard.

"I thought it would come back to you one day," she remarked easily. "It's the hat that made the difference, you know."

She left him standing there motionless, looking after her, his eyes narrowed in thought. She was careless now as to what he recalled or didn't recall. What difference could it make?

"Come in, my dear. I'm trying to write some of my many letters—such a trying task!"

The old lady was sitting up in bed with her writing materials before her on a little bed table. She smiled at Esther, but her face looked weary and old, with lines of grief that had not been there a month ago.

"Are you going out?"

"I'm leaving, Miss Clifford. I came to say good-by."

Miss Clifford's jaw dropped, she laid down her pen and stared.

"Good-by? Not now, surely! Why, I thought—"

"So did I, but it was a mistake. Lady Clifford doesn't need me any more."

There was no doubt that the old lady was as much astonished as she was distressed.

"But, I don't understand! I thought of course that you were going to stay on a bit, at least until we knew about Roger."

Esther felt awkward, uncertain what to say.

In spite of her efforts her eyes met the old lady's honest ones for a second. Then the old lady shook her head helplessly, looking both embarrassed and regretful.

"If only it were my house, my dear," she faltered uncomfortably. "Of course you know how I felt about it. I took it for granted . . . besides we looked upon you more as a friend than as a mere nurse, you know that. Roger will be dreadfully upset when he hears."

"Never mind, I shall hope to see you very soon. I'm not leaving Cannes just yet, I shall ring up tomorrow to inquire how you all are."

Sugar.

New York, March 19.—While there was no change in the spot price of raw sugar today, shipment sugars continued their upward movement on further buying by operators. Refiners showed little interest in the market and it was believed that some near-by Porto Ricans were available at 4.58, duty paid. Shipment sugars sold as high as 4.71. Sales were 14,000 bags of Philippines for May-June, at 4.64; 14,000 bags at 4.68, and 14,000 bags at 4.71, all to operators.

Raw futures were higher on renewed covering and increased outside buying promoted by continued steadiness of the spot market and the firmer ruling abroad. The market opened unchanged to 3 points higher and active months showed further gains of 1 point, but there was enough realizing or liquidation by recent buyers and some hedge selling against purchases of raws, to supply the demand and partial reactions followed. Final prices were 1 to 3 points net higher. Approximate sales, 74,200 tons. March closed 2.92; May 2.83; July 2.92; September 3.01; December 3.05; January 2.91.

No changes occurred in refined. Demand again was limited to withdrawals on old contracts, new buying showing no signs of improvement.

The Day in Finance

BY
R. L. BARNUM

Trading on exchange continues heavy. Tremendous profit taking holds interest. Brokers do not understand conditions but are satisfied to make money while buying lasts.

New York, March 19.—For ordinary times today's trading in the stock market would be called heavy. Compared with last week, however, there was less activity with prices of leading shares off on heavy profit-taking starting at the opening. This continued profit-taking had a sobering influence.

For the next six days of last week including the two-hour session Saturday the turnover in the stock market was 20,815,000 shares, or a daily average of 3,469,000. This is a new high record for a week both as to total and daily turnover. For the week of March 10 the turnover was 16,261,000 shares with the daily average 2,710,000 shares. For the week of March 3 the total was 10,172,000 shares and the daily average 1,695,000 shares.

Turnover Is Heavy.

For the six days of last week including the two-hour session Saturday the turnover of 20,815,000 shares was larger than until recently was considered a big month's business. For example, for the full twelve months of 1913, the year before the war, the total turnover on the stock exchange was 83,283,000 shares or less than 7,000,000 shares a month. For 1914 the total turnover for the year was 47,899,000 shares or at a monthly rate of less than 4,000,000 shares. It should be added, however, that the stock exchange for the good of all interests was closed in 1914 for a couple of months after the war broke out.

Considering the frenzied pace of the stock market for the past two weeks, especially that of last week, today's slowing down was natural, leaving the market in a healthier condition, if such a word can be used in connection with the existing stock market.

Today's heavy profit-taking in the stock market although more marked was a continuation of the same movement going on all of last week. In addition to heavy selling of long stock there have been heavy sales of stock against shares held in strong boxes. This sale of stock against shares held in strong boxes has created a fresh technical outstanding short interest, the outcome of which depends on what happens in the immediate future stock marketwise.

If Market Breaks.

If the market should happen to break suddenly undoubtedly stock would be purchased in the open market to complete the outstanding technical short interest. If on the other hand the market should resume its frenzied movement of the past two weeks making difficult the borrowing of stock undoubtedly much of the stock now carried in strong boxes against outstanding short sales would be brought out and sold.

During the early trading today the ticker ran ten minutes behind trading on the stock exchange floor. But by the end of the first hour the ticker was up to floor trading which was a marked contrast to Saturday when quotations continued to be printed for nearly 45 minutes after 12 o'clock, which was a high record for Saturday. In the big unexpected break continuing in the stock market in the last hour of trading on March 3, 1926, which was a five-hour day, the ticker ran nearly an hour after the closing.

With time to think over the week-end Wall street concluded that what is being witnessed in the stock market is a continuation of inflation based on our increased credit facilities which has been going on since 1921, especially since 1924, with this stock market inflation recently accentuated by unemployment of funds in general trade, much idle funds finding their way to the stock market.

Conclusion Strengthened.

This conclusion was strengthened by today's statement of the federal reserve board at Washington pointing out that brokers' loans of banks in this federal reserve district now close to $4,000,000,000 were reduced some $300,000,000 during January and February in the loans made by banks for their own account but increased some $200,000,000 by loans made by the banks in this district for others at $1,209,000,000 using only round numbers. The federal reserve board points out that this item includes loans made on the call money market by investors, investment agencies, corporations having surplus cash, foreign banking agencies and others.

Many old-fashioned conservative traders, brokers and bankers in Wall street do not understand what is going on in the stock market and hence will have nothing to do with the market. Many of those who are trading are not trying to understand the why of the stock market but are merely trying to make money and in so doing are getting highly satisfactory results.

Brokers Show Interest.

Many old-fashioned conservative brokers continuing to advise their customers to leave the stock market alone, showed more than usual Monday interest in the week-end comments from abroad regarding our stock market, feeling that being right here in Wall street in the midst of the wildest bull market ever experienced it was possible that they were unable to see the forest for the trees. Today's cables from Berlin report a dislike there for the violent price advances which have occurred here in such shares as General Motors, Radia and American Linseed. These violent price movements are regarded by Berlin as evidence of nervousness and as not foreshadowing a general bull movement. Some Berlin authorities feel that what is going on in our stock market in view of our increasing brokers' loans and our growing dependence on foreign markets for the absorption of our surplus industrial output foreshadows an approaching crisis. Paris cables report financial circles there as closely following developments in Wall street with doubts as to the soundness of the advance in stock prices.

London cables report opinion there to the effect that our outburst of frenzied stock market activities make the future of the stock market uncertain because it merely sharpens the existing conflict between easy and dear money here, increasing the possibility of a further advance in our rediscount rate whereas but for the wild bull stock market all signs would point to an early reduction in the rediscount rate.

High Lights in the Cotton Market

BY THEO. H. PRICE
Editor of Commerce and Finance

Last week's advance in the cotton market was largely due to the practice of buying cotton on call. Everyone in the trade understands this practice, but for the information of the general public it may be well to explain that the spinner who buys on call contracts for the quantity and quality that he requires, but with the understanding that he has the option of fixing the price later by purchasing contracts for the future delivery of an equal quantity. This option generally expires as of a specified date, and as the "future month" that must be bought is also specified, the spinner purchasing cotton on call is in effect short of a given month until he has exercised his option by covering.

As the present season seems to be one in which many have elected to buy call cotton upon the basis of May delivery in New York, the result has been the creation of a large short interest in that position, and the market has advanced upon purchases of May made for spinners' account.

In thus hastening to fix prices upon the cotton they have contracted for the spinners have probably been actuated by the census report upon our domestic consumption for February. With the single exception of 1927 it was the largest February consumption on record, and it seems to negative the idea that there has been any important curtailment. The relatively small stock held by spinners at the end of February is another bullish feature of the report, and there is no denying that it has greatly strengthened the position of those who have been predicting comparative exhaustion and higher prices.

But no revival of general speculation in cotton is discernible as yet, and sight should not be lost of the fact that the market will need outside support when the spinners have covered their call contract and those who hold the unsold carry-over have to face the discount at which new crop deliveries are selling.

This may seem technical, but it is and will continue to be a highly technical situation until it develops some outstanding feature that will impress the public mind. For this reason the news from the cotton fields is being very closely scanned, and it is plain that great excitement would follow if the trade became convinced that a short crop was indicated.

As yet it is of course too early to be dogmatic about the outlook. Planting is progressing, but it is not completed. An increase of at least 5 per cent in the acreage is reported by many, and it may be more. But Texas needs rain, while the Atlantic states have had too much and the boll weevil experts seem to think that this will be an insect year.

"Watchful waiting" would therefore seem to be a wise policy at present, but sight should not be lost of the fact that "the gentle art of crop killing" still survives and that those who practice it may commence their deadly work earlier than usual this season.

MAN GIVEN YEAR FOR ALTERATION OF CERTIFICATE

Henry S. Stanford, charged with altering an adjusted compensation certificate for Herbert S. Owens, of LaGrange, by changing the date so that the certificate could be used for borrowing money, Monday pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley, who sentenced Stanford to a year and a day in the penitentiary.

Owens is under indictment in the same case, but has not been arraigned before the court yet. The certificate was for $954, according to court officers.

Charged with possessing whisky and maintaining a common nuisance, Berlin Brown, of Towns county, pleaded guilty Monday before Judge Sibley and was sentenced to a year and a day in the penitentiary. Court officers said that Brown was a third offender, having pleaded guilty in 1924, and in 1926 on prohibition charges.

Mary Hill pleaded guilty to charges of selling morphine and was sentenced to a year and a day in a federal women's institution. The Hill woman was maid in a home raided by narcotic officers recently.

RECORD TRADE SENDS RUBBER PRICE HIGHER

New York, March 19.—(AP)—Crude rubber prices rose about 3 cents a pound in record trading on the New York rubber exchange today. A total of 7,050 tons of rubber, valued at more than $4,000,000 changed hands, breaking the previous record of 6,577 1-2 tons established February 9. The strength of the market appeared to be based upon announcement that a new credit of $60,000,000 had been arranged for the American "rubber pool."

School Play.

Thomasville, Ga., March 19.—Under the direction of Miss Annie Taylor, expression instructor at Thomasville High school, members of the senior class of the school are rehearsing for a play, "The Charm School," to be put on soon after Easter.

Personnel of the cast has not yet been fully determined, but the roles will all be taken by seniors, and the public will be invited to witness the performance.

Summerville Man Hurt Near Valdosta When Machine Skids

Valdosta, Ga., March 19.—(Special.)—Charley Purseley, a young white man about 24 years of age, is in an unconscious and critical condition from injuries received some time Sunday night in an automobile accident.

He was found on the Loch Laurel road, near Mud Swamp, several miles below Valdosta, in an unconscious condition, about 11 o'clock Sunday night and brought to a Valdosta hospital, where he remains under treatment.

His head is apparently injured severely and at no time so far has he shown signs of consciousness.

As far as can be ascertained he was alone in a sedan, coming toward Valdosta. It is believed that the car skidded in some way and struck a tree by the road. The car hit the tree about midway between the front and rear wheels and the driver of the car was jammed in the wreckage. It was not known how long he had been by the road when found by passing motorists and an ambulance called to bring him here. He has been employed for some time at a local garage, and his home is said to be at Summerville, Ga.

Thomasville Census Shows Less Than 100 People Out of Church

Thomasville, Ga., March 19.—About 100 women, members of the various churches in Thomasville, acted as volunteer census enumerators last week, making a church census of the white people of the city.

Statistics gathered indicate less than 100 white people in Thomasville who are not either members of some church or have no preference for one denomination.

REPUTATION

"Who steals my purse, steals trash"

The immortal bard's epigram could hardly withstand the cold hard facts of modern business. But—"He who filcheth from me my good name, robs me of that which not enricheth him and leaves me poor indeed," is just as true today as when old Shakespeare wrote it.

We have a natural and abiding pride in the good name we have made during twenty-six years in the small loan business. We don't ask you to take our word for it. Get your banker to make inquiries into our financial status, our record for business probity and business acumen. We are willing to abide by the test.

Our business is operated according to the findings of the exhaustive investigations of the Russell Sage Foundation. Those findings were made to give justice to our clients and reasonable profit to us. We ask no more.

Every day America's cars carry

912,000,000 pounds of water used as a substitute for air!

1,250,000,000 pounds of plumbing to make the water do its work

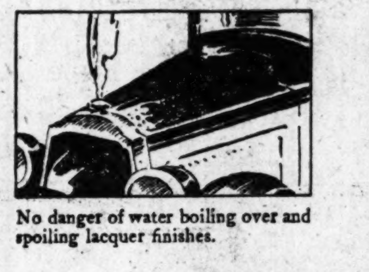
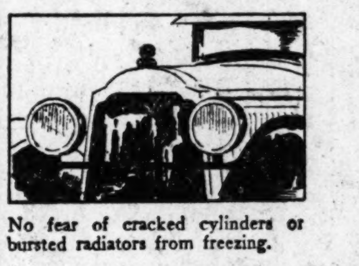
motoring troubles that never worry the Franklin Owner



No danger of water boiling over and spoiling lacquer finishes.



No fear of cracked cylinders or bursted radiators from freezing.

No thought of anti-freeze solutions or cold weather precautions.

No water hoses or gaskets to tighten—no plumbing. Franklin has 100 fewer parts to get out of order.

Such elaborate water-cooling systems—such an enormous amount of extra materials and superfluous weight are a great waste! A waste that is entirely eliminated by the Franklin air-cooled motor.

Much attention, worry and expense are caused by water-cooling—none by air-cooling. It is the most advanced and most scientifically designed cooling system today. Recent long-distance air flights give overwhelming evidence of its superiority. It is now generally adopted by Aviation.

One hundred fewer parts are needed to cool the Franklin than any other car. Weight is conserved—efficiency is increased. There is nothing to fill, drain, mix, tighten, lubricate, replace or repair—no water to boil, freeze or leak. No matter where you are—mountain or desert—or what the weather—biting cold or blistering heat—the Franklin Owner need never worry about the cooling system.

And air-cooling is only one advantage of owning a Franklin Airman. Consider Franklin's faster acceleration—long sustained high speed—new long-distance comfort—synchronized, 4-wheel brakes—smoother performance—beautiful colors and styles—smart interiors. These are some of the vital features that make motoring a thrilling joy to Franklin Owners.

Study carefully what the Airman offers. Be sure to see it. Then arrange for a demonstration and learn the favorable terms on which Airman ownership may now be arranged.

motoring advantages only the Franklin can offer

Four full-elliptic springs—the total spring-length on each side is actually greater than the wheelbase.

Light unsprung weight—the chassis and springs reduce the shocks—the body rides smoothly.

New York, March 19.—(AP)—The cotton market was lower today under realizing or liquidation by recent buyers, together with local and southern selling, promoted by reports of better weather in the eastern or central belts and relatively easy Liverpool cables. May contracts sold off to 18.99, or 24 points net lower, and closed at 19.03. The general market closed steady at net declines of 14 to 20 points.

The opening was barely steady at declines of 5 to 12 points, active months soon showing net losses of 1? to 20 points in response to the indifferent cables and better weather news.

Trade buying at this decline and covering caused rallies of 5 or 6 points, but demand soon tapered off and the market weakened under renewed liquidation combined wtih selling supposed to be for Wall street, local or southern account.

Declines Are Heavy.

Prices sold off to 18.97 for March and 18.54 for October, net declines of 18 to 24 points and a few stop orders were uncovered around the 18-cent level for May. These offerings were not heavy, and the market was a little steadier late in the afternoon on covering. Closing prices were within 2 or 3 points of the lowest on most positions.

Reports of light snow in some parts of the southwest seemed to have little effect on the market which was mainly influenced by the better weather east of the Mississippi river, and perhaps, by a disposition to even up commitments in preparation for the report on ginnings from the crop of 1927. This will be issued by the census bureau at the opening of the market tomorrow, and an opinion was expressed in some quarters that the total ginning might prove somewhat in excess of the crop estimate of last December.

Uncertainty Blamed.

Uncertainty as to the showing, at any rate, was supposed to be partly responsible for the smaller volume of business and a disposition to take profits on long contracts after the advances of last week.

Liverpool was barely up to expectation, based on the New York close of Saturday. Private cables said some continental buying and trade calling had been supplied there by realizing, but that there was a fair inquiry for cotton cloths and the turnover in cotton yarns was equal to production.

Port receipts today 16,422. United States port stocks, 1,837,851. Exports today 33,890 making 5,650,903 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON RALLIES IN FINAL DEALS.

New Orleans, March 19—(AP)—After declining over $1 a bale, mainly on uncertainty as to the census bureau's final ginning report, to be issued tomorrow, the cotton market rallied in final trading today and closed at a net decline of 11 to 16 points.

May contracts eased off to 18.55 during the morning and early afternoon, or 20 points under the previous close. The subsequent late rally caused it to close at 18.59, 16 points net down.

The market opened easy in sympathy with lower Liverpool cables and first trades showed losses of 7 to 9 points. The market continued to ease off after the start under selling promoted by the favorable weather shown by the weather map and fears that the census bureau's ginning figures may prove larger than the final crop total issued last December. Although there was a rally of 7 to 8 points at one time, prices at noon showed losses of 16 points compared with Saturday's close, with July contracts selling for 18.49 and October 18.21.

During the afternoon the market weakened further on a report that cotton oil mills estimated the ginnings would exceed 13,000,000 bales. The rally in the final trading on covering carried July up from 18.44 to 18.50 and October 18.14 to 18.21, where they closed, showing net declines of 15 to 16 points

Exports were 33,896 bales.

Cotton Briefs.

New Orleans, March 19.—Sweetwater, in western Texas, telegraphed this morning that it was snowing hard there.

The weather map shows dry all over the cotton belt with unseasonably low temperatures. The barometer lines show no disturbing conditions except over the New England states, where severe storm indications prevail with the barometer down to 25.25.

The census bureau will release at the opening tomorrow the final ginnings total of the 1927 crop. For some unexplained reason traders are looking for total ginnings somewhat larger than the government's crop estimate of 12,769,000 bales issued in early December.

The cotton market opened slightly easier this morning owing partly to Liverpool failing to come in as good as due but mainly to fear of the ginning report due tomorrow.

Sales of spot cotton in the leading southern markets have shown an increase for several days past. Even in Saturday, usually a light day, the sales totaled 17,463 bales, against only 13,631 bales on the corresponding day last year.

Weekly reviews of the cotton goods trade note a fair degree of activity with prospects for a good demand shortly for spring and summer goods.

Cottonseed Oil.

New York, March 19.—The cottonseed oil market was dull and easier today, closing 5 to 14 points lower, late months showing maximum losses. Belated short covering in March steadied the near months, while the deferred positions yielded rather easily under local, cotton and commission house liquidation in response to the heaviness of cotton and lard and continued large hog arrivals. Sales 9,800 barrels. Prime crude, 8.25; prime summer yellow spot, 9.65; March closed, 9.65; May, 9.67; July, 10.04; September, 10.27; October, 10.26.

New Orleans, March 19.—Cotton oil futures ruled easier and somewhat lower today owing to a decline in lard, large receipts of hogs in Chicago and better weather. Prime summer yellow closed at 9:10, 5 points down, and prime crude, 8.37½@8.50. Futures closed steady: March, 9.15; May, 9.30; July, 9.56; September, 9.77; October, 9.62.

Liverpool Cotton.

Liverpool, March 19.—Cotton, spot, good business done; prices higher; American strict good middling 11.51; good middling 11.16; strict middling 11.06; middling 10.96; strict low middling 10.86; low middling 10.81; strict good ordinary 10.56; good ordinary 10.26. Sales 8,000 including 5,900 American. No receipts. Futures closed quiet: March 10.39; May 10.23; July 10.11; October 9.84; December 9.79; January 9.76; March (1929) 9.73.

CORN PRICES SOAR TO NEW HIGH MARK

Chicago, March 19.—(AP)—With export offers for corn higher and upon an all-rail shipping basis from Chicago, corn today established new top-price records for the season. Oats and rye also went above the season's previous best figures.

Closing quotations on corn were unsettled at 5-8c to 1 1-4c net advance. Wheat finished at 3-8c decline to 1-4c gain, oats 1-8c off to 1-4c up and provisions unchanged to 15c down.

In addition to corn export business in progress both at the eastern seaboard and at the Gulf of Mexico, a decided falling off in receipts at primary terminals led early to enlarged buying of corn future deliveries.

Exports Show Decrease.

Besides, corn supplies afloat for Europe showed 2,924,000 bushels decrease for the week and were down to 10,736,000 bushels against 24,565,000 bushels a year ago. Primary arrivals today were only 1,401,000 bushels compared with 2,109,000 for the corresponding day last week.

On today's price upturns in the corn, however, liberal profit taking sales were witnessed, and selling was also brought about by an increase of 1,395,000 bushels in the domestic visible supply total. The result was that best quotations were not maintained.

Wheat reacted from an early advance, a decrease of 552,000 bushels in the United States visible supply being less than was generally expected.

Rise Is Unexpected.

The temporary upturn was associated with an unlooked for rise in wheat quotations at Liverpool and 2,200,000 bushels decrease of the stock of wheat on ocean passage. About 1,000,000 bushels of North American wheat was taken today for Europe. On the other hand, there were some indications that hard winter wheat is to be brought to Chicago from outside markets and delivered here on March contracts.

Oats fluctuated in line with wheat rather than corn.

SPECIALTY STOCKS FEATURE ON CURB

New York, March 19.—(AP)—Wide upward price movements, particularly in chain stores, industrial specialties and the higher-priced issues generally were the features of trading on the curb market today.

Utilities were strong, but irregular, while oils and pipe lines were rather inactive and weak. Profit-taking sales early in the afternoon reduced extreme gains, but most issues recovered their losses.

Casein moved up more than 20 points to a new high at 226, then slumped to 204 and closed at 205, up 5 points net on the day. Ford of Canada soared about 30 points to a new high at 595. Profit-taking forced it down 25, but it had recovered nearly all at the close.

Grand Stores Gain.

Grand Stores moved up about 2 points to a new high at 62, while Safeway Stores gained 15 net and Dominion about 2, but Melville Shoe and Peoples Drug lost ground. Canadian Marconi, feature of last week's trading, with its partner in the rise, Marconi Wireless of London, were hammered down today, both closing off a full point. Spanish and General, however touched a new high at 4 5-8.

Firestone Tire and Seiberling moved up on the strength of improved prices for crude rubber, Firestone gaining 4 points and Seiberling 1. Ruberoid sagged more than 2 point. The sugars similarly were irregular, Fajardo and Central Agulrre making belated gains of about a point each, while National Sugar Refining lost 2 and Savannah 4 points. Profit-taking caused recessions also in Glen Alden, Bancitaly, Campbell Wyant, Keystone Steel and Wire, United States Freight and Tubize Art Silk.

Power Shares Climb.

Favorable earnings reports boosted Southeastern Power and Light certificates 4 points and the common about 2. Electric Investors, Tampa Electric and United Electric certificates were at new highs. United Light and Power A, Middle West Utility Rights and a few others closed lower.

Although Cities Service reached new high ground, most oils and pipe lines were weak. Cumberland Pipe Line resisted selling, but Prairie was forced down nearly 4 points.

The bond section was strong. Electric Refrigeration 6s gained 3 points on reports new interests had acquired a large stock interest in the company.

News, Views And Reviews

Stock Letters.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, March 19.—Today's market looked more like a distributing period than ever—sustained volume after a sharp advance which has failed to carry further, and spurts in more or less minor specialties without permanent higher levels, contribute to the general impression that strong holders have been taking their profits.

Renewed strength in the rails is an underlying feature of importance, and we look for this movement to go further. Utilities such as Consolidated Gas and Columbia Gas acted well today and seem in excellent position.

The run of industrial specialties, however, seem to be in course of well managed liquidation, enabling the disposal of substantial quantities of stock while prices are fairly well maintained. When the distributing process is completed we would not expect quotations of this type of issues to hold up well.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

New York, March 19.—Utility stocks continued to be the feature during the afternoon. Consolidated Gas made a new high above 141 and American Power & Light and International Telephone & Telegraph continued upward to new high territory. One or two other industrials were in big demand, particularly Pullman and Sears-Roebuck. The majority backed and filled in an uncertain sort of way evidently consolidating their positions after the big advance of the past week. They acted fairly well although this group would seem to be in a position where it could suffer some further reaction.

Wright Aero was a strong stock toward the close, following issuance of annual report for 1927.

It is impossible to tell what its action is going to be in the near future but good buying continues in many different stocks and we expect these to reach higher prices in the next several months.

H. & B. BEER.

New York, March 19.—There was some letup in the pace of trading today and at times the tape was up to the market. The last active stock was reported about 10 minutes after three. Changes in prices were very mixed with perhaps the majority losses. There was no outstanding news of any great importance.

The Colorado fuel report for the year showed net income of $2,577,518 against $2,748,414 in 1926. As the company earned $2,535,679 in the first nine months, the last quarter showed practically nothing. On January 21, February 16 and again March 13 one of the most widely read daily tipping bureau's predicted over $10 a share. We understand that current earnings are poor and are at a loss to find a reason for following the bullish advices being broadcast on the stock.

Cotton Letters.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, March 19.—Cotton was easier today owing to liquidation induced largely by uncertainty over the final ginnings returns tomorrow and outlook for favorable weather. Trade interest were good buyers but liquidation caused a loss of about $1 a bale.

The map showed clear, cold weather over the belt. Reports told of some snow in the west and frost in the Rio Grande valley on Saturday night.

This flareback of winter has given the crop a setback and spinners seem more inclined to buy in their hedges than for months.

The immediate course of the market, however, will be dominated by the ginnings returns. There is a material difference between the total of the running bales ginned as reported by the census bureau and the total of 500-pound bales produced owing to the weight of bales, which often average more than the government's unit.

The expectation is for the returns to show final ginnings of between 12,900,000 and 13,100,000 which the market would receive with equanamity but become unsettled if in excess of that.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

New York, March 19.—The impending census report tomorrow morning on the final ginnings for the season and forecast for fair and warmer weather have restricted new business and encouraged scattered liquidation and a moderate increase in southern hedge offerings, causing a setback of 15 to 20 points. While the market has maintained an excellent undertone under the circumstances, it is so largely dependent on weather conditions that it will be dominated by developments for the immediate future. Fundamental conditions are sound, however, and we continue to believe that cotton is a purchase on any good recession for the long pull.

ORVIS BROS. & CO.

New York, March 19.—On the opening of the cotton market Tuesday the census bureau will issue its final ginning report and the figures will be received with sufficient interest for the market to have some moderately important impact from the sentiment it produces. Unless more than 13,000,000 bales are reported it seems unlikely that any influence it may have on selling will be of temporary effect, as the trade is in a more receptive mood to buy on reactions.

Today there was a fair amount of liquidation to take profit on purchases that have been carried through the recent sharp rise and furthermore to even up commitments somewhat prior to tomorrow's statement on ginnings. There seems more business doing in cloths, but prices are rather generally complained of as quite unsatisfactory measured by the price of cotton.

The imperative buying to complete business for the current statistical year seems important enough in volume to anticipate that cotton will have to bid for and prices marked up before all this demand can be satisfied.

May Liverpool due 10.18.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, March 19.—Despite the strong Liverpool cables, heavy overnight selling orders put the market down 10 points on the opening, where it remained in a narrow range the rest of the morning. Considerable more strength was reported in the goods market and prospects much brighter for better export demand.

In the late afternoon locals and New Orleans sold and with some scattered hedge selling from the south put the market down another 10 points. The closing prices were about the low for the day, or a 20-point decline from Saturday.

Liverpool futures are due tomorrow: March 10.35; May 10.18.

H. & B. BEER.

Change for the better in weather conditions throughout the cotton region, and liquidation in advance of tomorrow's census final ginning report of the season, which is generally expected to show in excess of the last December government crop forecast for a yield of 12,789,000 bales, influenced the cotton market to a lower price level today.

Liverpool cabled: "Continent bought, longs realized. Manchester reports: Cloth inquiry broadening. India a moderate buyer. China demand better. Increased demand for American yarns.

Ginning for season—17,755,000 last season. To January 16, 12,504,000 this season vs. 16,616,000 last season; January 15 to end of season 1,139,000 last season; December 13 to January 16 432,000 this season vs. 1,073,000 last season.

It the market declines tomorrow as result of the ginning report, we favor buying, as Wednesday's weekly weather and crop government report will likely be bullish owing to unfavorable weather inland the past week when it was too wet and cold; too wet for plowing, too cold for germination of seed already planted and too cold for young cotton wherever up.

Stock Prices Made Unsteady By Persistent Liquidations

Total stock sales 3,148,500 shares.

New York, March 19.—(AP)—Stock prices turned reactionary today on selling inspired by rumors, later confirmed, that the E. I. Du Pont de Nemours company had sold the block of 114,000 shares of United States Steel common stock acquired for temporary investment last June. Earlier in the day the market had moved irregularly higher under the leadership of the public utilities and rubbers, but there was rather persistent liquidation throughout the session of Radio, American Linseed and some of the other recent pool favorites.

Trading crossed the 3,000,000-share mark for the seventh consecutive full session, but was well below the Friday figures. Total sales of 1928 to date are above 150,000,000 shares as against 105,000,000 in the corresponding period of last year and 110,000,000 in 1926.

Fears Aroused.

Failure of United States Steel common to make more of a response to the recent sensational advances in General Motors and Radio and the increased offerings of the stock on rallies, had aroused fears in some quarters that Steel was under liquidation by a large interest. Today Wall street heard stories that stock certificates previously held in the names of nominees of J. P. Morgan & Co., who are believed to have purchased the Du Pont holdings, had reappeared in "street names" indicating the stock had been sold.

Sufficient doubt was cast on the rumors, however, to prevent a general rush to sell as might be expected. Less than 70,000 shares changed hands during the day, the price ranging between 145 7-8 and 148 3-8, with the final quotation of 146 representing a net loss of 1 7-8.

Rubber Shares Revive.

Revival of strength and activity in the rubber shares was based on the announcement that a $60,000,000 credit had been granted to the American "rubber pool" by New York bankers, and it coincided with an advance of nearly 3 cents a pound in crude rubber prices. Extreme gains of 3 to 6 points were recorded by Goodrich, Goodyear and United States Rubber common, with corresponding advances in the lower-priced issues, but these were partially cancelled by realizing.

Public utilities, responding to reports of expanding earnings and a revival of merger rumors, gave one of the best demonstrations of group strength. Mackay Companies soared 18 1-2 points to 131, and was accompanied into new high ground by about a dozen others included American Power and Light, Commonwealth Power, Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, North American Company, International Telephone and the New York Subway issues.

Cast Iron Pipe Soars.

United States Cast Iron Pipe soared 28 1-4 points to a new high record at 235. Electric Refrigeration touched a new top on reports that new interests were buying into the company and that when the directors meet on Friday and receive the February earnings, a small profit will be shown for the first time in months. Corn Products, Park & Tilford, Graham-Paige and Pullman also reached new high ground.

American Linseed broke from Saturday's closing price of 99 7-8 to 80, or more than 20 points below last week's high, and then rallied to 94. Radio, which touched a record high at 160 last week, sold down to 135 and then rallied to 137, off 4 points net. Greene Cananea Copper broke 5 1-8 points to 128. Rails yielded with the industrials, Wabash & Canadian Pacific losing more than 2 points each.

Call money ruled unchanged at 4 1-2 per cent, although that figure was shaded in the "outside market." Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchange rates were irregular, with sterling cables advancing above the $4.88 level.

New York, March 19.—(AP)—Buying of railway liens again gave the bond market a firm tone today, although numerous minor recessions were scattered through the list. There was no material change in the money situation, and new offerings failed to recover from last week's sharp decrease. Prompt oversubscription was reported of the $8,500,000 state of Minas Geraes (Brazil) 6 1-2s, offered this morning.

The recent legislation making additional public utility mortgages legal for savings bank investment in New York lent firmness to issues in that group. Commercial cables 4s sold up 3 points to a new high for the year at 83, and others exceeded or duplicated their best 1928 prices, including American Water Works 5s and Northern Ohio Traction 6s.

More favorable financial reports concerning the Seaboard Air Line helped the recovery of bonds of that road. Denver & Rio Grande Western 5s touched 93 3-4 for the first time this year, and there was brisk demand for Missouri Pacific 5s, New Haven 4s, and Texas & Pacific 5s. Erie 5s made up an early fractional loss.

A few of the convertibles displayed outstanding strength, Kayser 5 1-2s and Andes copper 7s invading new high territory, the former with a gain of more than 2 points. North American Cement 6 1-2s and Pathe Exchange 7s, with warrants, also had good support. Lehigh Valley Coal 5s broke 2 points to the lowest price of the year.

French issues advanced in the early trading, but met considerable profit-taking and closed generally heavy. Other foreign obligations followed a mixed trend.

Federal government securities attracted only nominal attention.

DUPONT SELLS U. S. STEEL SHARE BLOCK BOUGHT LAST JUNE

Wilmington, Del., March 19.—(AP)—It was learned from an authoritative source today that the E. I. Dupont De Nemours & Co. has sold the 114,000 shares of United States Steel stock which it purchased last June.

The stock was purchased at around 122 last summer as a temporary investment of surplus funds, it was said, and caused the federal trade commission to inquire into the deal at the time. The sale of the stock took place within the last "few weeks" it was stated at the prevailing open market price.

Naval Stores.

Market Gossip

Furnished by Fenner & Beane.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, March 19.—There was a pronounced let-up in the pace of trading on the curb exchange today and that market acted distinctly "tired."

Southeastern Power & Light stock, United Gas Improvement, and United Light & Power "A" stock were the leaders of the utilities group.

Among industrials, Ford of Canada jumped 30 points to a new high for the year, and Casein Company of America added a score of points to its gains of last week.

STOCK BROKERS' OPINIONS.

Goodbody & Co.—New commitments should be made only where both from an earning and a technical point of view the stock is in a position to advance.

Halle & Stieglitz—It must be borne in mind that in these huge markets a great amount of stock has passed from strong to weak hands.

F. B. Keech & Co.—It is anything but a healthful condition, and we think it time to scale down commitments rather than take on new.

WALL STREET JOURNAL.

In comparison with last week's aggressive demonstrations, today market was quiet. Transactions in leaders like General Motors, Radio, and United States Steel were substantially reduced in volume. Price movements were reactionary, indicating these stocks were resting after their recent violent exertions. But setbacks were clearly technical and did not run beyond normal proportions. While corrective processes went ahead in parts of the market, operations for the rise continued in some sections of the list.

Consolidated Gas led an advance in the public utility division, rising to its highest price since 1922. Peoples Gas, International Telephone and American Power & Light were other features of this department.

Call money continued available at 4½ per cent in the outside market, although the official rate was maintained at 4½ per cent. While sentiment regarding business prospects continued mixed, changes in trade conditions appeared to lead toward improvement.

From a group standpoint the tire shares gave the best account of themselves. Sharp advances against the shorts took place in U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, and Goodyear. These demonstrations were set in motion by announcement that American Rubber pool had obtained additional credit of $30,000,000.

U. S. Cast Iron Pipe engaged in one of its characteristic movements, soaring nearly 20 points to 226.

Sensational runup was accompanied by reports that Durant interests would seek a splitup of present shares on a 10-for-1 basis.

Plow with the Farmall!

THE McCormick-Deering Farmall offers the row-crop farmer a wonderful advantage. With this sturdy, 4-cylinder, 2-plow tractor on the farm you can put all of your work behind you quickly with power—from the first tillage job in spring to the last belt job in winter. The Farmall pulls a 2-bottom plow as ably as does any other tractor. It turns short, handles easily, operates economically, and requires very little attention.

As the season progresses you can shift from one important job to another with amazing speed. Tilling, plowing, seeding, planting row crops (with 4-row planter), cultivating row crop (with 2 or 4-row cultivator), mowing, raking, loading hay, harvesting grain, harvesting corn, and doing the hundred and one belt jobs around the farm.

You can't beat the Farmall. It makes the horseless farm practicable and possible. It cuts the corners off expense and puts the profit in your pocket.

We can't tell you the whole Farmall story here; but we can prove every point in mighty quick time if you'll ask us for a field demonstration.

COUNCIL DEFEATS PLUMBING CHANGE

By a margin of only two votes, Councilman Ellis Barrett, of the fifth ward and chairman of the ordinance committee of city council, Monday afternoon lost his fight to force passage of a minority report designed to amend the present plumbing ordinance requiring all persons doing any plumbing work in the city to undergo an examination and to obtain a license from the city.

The vote on the paper stood 15 against and 13 for on a roll call demanded by proponents of the measure.

Contending that passage of the amendment would prevent engineers in hotels, apartment houses, office buildings and other similar structures and owners of private residences from doing any plumbing work, but would force them to hire licensed plumbers, representatives these businesses protested the proposed change at a public hearing held by the ordinance committee last Tuesday afternoon. The result of the hearing was that four members of the ordinance committee voted to adverse the measure, but Mr. Barrett brought in a minority report.

Those voting against the paper Monday afternoon were Pennington, Moon, Buchanan, Millican, Wardlaw, McCutcheon, Turner, White, Ozburn, Reynolds, Wells, Savage, Drennon, Saunders and Smith. Those voting for the paper were Couch, Gann, Dobbs, Murphy, House, Bowden, Barrett, York, Hardy, Cooper, Callaway, Johnson and Lyle.

The following organizations opposed passage of the paper at the public hearing before the ordinance committee:

Atlanta Association of Building Owners and Managers, the Hotel Men's association, the Apartment Owners' association, the Cotton Manufacturers' association, the Retail Merchants' association, the Atlanta Laundries, Inc., and independent plumbers.

FORMER GRIFFIN MAN SUCCUMBS IN OREGON

Griffin, Ga., March 19.—(Special.) A. M. Gray, former prominent resident of Griffin, died last Friday in Marshfield, Ore., where he has been living recently, according to advices received here. Mr. Gray was a prominent member of the Christian church and had many friends throughout this section of the state.

He is survived by his widow; four daughters, Mrs. John Clifford, Miss Jessie Gray and Mrs. Mary Alice Gray, all of Marshfield, Ore.; one sister, Mrs. Barnes, of Quitman, and two brothers from Texas.

Funeral services for Mr. Gray were held in Marshfield Sunday.

Jardine Approves Non-Cotton Zones In Worm Fight

Washington, March 19.—(AP)—Secretary Jardine today advised the house agriculture committee that he approved the Buchanan resolution to establish non-cotton zones in Texas in an effort to stamp out the pink boll worm.

He said, however, that the budget bureau had recommended that the $5,000,000 expenditure proposed for this purpose be cut in half, and that the federal government pay not in excess of one-half of the "actual and necessary" losses sustained by farmers in the non-cotton zone.

"Unless drastic steps are taken to eradicate the worm," the secretary added, "its spread throughout the entire cotton belt is a possibility."

SENATE CONFIRMS BASCOM S. DEAVER AS GEORGIA JUDGE

Washington, March 19.—(AP)—The nomination of Bascom S. Deaver, to be federal judge for the middle Georgia district was confirmed late today by the senate.

Deaver succeeds on the bench William J. Tilson, who served under recess appointment after opposition had developed to his selection by President Coolidge here. Tilson has been nominated and confirmed as a judge of the federal customs court at New York.

Deaver's nomination was approved this morning by the senate judiciary committee. Just before adjournment of the senate late in the day Senator Stephens, democrat, Mississippi, formally reported on the nomination.

Without going through the usual formalities of having nomination passed on in the executive session, Senator George, democrat, Georgia, asked for confirmation in open session. It was approved without debate or roll call.

CREDIT MEN HOLD MEETING IN MEMPHIS

Memphis, Tenn., March 19.—(AP)—With 87 per cent of the nation's retail business done on a credit basis, the country's prosperity depends on the retail merchant's maintenance of a sound credit policy, D. J. Woodlock, of St. Louis, manager of the National Retail Credit association, told members at the organization's fourth annual southern conference today.

Over extension of installment credit and not presidential politics is responsible for business depressions in certain areas of the United States, he said.

Chattanooga, Tenn., was assured the 1929 convention of the association following withdrawals of invitations by New Orleans, Montgomery and Jackson, Miss.

GRIFFIN ORGANIZES NEW W. O. W. CAMP

Griffin, Ga., March 19.—(Special.) With over 100 applications on file and with promises of becoming one of the leading Woodmen camps of the south the T. L. Bennett camp, W. O. W., has been organized in Griffin. A class of thirty was initiated by a special degree team headed by State Manager Bennett, for whom the camp was named.

In two weeks another large class will be initiated into woodcraft. At that time officers of the new camp will be elected. W. T. Bennett, secretary of the chamber of commerce and county agent, is acting clerk of the new camp until permanent officers are elected.

Half-Buried Man Fights for Hours To Save Friend

London, March 19.—(AP)—The story of "the bravest deed of the year" was told at the annual meeting of the Royal Humane society when a gold medal was awarded to Ernest T. Johnson, of Manchester.

Johnson and David Inglis were working in a trench at Manchester. It was 16 feet deep and the subsoil was quicksand. Without warning the trench collapsed, burying Inglis and partially burying Johnson.

Instead of trying to save himself, Johnson remained where he was and kept constantly scraping the crumbling earth away from Inglis' head so he could breathe and at the same time carrying the weight of earth that was pressing on his own body to prevent further collapse. Both were rescued after eight hours' effort.

COTTON WITNESS ATTACKS CLAYTON

Washington, March 19.—(AP)—Amplified charges of cotton market manipulation, violation of anti-trust laws in dealings on the New York exchange, and efforts to "mislead" the senate cotton slump inquiry committee were laid against William L. Clayton, Houston, Texas, cotton dealer, today by Arthur R. Marsh, New York exchange member, in concluding his direct testimony which has taken up three days of the committee's hearing.

Marsh is to be questioned tomorrow by committee members and the two cotton state members of the house, Rankin, of Mississippi, and Vinson, of Georgia, who have figured as joint prosecutors of his charges before the senate body. He will then be turned over to counsel for Clayton for cross-examination.

Wide Range Covered.

Today's testimony covered a wide range after Marsh had given the committee his picture of what happened in the fall of 1927 to bring about a crash in cotton prices which he said was still continuing. He recounted dealings of Anderson Clayton brokers on the New York exchange, saying they ran into a million bales in futures and vast sums of money in a "straddle" of world markets by the Houston firm which had put the cotton marketing industry, from growers to spinners, at their mercy.

Using such terms as "slog" and "sluice" to describe the pouring on the market by the firm of future sales when settlement time came, backed by an accumulation of nearly 200,000 bales of actual cotton in New York warehouses on the strength of which he alleged the Texas dealers simultaneously tendered delivery on their own purchases of futures, Marsh declared these "tremendous" operations had "waterlogged" the cotton-buying power of the world.

Market Overwhelmed.

The effect had been to "overwhelm" the New York market and make certain that there was "no possibility of a buying movement to put the market up," he declared.

The firm adopted numerous "devices" for the purpose of forcing holders of their future contracts to sell them back at prices set by Anderson, Clayton, Marsh said. The pool of actual cotton in New York, he added, was the weapon around which the manipulative operations he complained of centered, with wide trading in all other future markets in the world, the Texas firm taking both sides in its transactions in order to beat the New York quotations down to the lowest among world markets. The period particularly covered by his narrative was from the fall of 1927 up to the present month.

TWO MEN KILLED WHEN CAR PLUNGES OVER RAILWAY SPAN

Tallahassee, Fla., March 19.—(AP)—Two men were killed near Quincy when their automobile plunged over the side of a railroad viaduct on the old Spanish Trail highway.

Those dead are: B. F. Ayers and B. F. Raybon, yardman and team foreman, respectively, at a road camp near Tallahassee.

The two were traveling from Quincy to Tallahassee when they apparently lost control of the car. The machine hurtled to the railroad track below, a drop of about 25 feet. The bodies were taken to Quincy.

Plans Being Made For U. S. Supervision Of Nicaragua Election

Washington, March 19.—(AP)—Advices from Nicaragua to the state department announced the resignation of Joaquin Gomez as chairman of the Nicaraguan National Board of Elections and appointment of Brigadier-General Frank R. McCoy as his successor.

The board will appoint the election boards throughout the republic to serve during the October presidential elections which the United States plans to supervise.

The appointment of McCoy, who was sent to Nicaragua by President Coolidge to take charge of the election, will be followed in the expectation of state department officials, by the issuance of a decree by President Diaz providing for American supervision of the election in accordance with the Tipitapa agreement. Failure of the Nicaraguan congress before its recent adjournment to pass a law providing for this supervision has made it necessary for the Nicaraguan president to take this action.

IMMIGRATION BILL ACTION POSTPONED

Washington, March 19.—(AP)—An attempt to obtain action on the unanimous report of the senate immigration committee for postponement of a year in making effective the national origin clause of the immigration act, was blocked today in the senate by Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama.

Senator John, republican, California, said the postponement was sought because the computations on which the provision was to be based were "indefinite and uncertain."

MISSING PARSON LOSES HIS PULPIT

This action was taken, together with withdrawal of a reward posted last Wednesday night; withdrawn Thursday morning and reannounced Thursday night, for information as to the whereabouts of Rev Herbert D. Young, pastor, after consideration of the case of the missing parson by the assembled membership.

ZINOVIEFF LETTER REOPENING DENIED

London, March 19.—(AP)—The government today refused a new inquiry on oath into the historic "Zinovieff letter" demanded by the labor party, and the motion of Ramsay MacDonald, seeking such inquiry was rejected, 326 to 132.

The letter in question was made public in 1924 and is credited with having aided in causing the downfall of the labor government. It contained communist propaganda and is alleged to have been written by Gregory S. Zinovieff, a high soviet official.

The debate today was mainly a repetition of the old arguments, pro and con, but an unusual feature which seems to add mystery to mystery, was the reading of a curious signed document by Premier Baldwin, purporting to explain how the letter reached both government and the Daily Mail, which published it, and at the same time completely exonerating government officials of any hand in imparting it to the press.

The man concerned in this new mystery—named Imthurn—according to the prime minister, was seen by him today for the first time. He volunteered the statement he made, which in effect, was the Zinovieff letter came to his knowledge through another, an unnamed business friend. Imthurn said, that being actuated purely by patriotic motives and indignant at the attempt of the soviet to incite sedition in the British army and navy at a time when the British government, having concluded a treaty, was about to make a loan to the soviet government, he decided to impart the letter to both the government and the electorate through the press. This he did by giving a copy of the letter indirectly to the Daily Mail. He declared that he had never received any money or reward.

J. L. COX, ATLANTA, BURIED IN GRIFFIN

Griffin, Ga., March 19.—(Special.) James L. Cox, of Atlanta, former well known Griffin man, was buried Monday afternoon in Oak Hill cemetery here, following funeral services from the Capitol View Baptist church in Atlanta. Mr. Cox died Saturday night in Atlanta from effects of an automobile accident last August, from which he never recovered.

Mr. Cox was former alderman of Griffin and was well known among a wide circle of friends. He operated the Cox foundry here until about four years ago when he moved to Atlanta.

He is survived by his widow; two daughters, Mrs. F. E. Cox and Mrs. J. R. Jinks, of Griffin; one sister, Mrs. E. Whitfield, of Hampton, and three brothers, W. H. Cox and G. W. Cox, of Griffin, and B. H. Cox, of LaGrange.

WOMEN TO MEET TODAY TO PERFECT "CLEANUP" PLANS

Plans for an extensive clean-up and paint-up campaign in Atlanta, during some week early in April, will be discussed and perfected at a meeting at 10:30 o'clock this morning at the Atlanta Woman's club, it was announced by Mrs. J. R. Little, chairman. The clean-up program was originally planned for the week of March 21-28, but was postponed.

Several meetings at which were discussed various phases of the city code relative to the disposal of refuse and garbage, have been held, and it was at those meetings that the clean-up week plan had its inception.

HAPEVILLE COUNCIL NAMES F. O. WOOD NEW POLICE CHIEF

F. O. Wood, an officer of the Hapeville police department for the past few months, has been elected by the city council of Hapeville to the position of chief of police to succeed L. T. Melton, who recently resigned, it was learned Monday.

Former Chief Melton was chief for the past five years and was regarded as a highly efficient officer. He was severely injured in February, 1926, and his assistant, E. J. Winn, was instantly killed when their automobile turned over while pursuing a liquor runner.

MRS. NELLIE ROSS, FORMER WYOMING GOVERNOR, DEPARTS

Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, former governor of Wyoming, who spent the week-end here, left Atlanta early Monday morning for Gainesville, where she delivered a lecture Monday night to students of Brenau college. She is on a tour of the southeast and is scheduled to appear in North Carolina for a series of lectures during the latter part of the week.

During her brief stay in the city Mrs. Ross was the guest of former Governor and Mrs. Clifford Walker, and was taken on a motor trip around the city and to Stone mountain.

Charged With Selling Stolen Goods to Cop, Man Is Lodged in Jail

B. R. Jackson, of 332 Eugenia street, charged with attempting to dispose of alleged stolen goods to City Detective S. C. Tuck, Monday morning is now in the city jail awaiting trial. Detective Tuck suspected that cigarettes offered him were stolen and arrested Jackson on Piedmont avenue. Police say that a number of other articles taken from Jackson's person were identified as having been stolen from Beatty's lunch room.

Policeman and Two Bandits in Hospital After Gun Battle

Miami, Fa., March 19.—(AP)—An early morning pistol duel between two alleged bandits and Miami Beach policemen sent the two bandits and one policeman to the hospital today, all probably fatally wounded.

Patrolman David C. Beardon, 24, of Miami Beach, received bullet wounds above the heart and in the stomach. Mike Nesbit, 28, of Chicago, is dying from his wounds, hospital attendants said this morning and Tommy Nolan, alias Beck, of Miami, his confederate, has two bullet wounds in the head.

The pistol battle ensued early this morning when police intercepted Nesbit and Nolan driving a stolen sedan from Fort Lauderdale where they had burglarized an automobile agency Sunday night, rifling the cash drawer and stealing a new automobile.

Council Orders Probe of Charge Against Couch

Abandoning his plan to demand a "sweeping investigation of every contract let for projects under the $8,000,000 bond issue for public improvements on the theory that the people of Atlanta might construe it as an attempt to throw a smoke screen about me in connection with the malicious charges which have been directed against me," Alderman J. Allen Couch, of the fifth ward, Monday afternoon asked council to name a special committee of five to investigate purchase of the Haygood-State school merger site to "clear my name of the claim that I made $7,000 in commissions on the deal." Council passed the paper without a dissenting vote.

Mr. Couch intimated that after the findings of the special committee are filed with council, he would proceed with his previously announced intention to demand a thorough probe of all contracts which have been let with a view of ascertaining whether any members of city council, the school board or the bond commission have been financially or otherwise interested in them.

Mayor Pro Tem. Claude Ashley named Councilman John A. White, of the fourth ward, as chairman of the investigating body. Councilmen Ellis B. Barrett, of the fifth; Ben T. Huiet, of the third; George Lyle, of the eleventh, and Raleigh Drennon, of the ninth, will serve as members.

Under authority of the resolution the committee is empowered to issue subpoenas duces tecum, and to require the appearance of witnesses and to interrogate them under oath.

Mr. Couch's demand for a "complete and thorough investigation" is the result of charges preferred against him March 12 by Dr. R. M. Eubanks, president of the Atlanta board of education, who declared that Mr. Couch stated he was to make $7,000 on commissions from the purchase of the site which was bought. Mr. Couch was alleged to have made the announcement when he insisted on purchase of the tract.

Mr. Couch denied the assertion, and declared on the floor of the Atlanta board of education, of which he is a member by virtue of the fact that he is chairman of the school committee of city council, that the charge was "a malicious lie."

Mr. White announced Monday night that he will call his committee together in a day or two.

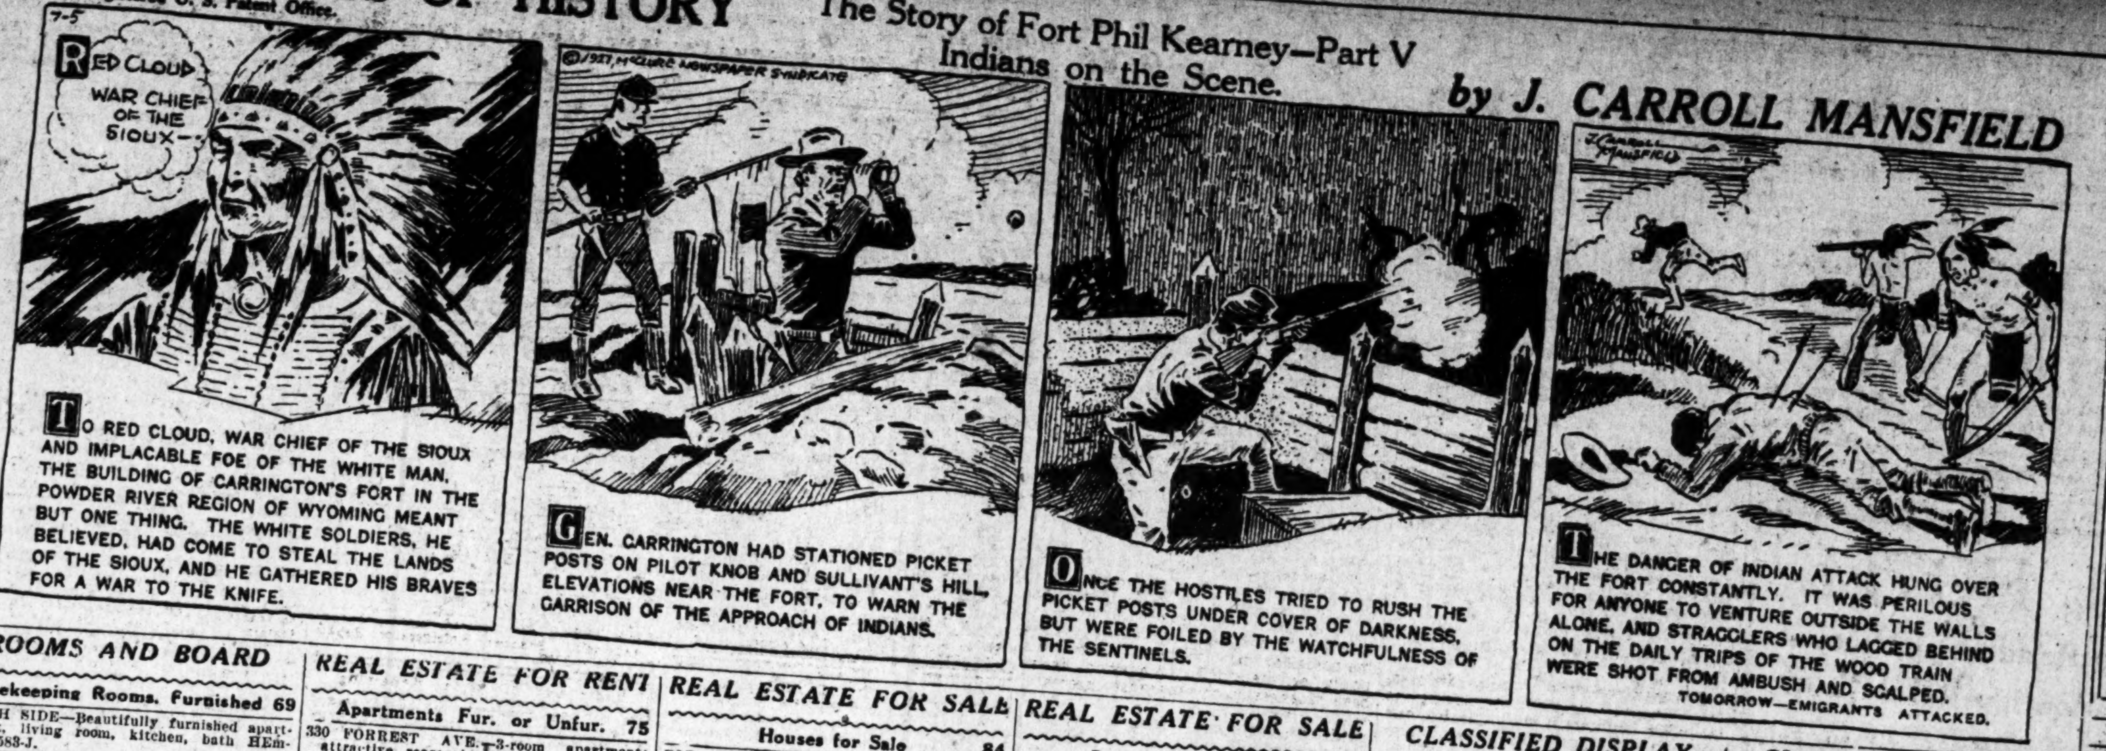
The Story of Fort Phil Kearney—Part V

Indians on the Scene.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD



7-5
RED CLOUD
WAR CHIEF OF THE SIOUX
TO RED CLOUD, WAR CHIEF OF THE SIOUX AND IMPLACABLE FOE OF THE WHITE MAN, THE BUILDING OF CARRINGTON'S FORT IN THE POWDER RIVER REGION OF WYOMING MEANT BUT ONE THING. THE WHITE SOLDIERS, HE BELIEVED, HAD COME TO STEAL THE LANDS OF THE SIOUX, AND HE GATHERED HIS BRAVES FOR A WAR TO THE KNIFE.
©1927, McCLURE NEWSPAPER SYNDICATE
GEN. CARRINGTON HAD STATIONED PICKET POSTS ON PILOT KNOB AND SULLIVANT'S HILL, ELEVATIONS NEAR THE FORT, TO WARN THE GARRISON OF THE APPROACH OF INDIANS.
ONCE THE HOSTILES TRIED TO RUSH THE PICKET POSTS UNDER COVER OF DARKNESS, BUT WERE FOILED BY THE WATCHFULNESS OF THE SENTINELS.
J. CARROLL MANSFIELD
THE DANGER OF INDIAN ATTACK HUNG OVER THE FORT CONSTANTLY. IT WAS PERILOUS FOR ANYONE TO VENTURE OUTSIDE THE WALLS ALONE, AND STRAGGLERS WHO LAGGED BEHIND ON THE DAILY TRIPS OF THE WOOD TRAIN WERE SHOT FROM AMBUSH AND SCALPED.

TOMORROW—EMIGRANTS ATTACKED.

WILLIAM T. MURPHY IS BURIED IN GRIFFIN

Griffin, Ga., March 19.—Funeral services for William T. Murphy, prominent Griffin business man, who died Sunday, were held from the home Monday afternoon, the Rev. Horace Smith, pastor of the First Methodist church; the Rev. L. M. Latimer, of the First Baptist church, and the Rev. O. K. Cull, of the Christian church, officiating. Interment was in Oak Hill cemetery.

Mr. Murphy, who was 53 years old, had been critically ill for several weeks. He was one of the best known business men in Griffin and was prominent in secret orders. He was a member of the First Methodist church. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ethel Lewis Murphy; one son, Lewis Murphy, both of Griffin, and two brothers, George Murphy, of Atlanta, and Edward Murphy, of College Park.

Dr. Crossfield Starts Series At First Baptist

The Rev. R. H. Crossfield, pastor of the First Christian church, of Birmingham, delivered a sermon Monday before a capacity house, launching the fourth week of the six-week union noon day services being held at the First Baptist church every day at 12:15 o'clock except Saturday. His subject was "Is Religion Obsolete?"

Dr. Crossfield has held some of the most important pastorates of the Christian church, and is widely known throughout the United States as a brilliant speaker. He was at one time president of the Transylvania college, Lexington, Ky., and of the Williams-Wood college, Fulton, Mo. He will speak each day at the services.

These meetings are being sponsored by the Evangelical Ministers' association and the Atlanta Christian council, of which James Morton is executive secretary, and are attracting wide attention. Practically every Protestant church in Atlanta is participating in these meetings.

Many of the city's most prominent ministers, including Dr. C. R. Stauffer, pastor of the First Christian church; Dr. W. W. Memminger, rector of All Saints' Episcopal church; Dr. W. M. Faust, chairman of the committee on church cooperation and pastor of the Gordon Street Baptist church, and many others are cooperating in these services.

Dr. Paul E. Lineback, musical director of the First Christian church is in charge of the singing for the entire week, with Mrs. Arthur McCrary of the Gordon Street Baptist church at the piano.

Dr. Crossfield's subjects for the week are: Today, "Formal and Vital Religion"; Wednesday, "Religion of Forgiveness"; Thursday, "Religion for the Shadows," and Friday, "Religion for the Afterwhile."

MAN IS SLIGHTLY INJURED BY AUTO; YOUTH BADLY HURT

Earl Brimer, of 971 Dunning street, was treated at Grady hospital Monday afternoon for slight injuries received when he was struck down by an automobile at the intersection of Spring and Marietta streets. Patrolman W. C. Hightower investigated but was unable to secure the name of the driver of the automobile, which had left the scene before police arrived.

Clayborn Harwell, 14, 1220 DeKalb avenue, was seriously injured early Monday night when knocked from his bicycle by an automobile, the driver of which has not been identified by police. The accident occurred at DeKalb avenue and Elmira street. The youth was treated at Grady hospital and then admitted to the ward for further treatment and observation.

A negro woman, Sophia Hughey, of 23 Felton Place, was slightly injured when knocked down by an automobile driven by Mrs. F. C. Shaefer, of the Biltmore hotel, late Monday afternoon. According to a report filed by Patrolman S. A. Greer, the negro woman was taken to her home by Mrs. Shaefer and requested that no case be made.
